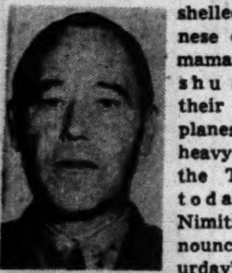
GUAM, July 30 [Monday]—(AP)—The American and British fleets shelled the Japanese city of Hamamatsu on Honshu and sent their carrier planes in a new heavy assault on the Tokyo area today. Adm. Nimitz also announced that Saturday's great inland sea raid knocked out at least 196 enemy surface vessels and 283 aircraft.



Rear Adm. D. Ramsey, "Invasion Begun"

The Japanese battle fleet was now a ghost navy, its heavy remnants wrecked for the duration of the war by the Saturday blow at Kure naval base which accounted for at least seven large warships.

Swinging away from that blasted area, Adm. Halsey took his 3d fleet and its British allies up to Hamamatsu in the darkness this morning and poured more than 1,000 tons of explosive shells into the industrial and rail center 120 miles southwest of Tokyo.

Three Miles from Coast

Then carrier planes from both the American and British fleets took off at dawn in a new strike against air fields, transport, and military installations around Tokyo.

Hamamatsu is not a seaport; it lies three miles from the coast. Its factories, which once turned out musical instruments, textiles, and light machinery, had been converted to airplane propellers, naval ammunition, and other weapons.

The city of 166,000 population is on the only double track railway line between Tokyo and Nagoya. Destruction of Hamamatsu's two large bridges, one east and one west of the town, would hamstring Japanese railroad transportation. The city was raided by B-29s April 30, May 19, and June 18.

[The bombardment severed an important railway line and blew up several bridges, Jack Mahon, Mutual Broadcasting company correspondent with the fleet, reported by radio. Buildings in and around Hamamatsu were set aflame and the big shells smashed one of Japan's largest airplane propeller factories, he added. Another broadcast said the shelling lasted 72 minutes and that the Japanese offered no opposition until after the ships had turned away. The bombardment was carried out at a distance of 6 miles.]

Included among prime targets in or around Hamamatsu are the imperial railroad shops—third largest rail repair center in the empire; the Toyokawa naval arsenal, and four air fields, one listed as a primary army air base.

Adm. Nimitz issued a new summary of destruction wrought in Saturday's onslaught against Kure. This damage was done:

The battleship Haruna, left beached and burning; the battleship Ise, apparently resting on the bottom in shallow water; the cruiser Aoba, silenced and her stern resting on the bottom; the cruiser Oyodo, lying on her side; an old, heavy cruiser, similarly capsized; explosions aboard an aircraft carrier that threw debris more than 1,000 feet high, and 33 enemy ships of various categories sunk, and 56 damaged, plus more than 100 barges, junks, and small craft damaged.

Gen. MacArthur in Manila announced that army Liberators from Okinawa which raided Kure also bombed the Haruna and a carrier. At Adm. Nimitz' headquarters it was explained that the blows by army and navy pilots were coördinated and that army Liberators scored their hits about 3 p. m. The

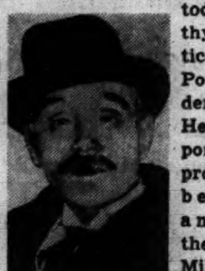
SUZUKI IGNORES ALLIED DEMAND FOR SURRENDER

San Francisco, Cal., July 29 (AP)—Japanese Premier Suzuki scorned today as unworthy of official notice the allied Potsdam surrender ultimatum. He asserted Nipponese aircraft production had been increased, and tossed into the laps of the Mikado's strategists complete responsibility for the defense of the empire.



Premier Suzuki

Radio Tokyo extensively quoted Suzuki's statement, but a scheduled broadcast the premier was supposed to have made last night to the Japanese nation on the "coming battle of the streets" failed to materialize.

Suzuki claimed that the Potsdam ultimatum was "merely an expansion of the Cairo declaration" and said no notice of it will be taken. He brushed over with a single sentence questions as to defense against the heavy air-naval attacks.

"I leave this with absolute confidence in the hands of our strategists," he asserted, shortly after proclaiming "there is no change whatsoever in the fundamental policy of our government to continue the prosecution of the war."

Plane production is "far above that anticipated," he said, but admitted that "should this production quota have been completed just a bit earlier, we would have avoided causing much worry to various circles."

Actual production was withheld as a military secret, but "if you think that it is in the several thousands, all in all, that is no mistake," Suzuki said.

The underground plants are connected by a long underground waterway, Suzuki explained, adding that close attention given to health of the workers had resulted in increased efficiency.

Promises More Food

The premier's statement followed similar expressions of scorn for the surrender ultimatum by Gen. Jiro Minanmi, president of the Political Association of Great Japan, and various unnamed "spokesmen" who charged the Potsdam pronouncement was issued as home propaganda to relieve the "war weariness" of the allied peoples.

Suzuki took notice of the recent 10 per cent cut in Japanese food rations, which he said was a measure to "prepare ourselves for a prolonged war," but promised his government would make every possible effort to increase the islands' food supply and "eventually to bring the quota back to its original figure."

Fishermen Face Draft

Japanese fishermen, on whom the empire has depended for a substantial portion of its food supply and who have largely been driven from the seas by American planes and ships, are the next occupational group which will be drafted into the people's combat corps, Radio Tokyo reported.

The fishermen would form an offshore patrol, scour the potential invasion areas for foodstuffs and in event of "extraordinary emergency" form part of the "army for national defense."

In line with their leaders' publicized statements rejecting the surrender declaration, Japanese stock market operators took new courage and securities on the Tokyo bourse "climbed sharply" yesterday.

SON'S ACT SAVES A FISHERMAN, IN LAKE 2 HOURS

For more than two hours yesterday Walter Parmley, 36, of 1912 Hovey st., Gary, a commercial fisherman, was tossed about like a cork in the lake a mile off East Chicago. He was hurled overboard from his tug which stalled in a heavy running sea. His son, Roy, 17, threw him a life preserver, to which he clung as he drifted away from the boat. Three members of the Indiana Harbor Boat club, Michael Magdo, Julius Forszt, and Henry Lovin, who sighted the stalled tug, picked up the fisherman and towed his boat ashore.

Jap Tells How Yanks Shot an Admiral Down

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN NORTHERN LUZON, July 29 (AP)—The mysterious death of Adm. Osoroku Yamamoto more than two years ago was partly clarified today by a captured Japanese war correspondent, who said American flyers outwitted Japanese escort planes and shot the admiral's bomber down over Shortland Island.

The correspondent, Shizuo Sugiura of the Tokyo Asahi, said the Japanese believed that American foreknowledge of the admiral's flight was responsible for his death. Yamamoto, commander of the Japanese combined fleets, had boasted that he would dictate peace in the White House.

Escort Leaves Him

In April, 1943, said Sugiura, Yamamoto flew from Truk to Rabaul and then to Shortland on an inspection tour in a navy bomber escorted by 30 fighters.

When the admiral's plane reached Shortland and began circling the air field, the fighter escort departed for Rabaul without waiting to see the actual landing. Just as the bomber came down, American planes shot the admiral down in flames.

Chin on His Sword

Yamamoto's charred body was found in the seat, leaning forward with his chin on his samurai sword, Sugiura said, and Tokyo papers published a picture of this death scene with the announcement that the admiral "died gallantly in action in southern regions while directing combat from a plane."

Actually, said the correspondent, the admiral's plane was wrecked without firing a shot at the Americans, who never have confirmed Yamamoto's death.

ARMY HELICOPTER LETS SCIENCE LOOK AT MEXICAN VOLCANO

MEXICO CITY, July 29 (AP)—A United States army helicopter has made 51 flights over Mexico's Paricutin volcano in the last two weeks, often within 300 feet of the crater's rim, to permit scientists to learn more about the volcano and the army more about helicopters.

Capt. George D. Colchagoff, Wright field, Ohio, who heads the joint "army air forces-United States committee to study Paricutin" mission, pronounced the undertaking a success, and said the flights will continue another week. Flight Officer Roy Beer, who pilots the helicopter, smiled: "Buzzing the crater with its frequent expulsions of red hot bombs accompanied by blinding ash and smoke isn't exactly what you'd call a picnic."

Many American and Mexican scientists have made observatory flights. Igor Sikorsky, helicopter manufacturer, also made trips.

FORD, 82 TODAY, SEES GREATEST PROSPERITY ERA

Detroit, Mich., July 29 (AP)—Henry Ford, who will be 82 tomorrow, asserted in a statement today that "the nation and the world are on the threshold of a prosperity and standard of living that never before was considered possible."

The industrialist planned to spend his birthday anniversary with Mrs. Ford at their home in near-by Dearborn. They will leave soon on their annual Great Lakes boat trip that will take them to the Huron mountains in the Lake Superior region.

"There are problems—human, economic and political—that must be solved," Ford said, adding:

"Employment hinges on the right of private industry to go forward unhampered. There must be more and more industry, more and more competition for greater excellence in quality. These will bring more and more employment."

RAIN ON JULY 29 CUSTOM SOAKS IN BIT DEEPER

Waynesburg, Pa., July 29 (AP)—The courthouse bell tolled 29 times at midnight--and a soaked gathering of the town faithful went home, satisfied that the July 29 tradition of rain had been upheld once again.

"We had a one-inch fall—the best ever," citizens reported.

The rain started shortly before midnight and continued at intervals thruout the night. The townspeople claim it has failed to rain here on July 29 only three times in 69 years.

Coppers Spoil Rattling Good Time by Cult

St. Charles, Va., July 29 [Special]—Venomous snakes by the dozens writhed, wriggled, and hissed—four of the rattlers were killed and others slithered to freedom—as state troopers, armed with clubs, broke up snake handling rites of religious cultists in remote and rocky Stone Creek valley today.

The troopers staged their assault on the snake fondling sect before an audience of 5,000 persons assembled outside a roped off arena where the ceremony took place.

Waving their clubs, the officers sailed in among the cultists as soon as the snakes made their appearance, which was toward the end of a day of hymn singing, cymbal beating, guitar playing, and spasmodic preaching.

Snakes Smuggled in Cage

The snakes came in a cage which one of the many preachers of the cult had smuggled into the arena in the luggage compartment of an automobile. Some were rattlesnakes and others were copperheads, both varieties noted for their deadliness.

A preacher pulled out a writhing double handful of serpents from the cage and was trying to pass them around as the troopers charged in. Many of the cultists hid them under their shirts.

During a half hour of pandemonium the troopers chased snake waving cultists around the arena. Two whom they captured they took to the road and made them shake out reptiles hidden in their clothing. Spectators moved nervously to their cars as freed snakes darted in all directions. Nobody was bitten.

Preachers Protest

The raid was staged in pursuance of an order by Gov. Colgate Darden that snake handling no longer will be permitted in Virginia. The troopers read to the cultists an opinion by Atty Gen. A. P. Staples that snake handling is illegal under a state law permitting the destruction of mad dogs or other animals considered dangerous to the public.

The preachers—most of them gaunt workers from the coal mines—protested vigorously that interference with their ceremony was a denial of religious freedom.

"They passed a law against us handling snakes in Kentucky and today there's more snake handling in Kentucky than in any other state," said Raymond Hays of Harlan county, Kentucky.

The Rev. Bill Parsons, a leader of the sect, was bitten on the head by a copperhead less than a week ago. A bit groggy, he was a participant in today's ceremony.

GEN. DE GAULLE LOSES FIGHT IN ASSEMBLY

Unicameral Plan of Left Wing Wins

PARIS, July 29 (AP)—The French consultative assembly overwhelmingly rejected Gen. de Gaulle's constitutional proposals tonight and adopted a left wing counterproposal to create a unicameral assembly which would draft a new French constitution and, while doing it, exercise complete authority over the executive.

Gen. de Gaulle

De Gaulle had proposed a national referendum on whether France should enact a new constitution or modify the constitution of 1875. Under his plan, if the electorate favored a new constitution, it would be asked whether it wanted the assembly to have complete sovereignty while it was drafting the constitution or whether it preferred to have the powers divided between the legislative and executive branches.

The assembly voted 210 to 19 against the De Gaulle plan in a sharp rebuke to the general soon after he had bluntly warned that he would "stick to his guns" in the controversy.

Threat to Quit Seen

Some delegates had construed his statement as a threat to resign if the assembly failed to support him. These delegates said the statement might also mean that he would force the dismissal of some members of the cabinet if his plan was defeated.

The assembly's actions are not binding upon the government since it is purely a consultative organization. Its plan provided for representation of French colonies in the projected legislature.

The votes were taken during an acrimonious session lasting until nearly midnight.

Opposed by Left Wing

The De Gaulle project stirred strong left wing opposition when it was submitted to the assembly for study.

De Gaulle declared a sovereign assembly would expose the nation to grave confusion and might imperil the entire democratic process.

"That is why," he said, "the government intends, after having listened to your recommendations—and you may be certain it will take them into account—to propose a provisional regulation of powers."

The regulation he suggested would be designed to prevent the former instability of French governments—he referred to a "cascade of ministries before the war"—with complete responsibility of the executive department to the legislative department, but under conditions recognizing the country's vital needs.

Sale of Baseball Players Cited by Nazis as Slavery

MAINZ, Germany, July 29 (AP)—Lt. John S. Hilliard of North Hollywood, Cal., said today that the Nazis cited the sale of players by American baseball clubs in teaching German school children that slavery still existed in the United States. Hilliard, a member of a military intelligence unit and former student at Heidelberg university, said numerous Germans had told him the story.

Ladies Quail at Whistles, Find They Got the Bird

Gloucester, N. J., July 29 (AP)—Police, investigating complaints that women driving past an intersection were continually whistled at, reported it was quails, not males. The police discovered a family of quail had set up housekeeping near the intersection.

Urged to Quit by Superiors; Loans Cited

BY WALTER TROHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 29—The war department announced tonight that Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the late President, has submitted an application asking his release from active duty. Gen. Roosevelt's financial transactions are under investigation by two congressional committees.

Brig. Gen. Roosevelt

The war department announcement came a few hours after THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE disclosed that Elliott had been advised to leave the army by his superiors. Elliott was told, THE TRIBUNE learned on unimpeachable authority, that the disclosure of his negotiation of huge loans while his father was in the White House and the subsequent settlement of the loans for a fraction of the sums advanced had brought discredit upon the service.

Plea Still to Be Acted On

Elliott's application for a release was received by the office of General of the Army Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces. The war department said the application has not yet been acted upon.

THE TRIBUNE had learned that Elliott was urged to take the graceful way out and submit his application for discharge on the grounds that he has served five years and accumulated some 278 points in that service.

Elliott debated the advice of his superiors in the family home on the Hudson river near Hyde Park, N. Y. It was reported that he encountered difficulty in taking this advice to leave the army because he has been unable to find a satisfactory post in civilian life.

Before the revelation of his "loans," he reportedly had more than a dozen attractive offers from various corporations. Since the congressional investigations have been under way offers have been withdrawn.

Transactions Not Explained

As a result, Elliott has been shaken by the publicity and the public reaction to his financial activities. At the war department it was reported he has been seeking to obtain a commission in the Canadian army.

Elliott has made no public explanation of his operations, nor has he volunteered any explanation to the house ways and means committee and the senate finance committee, which are investigating the loans.

The air forces have given Elliott no specific assignment since the nation learned seven weeks ago that he obtained a $200,000 loan from John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea company, in 1939 at a time when the corporation was encountering difficulties with the federal government and that Elliott settled the loan in 1942 for $4,000.

Since that time other loans made by Elliott in connection with the

Opposes Settling of Americans Abroad

Hints Red-Jap War

New York, July 29—Edward R. Murrow, CBS correspondent, broadcast from London today:

"There is no news from Potsdam except that I believe that one of the principal negotiators has stated that his country will go to war with Japan—and soon."

POTSDAM, Germany, July 29 (AP)—President Truman expressed opposition today to bringing American soldiers' wives and families overseas, declaring he did not want Americans to "settle in Europe."

The problem of soldiers' separated families can best be solved by getting the soldiers back home, Mr. Truman said in an interview with the army newspaper Stars and Stripes. He said the American occupation of Europe is temporary but must be continued until there is no danger that withdrawal would jeopardize peace.

In the meantime, Mr. Truman declared, the army will continue its policy of bringing low point men overseas to replace those with higher point scores.

President Truman observed the Sabbath by attending a morning Baptist service conducted by two battlefield chaplains of the 2d armored division. After that his day was governed by business demands.

Big 3 Work "Progressing"

The Big Three entered the final round of their world planning at Potsdam. An official statement said the "work of the conference is progressing satisfactorily."

It was believed that virtually all the major questions on the agenda have been thoroly discussed by Mr. Truman, Premier Stalin, and the new British prime minister, Clement Attlee.

The President declined to predict how soon Japan would collapse, Stars and Stripes said, remarking:

"No man is smart enough to answer that one."

Referring to the Potsdam ultimatum to the Japanese, Truman said he was "doing my part" by offering the Japanese a last chance to surrender.

Mr. Truman said that returning American service men wanting work would have "no serious trouble." Employers wanted to coöperate in rehiring veterans, he asserted, and there also was government machinery to see that they do so.

However, the President added, "it is still up to the individual" to make his own effort to get resettled.

Mr. Truman described Gen. Bradley's appointment as head of the veterans' administration as a move to modernize policies of the bureau to meet returning veterans' needs.

Promises "Square Break"

The President scoffed at any notion that veterans have to be "readjusted" to civilian life and said they do not want to be "coddled."

"All they want is a square break, and that's what they're going to get," the President said.

He remarked that soldiers are "a lot more level headed than some of the people who represent them."

Mr. Truman, recalling the first World war when he was an artillery captain in Europe, said he wanted to go home when the war was over, just like American soldiers in Europe now.

"You fellows this time have the same gripes and the same problems we had the last time," he declared. "As a matter of fact, even the songs of this war are carry-overs from World War I."

Report Stop in England

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 29 — President Truman will make a brief stop at a British port en route home, the Sunday Express said today. So he can pay his respects to Britain and still get home quickly to report to congress on the Potsdam parley, Truman probably will be met at the port by King Geo the Express said.

REDS' DESERTION OF WHITE HOUSE WAS EXPECTED

Truman Predicted Break Several Weeks Ago

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 29—The break of American communists with the federal administration had been predicted by President Truman weeks ago, it was learned today.

White House intimates reported that the chief executive had privately forecast weeks ago that the communists would be the first to end the era of good feeling which marked his succession to the presidency.

The break came yesterday at the close of a three day secret session in New York City of communists with the adoption of a resolution assailing the Truman administration as "a Democratic-bourgeois government which tends in direction away from the more democratic forces in the Roosevelt-Labor-Democratic coalition and more toward its less democratic groups, trying also to conciliate even the reactionary enemies of this coalition."

Indicated May 22

This denunciation of the Truman administration came as no surprise in Washington.

Within 40 days of the death of the late President on April 12, communists indicated a break with Washington was impending at the call from Moscow for an end to communist coöperation with the administration and a return to the doctrine of proletarian revolution.

On May 22 in an editorial on the then tense Anglo Russian situation at Trieste, the Daily Worker in assailing former Prime Minister Churchill's tory policies, complained of American support of the British.

Demanded Action

"Is the state department now mustering full support to the Churchill policy, in complete contradiction to the policy of President Roosevelt?" The Daily Worker asked.

"Deeds are the measure of policy. Up to now President Truman has claimed that he needs time to study the many complex problems of foreign policy. But this study cannot be too long. Policy is being made in action, and as long as such policy-making continues without contradiction from the President the whole administration shares in the responsibility for what happens. It is necessary that the American people strongly urge President Truman to restore the Roosevelt policy to its rightful place as the national policy of the country."

On May 24 Earl Browder, then leader of the Communists, warned in a radio broadcast that President Roosevelt's policies were being abandoned by the administration.

FOSTER HEADS PARTY

New York, July 29 [Special]—William Z. Foster, 64, Presidential candidate of the Communist party in 1924, 1928, and 1932, became the national chairman of the party early today when the national Communist convention made public its new slate of officers.

Foster replaced Earl Browder, the party's titular leader since 1929. A Communist spokesman said Browder would remain a member of the party.

Under the new setup, the party's policies will be directed by a secretariat of four and a national board of 11. The secretariat includes Foster, a New Yorker; John Williamson, Ohio, and Eugene Dennis and Robert Thompson, both of New York.

The national board includes those in the secretariat and Alderman Benjamin J. Davis Jr. of New York, Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, Jack Strachel, Louis Weinstock, Irving Potash, Steve Nelson, and John Lawrence, Negro leader of the National Maritime union.

Besides Browder, those dropped from the national board were Robert Minor, former acting general secretary of the party; James Ford, Browder's running mate in Presidential campaigns, and Ray Hansbrough of Chicago.

Unless there is company, one radish from the war garden makes a hearty order for the family of Henry Gerschultz, 5416 S. Honore st., and one turnip keeps company with a lot of ham hocks. Still growing, the radishes are two feet long, above and below ground, and are six inches around. This is the third year of the garden. Gerschultz, who pretends to be nothing but an amateur, said he used the same type of processed fertilizer each year and that may be the reason for the gigantic yield this season.

MANDEL'S KIN TO TAKE STAND AGAINST PETAIN

PARIS, July 29 (AP)—The daughter of a murdered French minister will be called to testify against Marshal Petain tomorrow when the trial of the former chief of the Vichy state enters its second week.

She is Alice Mandel, daughter of Ex-Colonial Minister Georges Mandel. Michel Clemenceau, son of France's famous World War I. leader, yesterday indirectly accused Petain of the responsibility for Mandel's murder.

Petain is charged with having betrayed France thru intelligence with the Germans and having plotted against the French republic.

GREEN JUSTIFIES PUBLIC WELFARE FUND INCREASES

Urges Saving Citizens Ahead of Dollars

Appropriation increases for the Illinois department of public welfare and other agencies are justified by higher cost of government and the expansion of the department for care and rehabilitation of war veterans, Gov. Green said yesterday in a state-wide broadcast from Chicago.

"We in Illinois do not intend to evaluate the security of our citizens only on the basis of dollars that might be saved when the saving of those citizens from suffering is our greatest concern," he said.

The governor said the state is now responsible for the daily living of 44,000 inmates of the state's 23 welfare institutions and that an upward trend in hospital population can be expected.

Must Not Deny Necessities

"We must accept the inescapable fact that unless we adjust expenditures accordingly, many helpless people will be denied even the most ordinary necessities," he said.

Gov. Green said the newly created Illinois veterans' commission has been placed in charge of guidance of veterans and their families but that the department of public welfare still holds "by far the most humane obligation to our fighters."

"Many men and women already returned from the armed services are wounded and shaken in mind and morale," he said. "There will be many more of these before complete victory is won, and their restoration to society, to the opportunity to work and earn, is our most pressing veteran problem."

10% Budget Increase

The governor said that while the entire budget of all agencies was increased by 94 million dollars over the total appropriation for the last two years, the budgeted costs charged against general revenue are increased by only 45 million dollars, or less than 10 per cent.

"As your own monthly bills will tell you, this is much lower than the national average percentage increase in the costs of commodities, materials, and personal services," he said.

'MYSTERY' GIVES POLICE JITTERS OVER GAMBLING

BY JAMES DOHERTY

Some mysterious influence was reported yesterday to be working on Chicago's police captains. But whether its object is pro-gambling or anti-gambling was not determined. It had the Chicago Crime commission, which is anti-gambling, guessing, and an investigation is under way.

A few weeks ago the crime commission threw a scare into several police captains who had been at least careless about a reported resumption of gambling in their districts. An implied threat of trial board proceedings against careless captains was contained in correspondence between Virgil W. Peterson, operating director of the commission, which is maintained by Chicago business interests, and Walter L. Gregory, chairman of the city civil service commission.

Some Reported Worried

The scare was said to have been effective as a gambling deterrent—what gambling there was, took to cover or stopped altogether. Some captains may have been worried, but none would admit it. Nothing happened and soon all concerned were breathing easier again, so it was said.

Then came the letters, supposedly from Elmer L. Williams, an ex-minister who worked as a reformer here for thirty years. Williams had printed and distributed hundreds of gambling house lists, and eventually he took to publishing a pamphlet he called Lightnin'. It had not been issued for several years.

A few days ago the city's police captains received a bit of printed matter under the heading of Lightnin', and with the name of Williams as its editor and publisher. A leaflet offered new, or presumably new, lists of addresses at which gambling of all sorts could be found.

Addresses Familiar But Old

Some of the captains said the addresses given were phony, or that it had been years since they were gambling houses. The crime commission, which also received the lists, said they looked familiar, but old.

Inquiry at Williams' home brought the information he has been in California for several years, and intends to stay there. His son, Monroe P. Williams, was said to be working in a war plant, and to have no connection with the leaflet circulation.

Then it was learned there had been guarded calls made to some police officials, saying Williams was on the warpath, but it would be easy to stop him. There were other calls, too, and if they are repeated the crime commission would like to hear of them. They were reported to suggest that the crime commission, too, could be handled.

Jones Settled One Loan

Negotiation of the settlement of Elliott's loans reportedly was begun by Harry Hopkins, one time No. 1 White House intimate, supposedly at the direction of the late President.

Hopkins appealed to Jesse Jones, then secretary of commerce, and RFC chairman, to untangle Elliott's finances. Jones settled the $200,000 Hartford loan for $4,000, which he is believed to have advanced from his own pocket.

The articles of war provide that any officer "convicted of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman" shall be dismissed from the service. An official war department manual states that instances of violation of this article include "dishonorable neglect to pay debts."

Gen. Roosevelt, who has seen action in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, Britain, and France in command of photographic reconnaissance units, has received the distinguished flying cross, the air medal, and the Legion of Merit. He also was made a commander of the order of the British empire for work in the North African campaign.

Pilot on 30 Missions.

At the time he was commissioned brigadier general he had 1,100 flying hours, including 300 on combat missions. He piloted his own craft on 30 combat missions.

Being a storm center is not new to him. He was elevated to general officer rank last Feb. 12 hard on the heels of a congressional storm that broke over an "A" priority assigned his dog Blaze.

The dog, which had been flown from England, was shipped from Washington to Roosevelt's actress bride, Faye Emerson, in California. The priority caused three service men to be "bumped" from the army transport plane at Memphis, Tenn.

Entered Army as Captain

Roosevelt went into uniform Sept. 23, 1940, more than a year before Pearl Harbor, when he was commissioned an air corps captain. That action, too, led to criticism on Capitol hill and elsewhere. The contention was that the President's son had been favored over other young men who were being drafted into the army.

The newly commissioned captain shortly afterward sought to resign and register for the draft, saying he thought his being commissioned might injure the selective service program. His commanding officer, however, declined to accept the resignation, saying Roosevelt's services were needed.

32 Army Men Injured in Air Transport Crash

Hill Field, Utah, July 29 (AP)—Thirty-two army men were injured, three of them seriously, when a C-46 transport plane crashed and burned during a takeoff at the Cheyenne, Wyo., airport this morning. The ship was returning to Stout field, Indianapolis, after participating in an air show yesterday.

VETS PROMISED ACTION ON JOB SENIORITY BILL

Measure Would Allow Credit for Service

BY ORVILLE DWYER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Detroit, Mich., July 29—Veterans of World War II. have been promised congressional action on jobs by Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] when the house reconvenes in October, Carl J. Schoeninger, chairman of the labor relations committee of Veterans of Foreign Wars, announced today.

Carl J. Schoeninger

Schoeninger was commander in chief of the V. F. W. last year. He told Robert J. Kelter of Chicago, president of the United Veterans of World War II., that the V. F. W. started action to get jobs for veterans of the present war in February, 1944. Schoeninger is an electrical engineer for the city of Detroit.

Kelter and Ben Grossman, vice president of the United Veterans, are in Detroit trying to get the CIO United Automobile Workers' union to liberalize its attitude toward discharged fighting men who seek jobs.

The bill in congress on which Schoeninger says Rayburn has promised action is one introduced by Rep. Knudson [R., Minn.] July 13. It was referred to the house military affairs committee.

Congress Vets' Hope

After his experience with the unions CIO, AFL, and the railroad brotherhoods—Schoeninger, in an interview, said he is convinced the only help for the men who fought World War II. lies in congress. The officials of the automotive council for war production, composed of 550 companies, agree with him, as do many of the automobile company officials.

Rep. Knudson's bill provides:

That each discharged veteran receive a certificate of seniority credit for the time he spent in military or naval service since Sept. 16, 1940. Every sixth day in service would count a day and one-half and every holiday two days.

That every employer "for the purpose of hiring, discharging, laying off, rehiring, promoting, or retiring employes" would be required to recognize the seniority credit of any certificate holding veteran, provided that the veteran demonstrates he is qualified for the position to which the seniority credit is applied.

Good Only Once

That if the holder of the certificate leaves the position which he obtained thru it after 90 days on the job, he may not use the certificate for seniority purposes again.

That no certificate holder would be required during the one year life of the certificate to become a member of or pay dues to any labor organization.

"In order to secure a fair break for the returning service man, the V. F. W. in the summer of 1944 initiated conferences with labor leaders looking to voluntary recognition by labor unions of the right to seniority for military or naval service," Schoeninger said. "On July 25, 1944, the AFL, CIO, and V. F. W. effected such an agreement, but in practice local unions have failed to grant seniority credit for the purpose of permitting a veteran to get a job. In a few unions, the seniority credits apply after the veteran has obtained a job and served a probationary period."

The V. F. W. will press for early enactment of the Knudson bill, Omar B. Ketchum, national legislative representative of the organization, said.

Chicagoland GIs Make French Kids Happy a Day

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 30 [Monday]—Thanks to Sergeants Bernard Thurkow of Chicago and Mike Ross of Jackson, Mich., children of the French town of Merville had a happy Bastille day, the army paper Stars and Stripes said today. When the Chicagolanders saw children begging their parents for coins to ride a merry-go-round at a carnival they got their colleagues of the 9th air force 44th depot group to chip in to buy the contrivance for the day.

It was the first marriage for the singer and the second for Dehn, executive head of the Defense Housing corporation, Los Angeles. Dehn was divorced in 1944 by Socialite Elizabeth Kip after six years of marriage.

DRAFT DEFERRED FOREMAN FACES WRATH OF UNION

Detroit, Mich., July 29 [Special]—A 30 year old foreman in the plant of the Revere Copper and Brass company here, who has had two draft deferments and is applying for a third, will come to work tomorrow, if at all, on a "travel at your own risk" basis.

Nine hundred plant workers, members of local 174 of the CIO United Automobile Workers' union, who have been on strike since Thursday because of the foreman and his draft immunity, voted today to come back to work tomorrow. But they said in a resolution that "the union shall assume no responsibility for the safety of this foreman if he enters the plant."

The strike grew out of an argument Thursday morning between the foreman, who is married but has no children, and a plant worker. The foreman assertedly boasted of his two draft deferments and expressed confidence in getting his third. The worker, father of two sons killed in the war, resented the remarks and an altercation ensued.

News of the incident spread among the workers, who streamed out of the plant. Work has been at a standstill. Both union and company officials refused to disclose the name of the foreman.

WAR PLANT IDLE 2D DAY AS 3,700 CARRY ON STRIKE

The Republic Steel company plants in South Chicago remained closed yesterday for the second day following a strike of 3,700 employes who walked out in protest over the company's failure to promote a worker from second to first helper on a tilting furnace. The worker, a company representative said, demanded he be given all vacant turns as first helper but the company was unable to do so because of varying shifts. The strike started Friday with the walkout of 21 men. Pickets later kept other workers, nearly all of them members of the United Steel Workers of America [CIO], from entering the plant.

BATTLE LESSONS PAST, VETERANS LEARN FARMING

BY BEN MARKLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Fort Custer, Mich., July 29—There's a firing range on the west edge of Fort Custer's grounds, but the cracking of rifles isn't heard any more. Where bulls-eye targets used to stand are rows of field corn, and what used to be the range house now holds tractors and harrows instead of guns and ammunition.

Some of the infantrymen who learned to shoot on the firing range have made a round trip from here to the Siegfried line, and now they're learning the fundamentals of farming instead of the intricacies of the Garand rifle.

More than 1,200 wounded veterans, after treatment at the Percy Jones hospital center and other army medical centers, have voluntarily attended classes in animal husbandry, crop farming, and care of farm machinery as part of their reconditioning treatment.

7,000 Receiving Treatment

Fort Custer, thru which thousands of men passed on their way to war, is headquarters of the Percy Jones center, where more than 7,000 combat veterans are receiving medical care.

At the disposal of these veterans is 600 acres of farm land, including space for garden crops, field crops, and pasture lands. There are 16 peach and apple orchards and a vineyard in which they learn details of pruning, spraying, and harvesting fruit crops. Their instructors are two officers and 10 enlisted men, five of whom are graduates of agricultural colleges. The school property includes 10 tractors, six plows, discs, harrows, blade terracers, and one of the new nine-tined tillers for use in "plowless farming."

Lt. Gordon Sears assistant agricultural department officer of the school, is a former Anderson, Ind., farm boy who has a master's degree in agricultural economics. He left a civilian job as a Purdue university instructor to teach wounded veterans here, and insists the enthusiasm of these part time farmers compares favorably with the interest displayed by students in agricultural colleges.

Classes 10 Hours Weekly

The veterans, most of whom soon will be discharged as a result of war injuries, attend classes two hours a day, five days a week, for six weeks. Many amputees are among the students, and Lt. Sears said a man with an artificial right leg can operate a tractor satisfactorily because he needs only the left leg to operate the clutch. A veteran needs but one arm to steer a tractor, but is handicapped in using the hydraulic lift handles on the new type tractors if the right arm is artificial.

Most of the men attending the agricultural classes are former farmers, but a surprising number of city boys have chosen these classes instead of courses in radio, mechanics, photography, music, art, and other subjects in the list of 23 courses.

For example, Pvt. Bernard Bottum, 4139 N. Damen av., Chicago, a precision grinder in civilian life, was one of 12 men studying tractor mechanics here yesterday. Bottum, who was wounded Feb. 27 near Prum, Germany, expects to be discharged from service soon.

He Hopes to Own a Farm

"I'm going back to my regular work," he said, "but some day I hope to own a farm of my own, and this training will come in handy."

Pvt. Kenneth Johnson of Harrisburg, Saline county, Illinois, is one of Bottum's classmates. His mother, Mrs. Elva Van Meter, and his stepfather, Willard Van Meter, owned a 157 acre farm near Harrisburg. Both parents died while their son was overseas, and he will return to the farm. Johnson suffered shrapnel wounds in the Hurtgen forest Dec. 20, and is still under treatment. On days that he doesn't have to report to the hospital, he spends eight hours, instead of the required two, attending agricultural classes.

Many of the vegetables harvested from project gardens are served in the hospital's mess halls. More than 160 bushels of peas were harvested in June and early July, and if the soldiers aren't tired of radishes by this time it's no fault of the agricultural students. They've delivered 150 bushels of radishes to camp kitchens. The harvest of snap beans will start this week.

5,000 Tomato Plants

In addition, the men are cultivating sweet corn, five acres of late potatoes, and 5,000 tomato plants in addition to cabbages, broccoli, beets, carrots, onions, melons, peppers, and eight other common vegetables.

Lt. Sears explained that the convalescent soldiers do little manual labor aside from that necessary in learning to drive tractors, handle new implements, and other specialized tasks.

"We have German prisoners of war to do all the hoeing, harvesting, and other back breaking jobs," he said. "Our own men seem to enjoy driving tractors in the field, and army doctors say this sort of work is good for them because it helps them relax. We also urge them to do such jobs as spraying fruit trees, pruning grape vines, dusting vegetables, repairing implements, and other tasks which help them to learn specific jobs."

BRITISH WORKMEN TO HELP RUSSIANS BUILD LABOR FRONT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 29—A British labor delegation soon will go to Moscow to help build up a united working class movement, it was announced today by Prof. Harold Laski, chairman of the Labor party.

Laski, who during Britain's recent bitter election campaign was portrayed by Conservative publicists as the power behind the throne, said: "Churchill is in the political coffin he had prepared for me. He has committed political suicide."

The Labor party chairman also declared: "At the next general election in 1950 we must end the Tory [Conservative] party as we've ended the Liberal party at this one."

'JUNIOR' HOME FROM BATTLE; SAYS HE IS 14

Boston, Mass., July 29 (AP) — A Texan with two battle stars and the Purple Heart, who told newsmen that he was only 14, was among the 1,963 officers and enlisted men aboard the S. S. Claymount Victory which docked at the army base today.

Pvt. Robert Kelso

Pvt. Robert Kelso of 2607 St. Emmanuel st., Houston, called Junior by his mates returning from the European theater of operations, told reporters that he went to a Houston draft board July 28, 1944, declared himself 18 that day, and volunteered.

He said he went to Fort Sill, Okla., for training before his mother discovered that he was in the army and not at a Y. M. C. A. camp.

"Mom was going to report me to army authorities but dad fixed everything," he said smiling.

So Pvt. Kelso fought in France and Germany with the 342d armored field artillery and was bayoneted while "mopping up" Opperhopen, Germany. He was hospitalized six weeks.

15th Air Force Men Back

New York, July 29 (AP)—The transport Argentina brought home 5,849 officers and troops from Europe today, most of them members of the 15th air force. An additional 87 men arrived on four other ships — the Stephen Mallory, Sea Adder, Sun, and Saturn. Among those on the Saturn was Staff Sgt. Sherwood Lee of 636 E. 41st st., Chicago. Four more ships carrying 641 troops are due to dock tomorrow.

SHIPS BOMBARD JAPAN; PLANES HIT TOKYO AREA

Fleet Hurls 1,000 Tons at Hamamatsu

283 Planes Bagged

A total of 138 enemy aircraft was destroyed and 145 damaged.

Only 19 of the enemy plane losses were in the air, the remainder being caught on the ground.

Most of the damage done was by carrier planes of the 3d fleet, which struck Kure, while British planes ranged far and wide against enemy shipping and installations from Kyushu thru the Inland sea and over southern Honshu.

American successes included all the blows against the Japanese heavy warships, destruction of three submarines and one medium freighter and damage to one escort carrier, seven destroyers or destroyer escorts, nine medium freighters, eight small freighters and 14 smaller vessels, plus 19 enemy planes shot down, 111 destroyed on the ground and 119 damaged on the ground.

British Sink Destroyer

British carrier planes were credited with sinking one enemy destroyer, two oilers, nine small freighters and 17 junks; damaging three destroyers, two destroyer escorts, two submarines, seven medium freighters, two small freighters, an oiler and 100 odd barges, junks and luggers, and destroying eight enemy planes on the ground and damaging 26.

It was before daylight when the powerful force which included the American battleship Massachusetts, the British battleship King George V, the American heavy cruiser Quincy, the British cruiser Newfoundland, and the American destroyers Abbot and Hale, shelled Hamamatsu, a city of 166,000 which already had been badly hit by three Super Fortress raids, the most recent on June 18. Other ships of the world's great fleet also may have participated.

"Invasion Has Begun"

The new carrier plane strikes against the Tokyo area gave added pertinence to the declaration of Rear Adm. D. C. Ramsey, chief of staff of the 5th fleet, that the invasion of Japan had, in effect, already begun. Adm. Ramsey, in a Mutual broadcast to the United States from Guam, said "the most overwhelming forces ever concentrated in military history" would invade Japan, but that from the standpoint of the tightening air blockade and the gigantic bombings now in progress, the invasion operation already had begun.

Fleets of 1,000 Super Forts will be available for single strikes against Japan after the army builds its strategic air forces of the Pacific to full strength, Gen. Spaatz said on his arrival to assume command of those forces. The 8th and 20th air forces which comprise the new United States army strategict air forces will be able to drop twice the tonnage of bombs that the 8th and 15th air forces dropped on a single misison in the European theater, he explained.

Rip Battleship Apart

MANILA, P. I., July 30 [Monday] (AP)—Liberators of the army's far east air force from Okinawa scored four bomb hits on the Japanese battleship Haruna—previously reported damaged by navy planes—and ripped it apart amidships Saturday, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Adm. Nimitz Sunday said that on the same day part of his 1,500 plane carrier air fleet hit the Haruna in a smash at the Kure naval base and left it burning after inflicting light damage on the battlewagon three days previously.

An aircraft carrier also was damaged in the Liberator raid on Kure, while fighter pilots reported they probably destroyed an escort carrier and a light cruiser in a strike at the base of Sasebo, on the west coast of Kyushu. Both ships were rocked by terrific explosions after bombs struck home.

TELLS HOW JAP 'PLAYBOY' LOST THE PHILIPPINES

General's Thoughts Only of Souvenirs

WITH U. S. FORCES, NORTHERN LUZON, July 29 (AP)—Japanese Gen. Tokoyuki Yamashita inherited neglected and inadequate defenses in the Philippines, then was duped into believing he could expect more aerial support, a captive Japanese war correspondent for the Tokyo Asahi, Shizuo Sugiura, said today.

Japanese war correspondents were not able to report these facts because of airtight censorship, he said. Sugiura asserted that, in the Japanese mind, Lt. Gen. Kuroda, playboy predecessor of Yamashita as commander of Japanese forces in the Philippines, was responsible for loss of the islands.

He said Kuroda, who was the third Japanese commandant of the archipelago, neglected his command in order to collect souvenirs and women. When recalled to Tokyo, he took two truckloads of souvenirs with him.

Yamashita Complains

Yamashita complained to the staff about the inadequacy of preparations when he assumed command. Under Kuroda, the Japanese built no new air fields and established relatively few fixed fortifications.

Suguira said the Shimbu line in the Ipa and Wawa dam sectors was begun in November, 1944, after the American invasion of Leyte. Lt. Gen. Kanji Tominaga, commander of the 4th air army, assured Yamashita after the Americans' preinvasion raids destroyed 1,500 Nipponese planes that he could provide sufficient air cover to repel American landing attempts on Luzon.

Japs in Confusion

Then, added Sugiura, American forces landed and proceeded toward Manila so rapidly that everything was thrown into confusion. Tominaga then took the first plane to Tokyo, leaving his command in confusion.

Sugiura, a 37 year old Korean who professed no great love for the Japanese, said he worked for Asahi eight years at Shanghai, Rabaul, and Manila. Actually, he said "We were government propagandists, not war correspondents."

BRITISH 8TH ARMY DISBANDED AFTER 4 YEARS OF TRIUMPH

ROME, July 29 (AP)—Britain's 8th army was disbanded today, ending a four year career in which it pushed back the enemy 3,000 miles from El Alamein to Austria. The army's British 5th corps becomes the "British forces in Austria," remaining under command of Lt. Gen. Richard L. McCreery, 8th army commander for the last several months. The 13th corps was transferred to allied headquarters command under Field Marshal Alexander.

The 8th army went into action as a unit Nov. 17, 1941, under Lt. Gen. Alan Cunningham, when it crossed the frontier of Cyrenaica from Egypt to meet Field Marshal Rommel's Africa corps. Under six commanders, it fought across North Africa, up thru Sicily and Italy, and finally into Austria.

Its soldiers came from the United Kingdom, New Zealand, Australia, Canada, South Africa, India, Poland, Palestine, France, Greece, Yugoslavia, and other lands.

4,477 MORE JAPS KILLED ON LUZON; 587 CAPTURED

MANILA, July 30 [Monday]—(AP)—American forces mopping up in the Philippines killed an additional 4,477 Japanese and captured 587 last week, Gen. MacArthur reported today. American casualties for the same period were 34 killed and 73 wounded.

In eastern Borneo Australian forces continued pushing closer to the Japanese held Samarinda oil fields. The Aussie infantry men were closely supported by air as they struggled over the rugged terrain of the interior.

Elements of the United States 6th, 32d, 37th, and 38th divisions on Luzon and units of the Philippines army compressed the bulk of the Japanese survivors in the Kiangan-Daklan-Loo sector of the southern Cordillera mountain ranges and in the foothills of the Sierra Madre mountains. On Mindanao Island clashes with Japanese bands were reported by patrols of the 24th and 31st divisions.

MYSTERY: 10,000 JAPS OF 'LITTLE TOKYO' VANISH

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., July 29—The whereabouts of at least 10,000 Japanese civilians, formerly residents of "Little Tokyo," the name given the city of Davao on the island of Mindanao, are unknown. The whereabouts of 9,000 other Jap civilians who lived in the same place until the Yanks came are known—some are hiding in the jungles, some are dead. But 10,000 or so seem to have vanished.

Until Sept. 9 of last year Davao was a peaceful town. But on that date panic suddenly seized upon the town and Jap soldiers and marines began fighting in the streets for possession of trucks with which to flee.

The alarm spread to the civilians, and the next day when American bombers hit Davao, retired Jap Gen. Nagasahi was put in charge of the civil populace and arranged some sort of an orderly evacuation. Two thousand male civilians between the ages of 18 and 45 were drafted into the Jap army.

Disease Takes Toll

There was no transportation, so the motley horde of men, women, and children walked into the jungle, set up little communities, and planted gardens or seized those already planted by the natives, who include fierce pygmies armed with blow guns and poisoned darts.

Malaria, dysentery — even flood waters racing down the gorges where some found haven — took a heavy toll. Food was short and medical supplies were nonexistent.

Meanwhile Jap troops in Davao butchered many Filipinos, according to eye witnesses. A single cemetery there has 200 crosses marking the graves of Filipino men and women who were marched to the cemetery and murdered "for lack of coöperation in feeding the imperial Japanese army."

Die on Bombed Ship

Two hundred other prisoners are said to have been put aboard a crippled and useless Jap ship in the harbor, where they died when American planes attacked and sank it.

When the Americans finally came, the remaining Jap soldiers also took to the hills, including Maj. Gen. Harada, who was said to have with him a harem of 30 girl friends. The remnants of the Jap soldiers and Jap civilians are still in the jungle, where the few civilians who manage to escape declare the soldiers are stealing all the food and killing and raping Jap civilians in the worst outlaw fashion.

Mothers Don Uniforms

Some mothers, desperate for food for their children, shaved their heads, donned uniforms and slipped back into town in search for something to eat. Some were killed when mistaken for men and some were captured.

The Americans now are trying to reach and rescue the remaining noncombatants in the jungles. Some of the couple of hundred in prison camps have gone voluntarily into the forest and brought out civilians and even soldiers by telling them of the good food and treatment the Americans are handing out. But Jap soldiers have shot down some who tried to come in while others, in desperation, killed themselves and their children.

American officers say that by figures gathered here and there they can account for living and dead totaling perhaps 9,000. But where the other 10,000 now are—whether in the jungle or in the Japanese heaven—no one knows.

Sky Parade Over Europe for Air Force Birthday

LONDON, July 29—An aerial parade 40 miles long will fly over major European cities Wednesday marking the United States air forces' 38th anniversary. Aerial exhibitions will be held over England, France, Belgium, Holland and Germany with a special review over Bad Kissengen, Germany, headquarters of the 9th air force. Approximately 900 planes will participate.

STILL ROOT JAPS FROM CAVES ON OKINAWA COAST

May Take Months to Kill Them All

WITH THE 7TH INFANTRY DIVISION, Okinawa, July 29 (AP)—There's still plenty of fireworks on the southern tip of Okinawa, five weeks after the United States navy announcement proclaiming the end of organized resistance on this island.

Day and night Yanks with rifles, machine guns, and grenades are busy rooting Japanese soldiers—many of them holding Okinawa women as captives—from their caves and interlocking tunnels in the sharp "hara-kiri" escarpment facing the Pacific.

It's called "hara-kiri" because that is where Lt. Gen. Ushijima, Japanese army commander, and his senior officers disemboweled themselves or leaped to their deaths from the cliff rather than surrender.

May Take Years

The coral covered graves of Ushijima and other Japanese lie atop the hill near a sign proclaiming the spot as the official end of the Okinawa campaign.

From the top of that spiny coral escarpment eight-man patrols far below kill enemy remnants in caves and fissures. One patrol leader, Lt. Donald D. Fitzgerald, Union, Ia., has been working the territory over for weeks.

"It probably will take months, even years, to get the 75 to 100 enemy left here," Fitzgerald said. "They can go from one interconnecting tunnel to another almost endlessly. We would have to blow the mountain apart to kill them all."

Few Yanks Injured

He said the average daily bag is about a half dozen.

Fitzgerald said no Yanks had been hurt for several days in the dangerous job of hurling phosphorus grenades and firing automatic rifles into cave mouths. Seconds after the lieutenant had finished saying this the sharp crack of a Japanese rifle was heard and a member of a patrol fell wounded.

The Japanese flushed from caves are primarily service troops with little ammunition left and apparently reconciled to death.

Spain Foils Kidnaping of Belgian Fascist Chief

MADRID, Spain, July 29 (AP)—An attempt to kidnap Leon Degrelle, Belgian fascist leader, from a military hospital in San Sebastian has been foiled by police, an official source said tonight. Degrelle has been interned since his collarbone was broken in the forced landing of a German plane bringing him from Norway. Authorities said enemies apparently planned to take Degrelle "for a one-way ride across the French frontier."

'MOST HIT' U. S. CARRIER SINKS 80 JAP SHIPS

Intrepid's Planes, Guns Bag 650 Aircraft

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP)—Eighty enemy ships and 650 aircraft have been destroyed by planes and guns of the aircraft carrier Intrepid.

She took a terrific pounding to do it. The navy said today the Intrepid has been hit more frequently than any other United States aircraft carrier.

Four times this Essex-class carrier suffered battle damage in 15 months of lively Pacific operations. But she is back in action again.

The 80 ships sent to the bottom by the Intrepid's pilots included an aircraft carrier. They helped sink the Japanese superbattleship, the 45,000 ton Yamato. They probably sank 30 other enemy vessels and damaged 179 more.

The Intrepid's latest brush with disaster came last April 16 while her airmen were carrying the war to Japan's home islands again, after having helped to send the Yamato to the bottom with two dozen bomb and torpedo hits.

Suicide Plane Breaks Thru

One of five enemy suicide planes broke thru the screen of anti-aircraft fire and crashed into the flight deck, parts tearing into the hangar deck. The explosion which followed killed nine men and wounded 21.

Fires destroyed more than 36 of the carrier's planes, tho they were not fueled or loaded, but no further explosions resulted. In 15 minutes the crew of the Intrepid had the flight deck fires under control, and the hangar deck fires in 50 minutes.

While the fires raged, the ship commanded by Capt. Giles E. Short, Tacoma, Wash., stayed with her task force, fighting off attacking planes, maneuvering with the formation and continuing flight operations.

She successfully took aboard her own aircraft, but her damage forced her return to the Hunter's Point, Cal., drydocks for repairs.

Named for Decatur Ship

The 27,000 ton carrier, named for the American ketch on which Stephen Decatur Jr. sailed into Tripoli harbor Feb. 16, 1804, to send the captured U. S. S. Philadelphia to the bottom, suffered her first battle damage off Truk 140 years to the day after Decatur's historic action.

Japanese land-based air power in the Carolines had been virtually wiped out by fast carrier task force attacks when a lone enemy plane slipped thru the screen and dropped a torpedo which bathed her decks in flames and damaged her steering mechanism and hopelessly jammed her rudder.

While firefighting parties brought the flames under control, her skipper, Rear Adm. [then captain] Thomas L. Sprague, Coronado, Cal., used his engines to steer the stricken ship, which returned to Pearl Harbor.

Returns to Pacific

After repairs, the Intrepid returned to carry on her fight until Oct. 29, 1944, off Luzon, when she was hit by one of the first successful Japanese suicide planes.

A Japanese Judy plummeted into the flight deck, slithered into a gun gallery, killed 10 gunners and started a fire which was quickly brought under control. Continuing to man their guns despite painful wounds, six steward's mates serving as gunners were awarded bronze star medals.

This time, commanded by Capt. Joseph F. Bolger, Arlington, Va., the Intrepid repaired her own damage and continued to fight with her sister carriers in setting the stage for the return of Gen. MacArthur to the Philippines.

Less than a month later, on Nov. 25, 1944, during the pre-invasion strikes, the Intrepid was hit again while operating off Luzon. A Japanese Zeke rocketed into her flight deck, its bomb exploding in the unoccupied pilots' ready room. However, 32 men in an adjoining compartment were killed.

Another Suicidist Hits

Flames covered the hangar deck, destroying aircraft and fuel and wounding scores of the ship's crew. Minutes later, as the first fires were being fought, another suicide plane penetrated the anti-aircraft screen and crashed into the flight deck, killing and wounding additional personnel and starting fresh fires.

But while some died in the flames, others continued to fight the fires heroically, and in 13 minutes the flight deck fire was under control and in two hours and 38 minutes the hangar deck fires were extinguished.

Officer Discovers Fire

In that action, a second major conflagration was narrowly averted when the ship's executive officer, Capt. [then commander] Roland Kauffman, New York City, discovered a previously "killed" fire which had taken on new life and was threatening the ship's rockets readied for firing.

Repairs were made in near record time, and the Intrepid was back in action in time to join in the fast carrier task force 58 strike in which the Franklin was damaged.

It was announced that the secretary of the navy has authorized awards for 28 officers and enlisted men for gallantry and heroism aboard the Intrepid during the battle of Leyte gulf. Those from Chicagoland:

Lt. Comdr. Leo Labrune Hogan, 1114 Lake Shore dr., Evanston, Ill., silver star and bronze star; Austin McAvoy, seaman first class, Detroit, navy and marine corps medal; George Victor Priest, pharmacist's mate, second class, Bainbridge, Ind., navy and marine corps medal.

41 JAPS GIVE UP TO 20 AUSSIES IN NEW GUINEA

BY ROBERT CROMIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, July 30 [Monday]—Further indications that there is at least a tiny seed of discontent, even among the officers, were seen in the surrender of a Japanese lieutenant colonel, four other officers, and 36 enlisted men near Wewak, New Guinea.

An Australian patrol came upon a United States surrender leaflet impaled on a stick in the middle of a jungle track. On the back of it was written in English: "We wish to surrender—please send an officer." After a brief parley the whole group surrendered. They were in good condition, well armed, had plenty of ammunition, and outnumbered the patrol by two to one.

Altho it was a four day trek back to base, the prisoners caused no trouble. The Jap lieutenant colonel said he ordered the men to quit because he wished them "to serve the new Japan." He added that it was no disgrace in their case because the surrender was done under orders, but that he could never return to Japan and would like to take up farming on some Pacific island.

LABORITES GAIN EXTRA WEEK TO DRAW UP PLANS

BY JAMES SLOAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 29—Britain's new Labor government today gained an extra seven days in which to translate its overwhelming mandate from the people into a blueprint of legislative action. The time was allotted thru postponement of the opening of parliament from Aug. 8 to Aug. 15.

The delay also will allow the Big Three to complete their Potsdam talks without undue haste as might not have been the case had Prime Minister Attlee been obliged to hurry home. Also to be completed is naming of the new cabinet, only seven key positions now being filled.

Under the new schedule, parliament will convene Wednesday to elect a speaker. New members, including Labor's 390 out of the 640, will be sworn and then the house will take a week's holiday. It will reconvene Aug. 15 to hear the socialistic plans of the new government. By tradition, these will be enunciatd by the king in his speech from the throne.

Some Protest Delay

Debate on the king's speech and possibly on the united nations charter will continue until Aug. 24 at which time a vacation will be taken until Oct. 2.

Tho it may reflect wishful thinking on the part of the defeated Conservative party, there were rumblings of dissatisfaction this week end over Attlee's cautious policy regarding nationalization of Britain's economic life. Some political observers said if he seeks to pursue too slow a program a change of premiership may follow. Many Labor M. P.s would prefer Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin or Herbert Morrison, lord president of the council, as prime minister and party leader instead of Attlee.

Legislative priority will be given to making good on the party's pledge to provide housing for all of Britain's homeless and bombed out people. Among the first bills may be one giving authorities wider and speedier powers to acquire land, break up price rings, fix rents and cut the costs of building materials. A separate cabinet minister may be named to cope with the housing problem.

Cautious on Bank Control

Proposals for a fuel and power board and for state ownership of electricity, transport, and the iron and steel industry will get early consideration.

A more cautious approach to nationalization of the Bank of England, another Labor goal, is indicated. Apparently it is hoped to accustom the people to state manipulation of other economic instruments before doing anything about their money.

In turn are expected bills to expand farm production, broaden social security, and health services—possibly under a woman health minister, speed demobilization, provide income tax relief, and streamline governmental functions by merging some cabinet departments.

Power may also be sought to break up cartels and monopolies, to perpetuate war time controls on industry, and to control location of plants so as to spread employment over wider areas of the nation.

Attitude Toward Lords

There is said to be a strong feeling in the new government that to put thru its full program will mean "rough handling" of the house of lords which has authority to hold up final enactment of commons' legislation for two years. To meet any such threat to its nationalization drive, Labor is said to be ready to amend the parliament act to sharply cut down the length of time the peers may hold up bills.

[An obstinate house of lords might be brought in line by the king's appointment of enough new peers to insure a majority for any desired legislation. Threat of such action has made the house of lords amenable to the desires of the people in the past.]

Bevin is expected to reorganize the foreign office. Among the first ambassadorial heads to fall may be those of Reginald Leeper in Athens and Alfred Duff Cooper in Paris, as well as Ambassador Halifax who has been a frequent target of Labor criticism.

Bevin is known to hold strong views about the economic future of Germany and the dangers of turning the remnant of the reich into an "economic slum," which he believes would adversely affect the living standards in all the countries of Europe. His attitude, it is believed, may cause revision of allied plans for German industry.

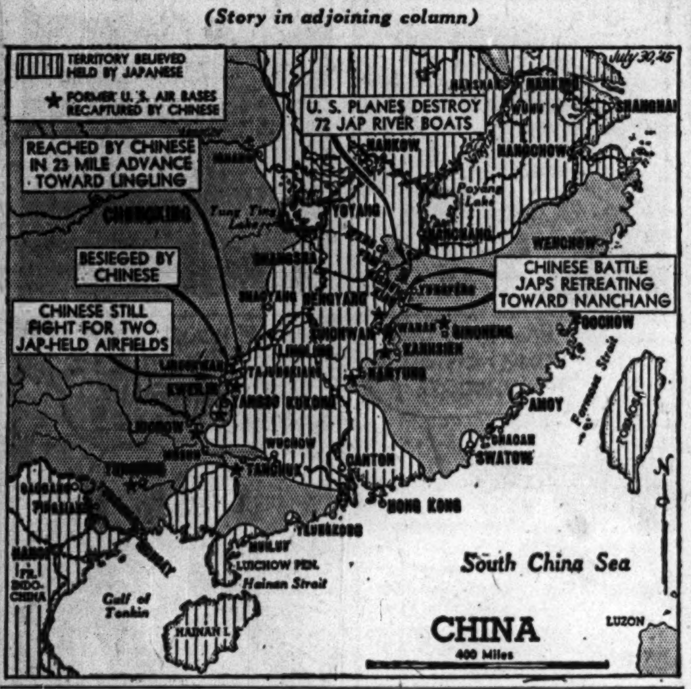
Chinese Move on New Objective

(Story in adjoining column)



CHINESE DRIVE TOWARD BASE OF 'FLYING TIGERS'

CHUNGKING, China, July 29 (AP)—Chinese troops, capitalizing on the liberation of Kweilin, have advanced 23 miles northeastward and are driving toward their next major objective, the old Flying Tigers' air field at Lingling, the Chinese high command disclosed tonight.

Pounding on the heels of the withdrawing Japanese who abandoned the triple air field city of Kweilin Friday, Chinese columns yesterday reached the walled town of Lingchwan in a 14 mile push from Kweilin, the capital of Kwangsi province 360 miles southeast of Chungking.

While one force laid siege to Lingchwan, another by-passed the town on the Hunan-Kwangsi railroad and swept on another nine miles, reaching Tajungkiang, 85 miles southwest of Lingling, a bulletin said.

Lingling was abandoned by the United States 14th air force Sept. 7 last year. Its recapture by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's troops would clear the way for a drive toward the key railroad hub of Hengyang, on Tokyo's transcontinental corridor from Korea to Hong Kong.

Mop Up Kweilin

Chinese rearguards meanwhile were mopping up Japanese remnants still putting up a fight outside Kweilin. Front dispatches said that Kweilin, formerly the biggest American air base in south-central China, had been almost completely destroyed. The Japanese blew up or set fire to practically every building in the provincial capital.

Japanese rearguards in the western and southern suburbs were cleared out yesterday while a few Japanese units offering sporadic resistance in the northern outskirts and on the east bank of the Li river were being wiped out, headquarters said.

The high command said that reports that all of Kweilin's three air fields had been recaptured were premature. Yang Tong airstrip, the last of the three blown up by American flyers last November, has been retaken, but fighting with a few enemy defenders still is going on for the other two.

Fight "Floating Pocket"

Three hundred and forty miles northeast of Kweilin, the Chinese were engaged in a bitter struggle with forward elements of a trapped force of Japanese troops, originally estimated at 20,000 men, which was striking north from southern Kiangsi province toward the Yangtze river port of Nanchang.

Vanguards of the Japanese "floating pocket" overran the town of Kishui, 100 miles south of Nanchang.

Joining the fighting in Kiangsi, American Mitchell bombers and Mustang fighter bombers blasted enemy shipping in the Kan river valley destroying or damaging 72 Japanese boats.

Other United States 14th air force fighters and fighter bombers attacked shipping and rail lines from the Peiping area to Indo-China in widespread raids Saturday.

500,000 POLES STILL IN GERMANY REFUSE TO BE SENT HOME

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN GERMANY, July 29 (AP)—Some 500,000 Polish refugees who refused to return to their homeland remain in the British occupation zone. The question of what is to become of them likely is under discussion at Potsdam.

British authorities said today that 1,000,000 displaced persons had been repatriated from the British zone since Germany surrendered, but that none was a Pole. Several thousand Poles have returned to Poland unofficially, but Polish troops attached to British units said many had returned to Germany.

British authorities said nearly 1,225,000 refugees remain to be repatriated—almost one-third of them Poles.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

July 30—Virginia Plants Liberty

On July 30, 1619, the Virginia house of burgesses, the first representative assembly in America, convened in the little church at Jamestown.

The Pilgrim landing was still more than a year in the future, North America was a vast and largely unexplored wilderness, and the United States was not even a dream at the time. Yet the Virginia planters along the James river, pioneers in a double sense, were establishing in the new world the institutions of popular government and free discussion which were one day to sunder the colonies from the motherland and to give the new nation its unexampled vigor.

The burgesses began conservatively enough. As they filed into the church, and sat with their hats on [as was the custom on the English commons], no such thing as independence could have entered their heads.

They were thankful enough for the relative freedom after years of virtual serfdom. There was full legal authority for their meeting, for the charter governing the colony had lately been liberalized.

After taking the oath, the 20 burgesses got down to such matters as intercourse with the Indians [the death penalty was fixed for selling the Indians firearms] and religious regulations [church attendance was made compulsory].

One of the oddest of the laws passed in the house's six day session was one designed to prevent extravagance in dress. Taxes were to be assessed according to the type of clothing a man or his wife wore.

British Strikes Hold Up Resort Town Vacationers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 29—Thousands of holiday makers were stranded today in British resort towns by one day strikes of more than 20,000 workers, many of whom were bus operators in the northwest sector and the London area. Led by 6,000 on strike in the Liverpool area, most of the workers are demanding a 40 hour week, more pay, and better working conditions.

NEGRO SOLDIERS IN FRANCE FIND NO RACE BARRIER

Street Scenes Reflect Gallic Tolerance

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROUEN, France, July 29—America's Negro soldier is teaching mademoiselle to jitterbug. You see it at street dances in this bomb shattered city on the lower Seine, and you see it at dances in village squares wherever there are United States Negro troops. Rouged little girls with short skirts try to follow the swinging feet of lanky, grinning army men from Harlem or Georgia.

It is part of the scene of the American army lingering in Europe. One sees Negro soldiers and French girls walking with their arms around each other in the city's streets. One sees khaki clad colored men playing with white children or chinning with the old folks at the threshold of a French girl's home.

Such scenes receive much comment from United States white soldiers, especially those from the south, but it seldom gets into print because it is considered a "delicate" subject. The French do not consider it such.

Make No Distinction

"I know from personal experience as well as from observation," said Lt. George W. Woody, Danville, Va., "that the French family makes no distinction between colors in inviting United States soldiers into their homes. It is a contrast to the general custom in America which has a different cultural background.

"Unless conditions are changed in the United States, we have lost the war for world-wide freedom."

Woody, a Negro, has a master's degree from Fisk university, Nashville, Tenn. At 26 he is an officer of the 490th port battalion, a thousand Negro stevedores who landed at Utah beach on D-day and were awarded the croix de guerre and the bronze arrowhead for their service to assault troops. The outfit remained on the beach until last November when it moved to its present assignment of loading and unloading canal barges and Liberty ships here.

WAC Major Comments

Maj. Charity E. Adams, Columbia, S. C., colored commander of 855 Negro WACs at the central postal directory here, also was solicited for counsel in telling America of interracial relations here.

"It is regrettable," she said, "that Americans are so race prejudiced that anything you write will offend many, each in the light of his own prejudices. Yet the story should be written, as part of the history of the European war, as part of the current news of America's army still in Europe.

"It is regrettable that Americans socially accept foreign Negroes but not American Negroes.

"In the army postoffice my WACs work with German prisoners of war, men of the people whose nazi leaders preached their racial excellence. The office relationship is without racial consciousness."

No Resentment Shown

"Do Negro WACs resent Negro soldiers going with French girls?" the major was asked.

"I have not observed any resentment and have had no occasion to inquire," she replied, "but I believe the WACs grant that the Negro soldiers have the privilege of doing as they please."

Maj. Adams was doing post-graduate work at Ohio State university when she enlisted three years ago. She spent three months in England with her organization before she came here with it in May.

Capt. Victor S. Kendall, white, Louisville, Ky., commands a port battalion which has 27 white officers and two Negro warrant officers. He said that relations between the Negro and white officers and enlisted men were good.

AUSTRALIA NOT CONSULTED ON TERMS TO JAPS

SYDNEY, Australia, July 29 (AP)—The allied Potsdam surrender ultimatum to Japan was issued without consulting the Australian government and without its concurrence, altho the declaration is of fundamental importance to the commonwealth, Dr. Herbert Ivatt, Australian minister of external affairs, said today.

Since 1941 the Australian government has maintained that Australia as an active belligerent has had the status of a "party principal" to every armistice and peace arrangement in the European and Pacific wars, and the Potsdam ultimatum makes it necessary to restate that position, Evatt asserted.

"All that need be said about actual terms foreshadowed in the ultimatum, is that they appear inclined to treat Japan more leniently than Germany, despite the fact that the slightest sign of tenderness to Japanese imperialism is entirely misplaced and disregards the outrageous cruelties and barbarities systematically practiced under the imperialist regime."

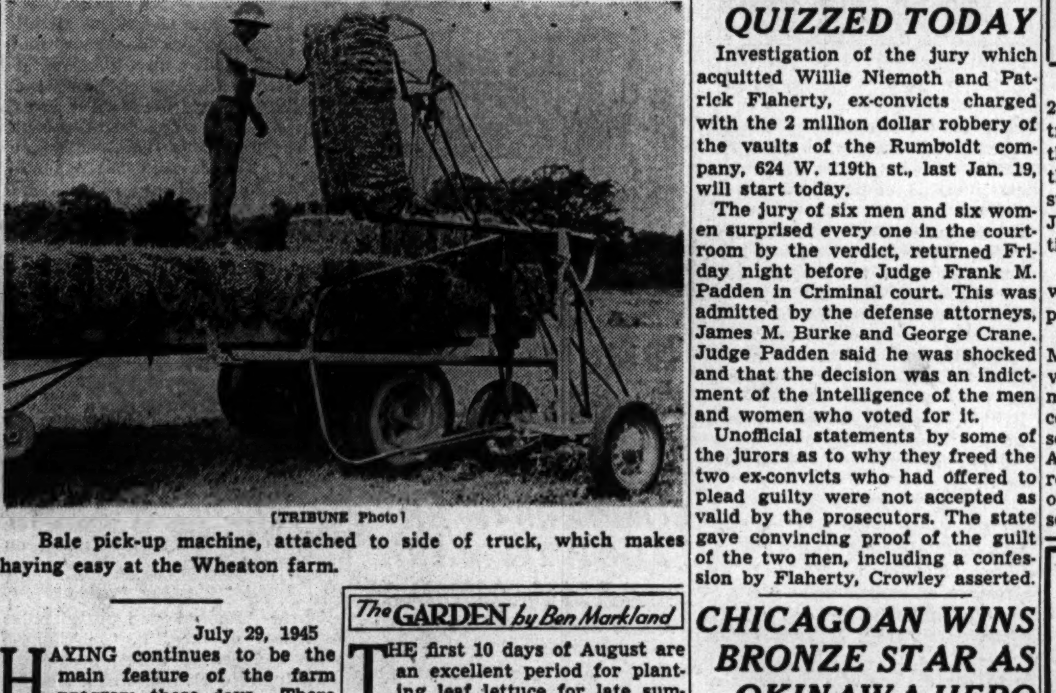
DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON



[TRIBUNE Photo]

Bale pick-up machine, attached to side of truck, which makes haying easy at the Wheaton farm.

July 29, 1945

HAYING continues to be the main feature of the farm program these days. There is a tremendous crop of forage this year, and the men are having a hard time keeping up with it despite the aid of the latest mechanical methods.

The first cut field of alfalfa is tall again and ready for the second crop to be taken. Meanwhile the oats are rapidly approaching maturity and harvest time. Another week of hot weather will find the men cutting hay, harvesting oats, and baling straw.

Poults Moved Often

The warm weather has been ideal for the turkey poults and the ducklings. The turkeys have been moved out in their wire cages to clean ground in an alfalfa field. Every few days the cages are shifted so the birds have a clean spot. This is important in raising turkeys, for they soon sicken on dirty ground.

The ducklings roam freely thru the barnyard behind their mothers. Watering tanks are placed where they always can sip cool water or wet their feathers. In the batteries are more turkey poults, as well as White Rock and Rhode Island Red chicks, ready to go outside.

When the thermometer touched 99 degrees in the shade last week, a reading was made of the temperature inside the black oak tree. The thermometer showed a cool 64 degrees. This is the greatest variance from the outside air found since the thermometer was put in early this spring.

Corn Crop Retarded

The corn crop looks fairly good, but it will have to grow much more. The last planted field is in the most perilous condition of all. Here the stalks average about four and a half feet high. This field probably will produce a large quantity of soft corn even if frost doesn't come before the normal date of Sept. 15.

Even the taller stalks in the other fields stand in danger of producing soft corn. Fortunately the large yield of hay can serve as a feed backlog in case the corn turns out poorly.

Many farmers will be confronted this fall with the problem of high moisture content corn. This column soon will give details for preserving a soft crop. Farmers will be wise to make plans now for handling their corn if an early frost prevents it from maturing fully.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE first 10 days of August are an excellent period for planting leaf lettuce for late summer and early fall harvest. Oak Leaf variety matures in 40 days, and Grand Rapids and Black Seeded Simpson reach harvest stage in 35 to 45 days. The first two varieties should be planted in rows, and Simpson type may be planted either in rows or in a solid patch. Grand Rapids, a loose head type, should be thinned to leave the individual seedlings four to six inches apart in the row.

If the top soil is dry, special preplanting preparation of the furrow is important to insure good germination. A pointed hoe should be used to make a furrow at least three inches deep. The bottom of the furrow should be thoroly soaked, after which two inches of the top soil should be replaced over the moistened ground.

Lettuce seeds should be planted an inch deep and covered with loose top soil. An additional light covering of peat moss or redwood fiber prevents packing of the surface soil and increases the rate of germination.

British Eliminating Nazi Officials in Their Zone

PLOEN, Germany, July 29 (AP)—Some Nazi officials still hold positions in the British occupied Hamburg and Schleswig-Holstein areas, but Lt. Gen. E. H. Barker, 8th corps area commander, said today they were being "eradicated as quickly as conditions permit." An immediate purge of Nazi officials would have resulted in a complete breakdown of local government machinery, Barker said.

JURY IN VAULT TRIAL TO BE QUIZZED TODAY

Investigation of the jury which acquitted Willie Niemoth and Patrick Flaherty, ex-convicts charged with the 2 million dollar robbery of the vaults of the Rumboldt company, 624 W. 119th st., last Jan. 19, will start today.

The jury of six men and six women surprised every one in the courtroom by the verdict, returned Friday night before Judge Frank M. Padden in Criminal court. This was admitted by the defense attorneys, James M. Burke and George Crane. Judge Padden said he was shocked and that the decision was an indictment of the intelligence of the men and women who voted for it.

Unofficial statements by some of the jurors as to why they freed the two ex-convicts who had offered to plead guilty were not accepted as valid by the prosecutors. The state gave convincing proof of the guilt of the two men, including a confession by Flaherty, Crowley asserted.

CHICAGOAN WINS BRONZE STAR AS OKINAWA HERO

WITH 96TH DIVISION ON OKINAWA, July 6 [Delayed]—Tech. 5th Grade William Palmer, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Palmer, reside at 1112 N. Hoyne av., Chicago, Ill., has been awarded the bronze star for heroic service on Okinawa.

Maj. Gen. J. L. Bradley, commanding the 96th division, cited Palmer for establishing wire communications to front line companies regardless of Japanese mortar, artillery, and rocket bombs which had pinned the companies down during the day. Altho clipped thru the sleeve of his jacket by a sniper he completed his mission and made it possible to maintain vital communications.

Pvt. Joseph Di Natale, 3908 Grenshaw st., Chicago, was awarded the bronze star for combat wounds.

27 CAPTIVE U-BOAT CREWMEN FLYING TO U. S. FROM ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, July 29 (AP)—Two United States navy transport planes left here today for the United States carrying half of the 54-man crew of the German submarine U-530 which surrendered July 10 to Argentine naval authorities.

Two other American naval planes were en route to Buenos Aires to pick up the remainder of the crew.

Authorities at the naval base at Mar Del Plata said they were investigating a report that a submarine had been sighted off the coast near Necochea, a summer resort 400 miles southwest of Buenos Aires. A police officer at the resort reported he saw the conning tower of a submarine 1,000 yards out at sea.

SEIZED CHARTS REVEAL GERMAN WAR CASUALTIES

BERLIN, July 29 (AP)—Germany's army, navy, and air force casualties from the start of the war until last Nov. 30 totaled 4,064,438, according to documents seized in the Berlin home of Gen. Hermann Reinecke.

A British intelligence officer who disclosed their contents today said he had no reason to doubt their authenticity. Reinecke, captured in Flensburg recently, was described as propaganda chief for the German army.

The figures included killed, missing, prisoners and those discharged because of permanent disabilities, but excluded wounded men who had returned to service.

[Latest United States casualties total 1,058,842, the war department reported July 26. They were given as less than 550,000 last Nov. 30, just before the German Ardennes offensive of December—the last big Nazi push of the war.]

9,313 Executions

Wounded Germans who returned to action ran into hundreds of thousands. Reinecke's charts show that on Nov. 30 there were 774,148 from the three services in hospitals for all causes.

Overall casualty figures for the army were 3,630,269, the air force 290,839, and the navy 94,470. The army reported 593 desertions, the navy 107 and the air force 32. Listed in addition were 9,313 executions for all causes. The remainder of the grand total was made up of figures listing miscellaneous causes.

Army casualties on the Russian fronts cost the Nazis 1,419,000 dead and 907,000 missing or captured, all but a small per cent of total losses up to Nov. 30.

Eastern Front Toll

One column in the chart listed 270 casualties for which the cause was blacked out. These were possibly personnel executed for treason. In July, 1944, when the attempt was made on Hitler's life, the entries totaled 132.

From the war's start until D-day the western front casualties were given at 66,000. From D-day until the end of November there were 54,000 killed and 338,000 missing or captured.

In June, 1941, when Hitler attacked the Russian army, casualties on the eastern front included 21,000 killed. In July they hit 50,000 killed. The monthly average from then on was fairly static, at 40,000 killed and 4,000 missing until August, 1942.

With the allied invasion in Normandy in June, 1944, western front casualties for that month totaled 26,000 killed and 33,000 missing. That number increased to 48,000 killed and 115,000 missing or captured in July and 63,000 killed and 102,000 missing or captured in August.

BRITISH CALL HOUSES MADE IN U. S. 'CARDBOARD'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 29—Local authorities of Harrow, Middlesex, have urgently requested the ministry of works to cease sending them prefabricated "cardboard" houses made in America, the Sunday Pictorial reported today. It quoted a member of the town council as complaining the walls, said to be of composition wallboard, "are nothing more than a sort of compressed paper which I doubt would stand up against the damp English climate." He also said the council is "disgusted with the thin walls of three-eighths inch composition thru which a child could hurl a cricket ball."

YANK SOLDIER BEST OF ALL, AND PROVES IT

Tribune Writer Tells Why GI Is Supreme

[Seymour Korman, Tribune war correspondent, who has just returned from Germany, France, and Italy, was asked to write his observations of the American soldier as compared to other soldiers. Here is the story.]

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN

"The hardest soldier in the world to kill is a good American infantryman."

That remark has been made many times and most frequently, in my experience, by Maj. Gen. John W. ["Iron Mike"] O'Daniel, who ought to know.

He was an infantry platoon commander in World War I. and in this war led the crack 3d division at Anzio and thru the whole 7th army campaign in France, Alsace and Germany. He now commands the infantry training school at Fort Benning, Ga.

In four major campaigns—Tunisia, Sicily, Italy and the 7th army's thousand miles of war from the beaches of the Riviera to Berchtesgaden and the Brenner pass—viewing and reporting on action and talking with men and commanders, I have found out what Iron Mike meant and why, in the opinion of many observers, the American soldier has been superior to fighting men of all the other nations engaged in Africa and Europe.

All Have Courage

There is no differential in courage—courage is the necessary attribute of all good soldiers, and it cannot be said that the Frenchman or the Briton or the Pole or the Brazilian or the German or the Italian is less brave than the American. But there do seem to be differentials—in the Americans' favor—in other catagories. These include:

1. Resourcefulness and adaptability when a swift change in tactics or strategy is necessary.
2. Ability to succeed over difficult terrain.
3. Ability to take cover in a hot spot.
4. Control of emotions and selection of the less hazardous and less spectacular maneuvers.
5. Ability to outtalk and bluff the enemy.
6. Good liaison within the small unit and with the larger ones.
7. Good commanders.

The Americans' adaptability was most striking in Africa, where they had to learn mountain fighting. They suffered reverses in the early fighting, but they didn't make the same mistakes twice and they quickly became as adept at battling in the hills as on the plain.

Hills Stall British

That wasn't true of Field Marshal [then general] Montgomery's vaunted British 8th army. The 8th had performed brilliantly from El Alamein on thru the desert and in going thru the Mareth line, but when it came up to the hills of Enfidaville near Tunis it was stalled. It couldn't get across that high ground despite Montgomery's exhortation to "take Tunis, drive the enemy into the sea and avenge Dunkerque."

Meanwhile, the American 2d corps commanded by Gen. [then major general] Bradley was up against the west wall. The 2d smashed this line after grim fighting at hill 609 on the ridges above the valley of the mousetrap. So it was the Yank infantryman who cracked thru and with the taking of Mateur and Bizerte broke the Germans in Africa.

An American captain quipped months later: "The British wouldn't be in Tunis yet if we hadn't broken thru from the west." That's going too far, of course, for the British did take Tunis the same afternoon we took Bizerte after Montgomery had swung some forces from the 8th to the British 1st army. But American resourcefulness and tenacity in the mountains were the deciding factors.

Want to Save Lives

It is a tenet of American commanders to take their objective with the least possible loss of life. Frequently that means that our infantrymen have a harder road to travel—a longer, more circuitous road than the soldier of another nation would take.

Consider, for instance, the fighting in the interior of Sicily, up the incredibly rugged boot of Italy, and in the Vosges mountains, which divide France from the plain of Alsace. The American method was always: "Flank, flank, flank — take the side route over the roughest, most untraveled ground. Stay away from the main approach." German guns always were trained down the principal and topographically logical roads.

The American soldier had the stamina to go the hard way and not be lured by the short and frontal approach—the way of suicide.

That was not always true of the Italian and French soldiers. When the Italians first went into the line with the Americans in their country, they were ordered to take a hill. The hill wasn't too heavily defended, but there were German machine gun positions on the crest to cover the frontal route.

Italians Are Cut to Pieces

The Americans instructed the Italians on how the positions should be enveloped—a small force to distract the enemy by a holding action at the base of the hill while the larger force went around and hit the machine gunners from the side. The Americans also showed them how to take refuge in foxholes.

But that wasn't what the Italians did. They had to make the grand gesture. Their officers went charging, pistols aloft, directly up the main approach to the machine guns, shouting at their men to follow.

The men followed. The Germans opened fire on perfect targets. The Italians became too panicky to take cover. They were cut to pieces.

Units of the French 1st army got into the same trouble several times in the fighting in the Vosges and near the Belfort Gap. French officers, crying "pour la patrie," would charge headlong with their men against an enemy strongpoint. It was spectacular; it was a beautiful subject for a painting; it was Pickett's famous charge more than 80 years later. And it skyrocketed the casualty rate.

7th Army's Liasion Is Good

As for liaison, that in Lt. Gen. Patch's 7th army was good. There were occasions of breakdowns, such as the time when a battalion of the 36th infantry division was cut off for seven days on a Vosges hill and in the dash thru southern France, but usually contact was complete. And that meant American units weren't out on limbs where the enemy could cut them off.

The French were often vague about the location of their units. Frequently they would announce a town as liberated when all they had inside it was a reconnaissance patrol. Other units and occasionally correspondents, traveling what they had been informed was a safe road into a captured town, often would come under enemy fire.

Seldom were American soldiers unaware of the location of their command posts. All routes to battalion, regiment, and division headquarters were clearly designated. French command posts of a battalion or higher were often difficult to find. As for a company or a platoon post, a French soldier standing 50 yards from the site might not know it.

Yank Ingenuity Illustrated

American ingenuity in arranging liaison under difficult circumstances is well illustrated by an action last October in the Vosges. Lt. Col. Richard Neddersen of Berkeley, Cal., and his battalion were ordered to take a hill, 2,500 feet high, in heavy rain and thick mist.

Neddersen wanted to be certain his men didn't run into each other and directed them to shout as they advanced. Giving the rebel yell or whatever equivalent occurred to them, they got up the difficult slope. Their contact with each other was perfect; there were no accidents except to the Germans.

As for outtalking and bluffing the enemy, there was the time last April when four military policemen of the 42d infantry, Rainbow division, rowed across the Main river to Veitschoecheim and met a German lieutenant and two of his men armed with hand grenades.

The Bluff Works

The M. P.s one of them Lt. Robert M. Snodell, 8116 Evans av., Chicago, adopted a bold line. They said they understood the town wanted to surrender and demanded that the three Germans lead them to the garrison captain.

The captain wasn't too impressed and was going to take the Americans prisoner. But the Americans spied one of our liaison planes in the air and came up with the quick fabrication that unless they were allowed to return to their unit the American guns would open fire in a half hour. The German captain bit into that one and the town and 130 Germans were taken by the barrage of words.

[Lt. Snodell now is with the Rainbow division at Salzburg, Austria.]

'SHOOTING NAILS' PATCH HOLES IN SUNKEN SHIPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 29—A war time development that may have extensive peace time applications is the "nail gun" used in speeding up underwater ship salvage, it was disclosed in today's Sunday Observer.

The newspaper said by means of a charge of explosive this device will drive a steel "nail" about an inch and a half into solid steel and thus can be used for nailing plates to holes in ships' hulls.

The impact of the explosive charge, which does the "nailing," is said to be so great it almost has a welding effect so joints are nearly as strong as if they were riveted. The nail gun reportedly was used in salvage operations of the many ships sunk in Antwerp.

HUSBAND WHO MARRIES WAC IS HELD BY ARMY

Burgomaster Performs Ceremony Near Berlin

Capt. Carl Schultz, 26, of the 1st air borne army faced a charge of bigamy yesterday in Berlin where it was discovered he was married to a WAC sergeant altho he has a wife, Mrs. Ruth Schultz, and two children at 6050 Nickerson av. in Chicago.

Mrs. Ruth Schultz

Army authorities placed the officer under detention and called off his planned church wedding to Sgt. Kanella Koulouvaris of Brooklyn, N. Y., after the inspector general's office reported the German burgomaster of Zehlendorf suburb had performed a civil wedding ceremony last Monday. Schultz had arranged a church wedding for yesterday and posted announcements on the bulletin board of the press camp at Zehlendorf.

WAC Bride "Terribly Upset"

Mrs. Schultz later announced his identity thru Chicago newspapers.

Sgt. Koulouvaris said she and Schultz were married at a civil ceremony "but we planned to make our home together only after the military ceremony yesterday."

The WAC, described by her commanding officer, Capt. Cynthia Warner, Hartford, Conn., as "terribly upset," said she met Schultz in England last December.

"He told me he was not married," she said. "On Feb. 14, we announced to our friends we were engaged."

Said Wife Had Been Killed

The sergeant said she and her prospective bridegroom filled out regulation army forms stating they were free to marry. Later he told her he had a wife but that she had died in an accident last May 12.

At his billet, Capt. Schultz said he received a cable from a Chicagoan, whom he refused to name, last May, stating that his wife had died. He remained silent when asked if he had checked the truth of the reported cable. The inspector general's office said they were checking the Red Cross for a copy and whether he was drawing his wife's sustenance allowance since the time of her alleged death.

Allotments Stopped in April

The 23 year old wife in Chicago said she had received regular class E allotments, drawn at an army officer's volition from his check, until last April. At Christmas time she received an extra $180.

Since then, she has received a total of $520 by money order, she said.

"I'm worried for him because he has been thru a lot of mental strain," she said yesterday. "If he could get home, everything would be all right."

Capt. Schultz is the father of two children, Priscilla Louise, 16 months, whom he has never seen, and Frederick Carl, 3.

BOATERS IN NAVY FIRING ZONE TO BE PROSECUTED

The 9th naval district headquarters has issued a warning that operators of small boats who come within the restricted area off the shore of the anti-aircraft firing range at Great Lakes will be prosecuted. Several small boats recently have entered this restricted area and made it necessary to hold up anti-aircraft firing practice until the area could be cleared, thus causing delay in essential war training. One case for prosecution is pending. The restricted area extends approximately 11 miles out from the western shore of the lake between Waukegan and Highland Park.

MISTINGUETTE AWARDS GIs TOP HONORS IN LOVE

BY ANNE BRUYERE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, July 29—Red haired, tomboyish, 79 year old Mistinguette dramatically waved a foot long ebony cigaret holder today and announced that it hadn't taken the GI's long to learn how love works, and that now they deserve top rating as "connoisseurs of love."

Slim as a needle in her striped skirt, with her tousled curls falling on her shoulders, Mistinguette, idol of the Casino de Paris for more than half a century, revealed that the GIs became initiated in a thousand nuances "de la grande passion" in a third of the time it took the doughboys of the last war.

Boy Meets Girl

Two Chicagoland Yanks, Lt. Frank McKay, 26, 1904 Pratt blvd., Chicago, and Alphonse Jaskunas, 23, 1525 S. 50th av., Cicero, eagerly listened to Mistinguette's love formulas "that never fail."

"First, boy meets girl," she said solemnly. "If both are fancy free, healthy, and look all right, there's a magnetic current that's sure to flash between them.

"If boy wants to marry girl, he should treat her immediately as if she means everything to his happiness and well being. All women respond instinctively to love. They like to feel men can't live without them—and they can't, so why not admit it, say it, show it!"

McKay, who is engaged to a lovely Parisian, Denise Roger, and Jaskunas, who is going to marry his home town sweetheart, Eleanor Masilonis, 1516 S. 50th ct., Cicero, both nodded vigorously.

Both said: "We do. What next? How do you hold a girl?"

No Girl Can Resist

Mistinguette: "Keep on adoring her! Shower her with as much jewelry, perfume, and bouquets as you can afford. No girl can resist."

McKay and Jaskunas: "We are. But being honestly in love doesn't keep us from wanting to be sociable to other girls in other lands."

Mistinguette [crossing her shapely legs]: "That's fine. You've learned there are as many nuances in love as there are people."

SEVERSKY TELLS WHY NAZIS LOST WAR IN THE AIR

Dispersion of Production Failed, Says Expert

BY FRANK STURDY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ROME, July 29—The dispersion of Germany's underground production system allowed the United States air force and the royal air force to cripple it thru attacks on transport and communications, Alexander P. de Seversky, aircraft designer and expert in air warfare, said today.

Seversky is touring Europe as a representative of the secretary of war, to whom he will make a report analyzing the strategy, tactics, equipment, and research facilities of the air forces of both Germany and the allies.

To be least vulnerable to air attack, Seversky said, he has concluded that an underground factory must be a completely self-contained unit, one in which raw material enters at one end and flies away, a completed machine, at the other. In the ultimate, such plants should be connected by underground transportation systems.

Other German Mistakes

Seversky pointed out that when the allies cut the German rail lines and controled the highways parts could not be brought together for assembly.

Aside from this error the Germans failed on two scores early in the war, Seversky said. First, they did not equip their planes with sufficient defensive fire power and adequate bomb capacity. Second, they gave up strategic bomber attacks on England and turned to fighter output too soon.

A jet propelled German fighter airplane, expected to reach a top speed of 725 miles an hour, was seized by the United States forces near Oberammergau, Seversky disclosed. Designated the Messerschmitt 1101, the plane was the only one of its type the Germans succeeded in building. Before the craft could be test flown, the war ended.

Seversky said that as far as he knows the fighter is at Wright field, Dayton, O., for study by air force technicians, or is on the way there.

Has Double Power

The ME-1101 has a jet engine nearly as powerful as the two of the ME-262 jet fighter, produced as the Germans' last hope to defeat the strategic bombers. The jet in the ME-1101 would therefore have produced 6,000 horse power or more. It was installed below the fuselage, somewhat like a bomber carrying a torpedo slung on its exterior.

The ME-262, like the American P-55, has a jet in each wing. The United States' latest pursuit jet, the P-80, has a single engine installed in the fuselage, behind the pilot.

German research in gas turbine and jet propulsion was extremely well advanced, Seversky said, and all data uncovered is being studied carefully for the benefit of the American aviation industry.

Seversky, who flew the ME 262, described it as a plane that might have caused serious trouble had it been turned out in time in sufficient numbers. It has a top speed of a little more than 500 miles an hour.

Criticism Aided Allies

Thruout the war the Germans proved to have no realization of the power of strategic bombing, Seversky said, failing to concentrate their own strength in offense, and being caught without sufficient defenses when they were attacked.

Altho the United States and England started in the war behind Germany, they finished in front, largely because their political systems made their military leaders responsible to the people and subject to thoro criticism, said Seversky.

Technically, he continued, the German scientists equalled and in many respects were superior to those of the allies, but their abilities and knowledge were either not used or were misused by the militarists.

The only evidence he found that the Germans considered bombing the United States, said Seversky, was in the tardy development of a modified version of the ME-264, a four engined plane of about the same size and weight as the American Super Fortress. Goering told him two were built with jet propulsion engines, but the fuel consumption was too high for a trans-Atlantic round trip.

TELLS HOW U.S. BEAT NAZIS IN BRAINWORK, TOO

Aero Research Paid Off Heavily

BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., July 29—American scientific research and development of flying aids for combat pilots were far superior to those of the German technologists and made "a considerable contribution" to the allied air victory over Europe. This was the verdict today of Col. W. Randolph Lovelace II. of the American air technical service command, who recently returned from a 10 week investigation in Germany of the nazi methods of scientific development in the field of aviation medicine.

At the war's end, he declared, if the contending air forces had been equal in planes and crews, the extra items of personal equipment held by our airmen would have provided the margin of victory. These were the products of research laboratories maintained by the air force in coordination with other research agencies and American industry, the colonel explained in an interview.

Tells of German Surprise

Col. Lovelace is the chief of the aero medical laboratory, engineering division, ATSC, Wright field, O. He is a former Mayo clinic surgeon and was co-inventor of the first standard oxygen mask in the A. A. F.

He said it was a surprise to the Germans after they introduced their vaunted jet-propelled ME-163 and ME-262 planes that American P-51 Mustangs could maintain a superior ratio of fighter kills over the new craft. Too late, the Nazis learned that American pilots were wearing specially devised pressure suits to prevent black-outs [loss of consciousness] in dives and fast turns. These enabled the Mustang pilots to outmaneuver the faster enemy aircraft. So far behind was the enemy in this development that they had not even begun to produce it by the end of the war.

Another example sighted by Col. Lovelace was the superiority of A. A. F. oxygen equipment which was originally copied from the Germans. It is essential for strategic bombing and fighter escort at high altitude. American science and industry modified and improved the original design in many respects, while the Germans continued the use of their equipment virtually without change.

Improve on Another Idea

Again in the matter of air evacuation of wounded the Americans were quick to seize an idea from the enemy and improve it, said the colonel. First demonstration of the use of aircraft to transport casualties was by the Nazis during the Spanish civil war. But they continued to use only one type of aircraft [JU-52], whereas all types of American cargo aircraft and bombers have been equipped to carry litters.

Thus far, in Europe and the Pacific war, a total of 1,170,000 wounded have been evacuated by air. By utilizing all existing equipment, Col. Lovelace continued, the air force can now move 200,000 patients at one time.

In the construction of pressure-proof cabins for various types of aircraft, he disclosed, American ingenuity again provided equipment superior to that of the Germans. American planes of latest design, such as the B-29 Super Fort, can go to 30,000 feet before the crews must begin to use oxygen, whereas, 20,000 feet was the maximum achieved by the best German planes.

The investigations conducted by Col. Lovelace thruout Germany included detailed questioning of nearly 200 German scientists and technological experts. With few exceptions, he said, they were coöperative and informative, frequently making drawings or constructing section models to illustrate their testimony. A few even ventured an offer to outline their projected future research had not the end of the war intervened.

Refuse to Destroy Secrets

Much valuable statistical data and results of tests have been turned over to American authorities as a result of the mission. Compiled with teutonic thoroness, it was information which the German scientists were reluctant to destroy. In some cases they followed orders to burn the confidential documents but took it upon themselves to microfilm the material first.

Among other things, the records contain the gruesome disclosure that the Germans used political prisoners and prisoners of war for experiments into the amount of punishment the human body will stand when immersed in water at freezing or near freezing temperatures.

While refusing to go into details as to the nationalities of the prisoners, Col. Lovelace emphasized that none was American.

At least six were killed in this manner, he said. Records of about 25 such experiments have been uncovered. The complete clinical records, showing the names of the prisoners, their temperatures, blood presure, skin temperatures and other details are now in our hands.

Other documents tell of advanced experiments in meeting problems arising from operation of high velocity aircraft. In this, the colonel admitted, the enemy was ahead of American research. The Nazis had performed experiments on human beings in wind currents of 530 miles an hour, using a specially constructed wind tunnel. They had also conceived a revolutionary device to enable pilots to escape from their planes at speeds of over 500 miles an hour. It was a seat that was automatically catapulted from the plane by a charge of gun powder, hurling both the pilot and his seat 25 feet in the air. Other mechanism enabled him to release the seat in mid-air, after which he only had to pull his parachute cord when his velocity had slowed to a reasonable speed.

PREPARING FOR PEACE

Sen. George announced Friday that the finance committee, of which he is chairman, will get at the business of framing a post-war tax measure soon after congress reconvenes in October. Realizing that the end of the war may come at any time and without warning, he believes that time must not be lost in revising the tax laws which were suitable in war time but will prevent the expansion of private employment when the war is over.

Mr. George recognizes as few men do the controling effect which taxes exercise over the life of the nation. Some years ago he had the choice of being chairman of either the foreign relations committee or the finance committee. Few men would make the choice that he did, for the foreign relations post is from many points of view, including that of social prestige, the most attractive one in either house. Nevertheless Sen. George chose the finance chairmanship because he recognizes that taxes exert a larger influence over the economic welfare of the country and the world than do agreements with other nations. He recognizes that the greatest contribution that America can make to world betterment is by creating prosperous conditions at home. He sees tax revision as a prime essential for that.

Security markets have been sagging for two weeks because of the belief that peace is coming soon in the Pacific. In truth, the end of the war will depress our industries only if they are unable to expand enough to take up the slack caused by the cancellation of war orders. Existing taxes were frankly enacted to put a damper upon the quest for profits. The war time tax rates were run up to a maximum of 90 per cent on corporations and 94 per cent on individuals. In the face of these taxes there was expansion of war production, because the government took all that was turned out at a price that was profitable, but corporations which manufacture for a free market cannot expand their plant and buy new equipment with such tax rates. Nor can individuals assume risks in new enterprises when the government announces in advance that substantially all profits, if there are any, belong to it.

It's a year and a half since James F. Byrnes, then director of OWM, issued a report prepared for him by Bernard Baruch and John Hancock. It said, "Until it is definitely known that post-war taxes are to be reduced, the launching of new enterprises and the expansion of existing ones will be deferred." There has been no action, altho one war has long since ended.

Right after the defeat of Germany, Sen. George called upon congress to get at post-war tax legislation. He said that a downward revision was essential if plenty of jobs were to be available for the boys returning from the wars. He put the case even more effectively on Friday, when he said, "the sooner uncertainties in post-war tax structure are removed the sooner business will make commitments and the faster men can be put to work." At another point he said, "all taxpayers must know as soon as possible what their post-war tax burden is going to be so that they can plan their lives and their business properly."

Whose interests are served by withholding from the business man the facts which would enable him to proceed with employment-creating projects? Certainly not the soldiers' and sailors', and certainly not the war workers, who will lose their jobs. Only the Communists will profit if action is not taken in time.

MAN WITH A HOSE

It was Thomas Wolfe who reported that "only the dead live in Brooklyn." Oak Park, on the other hand, is a flourishing community of 70,000 souls. In Oak Park the thing to do is to retire to the lawn about twilight and spend four hours watering it. This passes the time. It also favors a meditative mood.

About dusk the fireflies begin showing over the creeping bent lawns of Oak Park. They dart about in erratic flight, showing lights in the conspiratorial fashion of Robert Louis Stevenson's lads with the bull's-eye lanterns. We are told that both males and females emit these luminous signals. Also that the flashing is to facilitate the meeting of the sexes. We have not heard of any other residents of Oak Park who indulge in this practice.

Sometimes, as the householder is directing a fine spray upon the creeping bent, the fireflies will fly right into the spray. They promptly bark their indignation in Morse code. A wet hen has nothing on a wet firefly. Other fireflies, however, come to ground and lie in the grass, glimmering dimly.

Fireflies seldom take a direct path in flight. They leap and dart in the gathering gloom. Some stay close to earth, flashing their lights on and off as regularly as the blinking wing lights on a passenger plane. Others will shoot housetop high and come down in a lighted dive as spectacular as the descent of a kamikaze pilot after the gunners are on him.

Persons who water creeping bent lawns in Oak Park take a certain comfort in the company the fireflies afford them. Some try to think up interpretations of the blinker messages sent them. "Thy sentinel am I?" Not exactly. "We are not alone?" Better. It is heartening, like a little ship passing on the crest of night.

The more prosaic burghers, however, are troubled by the irrational conduct of their small friends. Why do they dart and flare? The motive escapes the watcher, as it did Emerson when he went to Cambridge and saw the snakes running in the grass: "not to eat, not for love, for no reason that I could see." In Oak Park it is customary to do nothing without a sound and sensible reason. The fireflies are nonconformists, an unpredictable element in an ordered existence.

Then, too, certain proprietors of creeping bent lawns wonder whether the fireflies shouldn't be blamed for the appearance of dollar spot and brown patch, which begin to blight their lawns this time of year. The fireflies seem to nest in the grass. When respectable people are abed do they flash on the torch and burn the turf, giving it that ugly, seared look? Here is a research project for some one.

But in 45 minutes or an hour at most the fireflies have spent their energy and gone to rest. The night closes down. The street lamps as they come on are a poor substitute. They are not as cheerful; they do not divert the mind. The bent lawn stretches ahead. The gardener is left holding his hose. All that is left for him is the hope that his neighbors, less persevering than he, will yawn, think of bed, turn off the faucet, and thus increase the force of the stream coming thru his nozzle. Then he can finish his task more quickly. But his hope is not high. He knows his neighbors. They are villagers like himself, steady, conscientious folk. They will be at it as long as he will.

What is there for the mind in Oak Park when all fireflies are in bed? Perhaps the moon will come out. Perhaps the stars will show. Perhaps in Brooklyn the dead will rise.

ULTIMATUM TO JAPAN

The ultimatum sent from Potsdam to the Japanese government and people brought an almost immediate reply from Domei, the official Japanese news agency, saying that there would be no surrender. Premier Suzuki has now spoken to much the same effect, but perhaps this is not his last word in the matter. At any rate we hope that the door remains open.

The ultimatum told the Japanese they must accept the territorial terms laid down at the Cairo conference, which is to say the surrender of all the possessions they had taken by force and the restriction of Japanese sovereignty to the home islands. Japan's military power is to be broken and kept broken. The men we choose to try as war criminals must be surrendered to us. All that was merely repetition of previous declarations; what can be regarded as relatively new was the emphasis given the promise that Japan will be permitted to "maintain such industries as will sustain her economy . . . but not those industries which will enable her to rearm for war." The Japanese are assured access to raw materials and are told that if they set up a free government which respects civil rights they will be permitted to trade with the world and eventually can count upon being admitted to what is sometimes called the fellowship of nations.

We think these terms correspond pretty accurately to the requirements of the situation. What is more important, we think they correspond closely to the facts as they exist today. In truth, Japan for practical purposes, has already lost her conquests, including Formosa and Korea, because without a navy, a merchant marine, and an air force, she can't retain them against a strong nation determined to break her hold. Her communications with her possessions have been cut with the result that they no longer contribute to her strength.

Japan, must, sooner or later, accept any terms we wish to impose. She may doubt the determination of some or all of our allies to throw their full strength into the fight, but she can no longer doubt either the willingness or the ability of America to win the war.

Accordingly, we believe that even if the latest diplomatic overture from Potsdam fails, the effort to bring Japan to her senses should be continued. The situation as it exists is made to order for diplomatic action. The Japanese leaders know they can't win and our leaders know we can't lose. Upon the foundation of that agreed fact, peace can be built. The problem is to find a formula of surrender that will be acceptable all around. To do so will not be easy but it is for precisely such purposes that we have diplomats and a state department. If they are worth their salt, they will work ceaselessly, thru every available avenue, to end this war.

Certainly no sensible American takes pleasure in the destruction of Japanese lives and cities, to say nothing of the losses which these operations necessarily impose on our forces. Most of the objects for which we went to war against Japan have already been realized. Pearl Harbor has been avenged many times over; the Philippines are again free; the Japanese navy and air force have been reduced to impotence. Above all, the Japanese have been shown, in a fashion that they will not forget for several generations, at least, that they cannot dare challenge this country to war. From now on, there is little that we can gain for ourselves from the continuation of the struggle that has not already been gained.

The terms we are offering are neither unfair nor unreasonable. It is the duty of our diplomats to persuade the Japanese of that fact and of the futility of continuing a resistance that, however costly it may be to us, is bound to be far more costly to them.

NOTE ON MILITARY LEXICOGRAPHY

After we printed some observations the other day on the chair borne generals and their aids, fighting the war so valiantly in Washington, Chicago, and other points this side of salt water, we had a call from a gentleman whose two sons have been overseas for some time. His boys apparently have found themselves alternately amazed and befuddled by the endless stream of directives, orders, etc., with which the war department helps create the paper shortage.

Overseas, they informed their father, the authors are commonly referred to as paragraph troopers.

Strange things get into books. For example, the latest edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica says: "The Japanese are essentially a kindly hearted, laughter loving people, taking life easily and not allowing its petty ills unnecessarily to disturb their equanimity."—Washington Evening Star.

An Ohioan says he lived to the ripe old age of 100 by refraining from drinking, smoking, and running around with women, and by eating sparingly of plain food only. He tells us how, but not why.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

TIPS FOR DR. COLLINS

[On the Cultivation and Control of Poets]

It is not necessary in normal times to have a poet farm. It leads too often to overproduction and you may spend whole afternoons opening envelopes.

Even in the critical situation existing in the Line at the time of your departure—when the bin was empty, you remember—the only precaution taken by your understudy was to plow up two rows of radishes and plant poets [2 feet apart] in their places. This proved more than sufficient.

• • •

Ordinarily you will not even need a garden. A window box will serve, and is in some ways more convenient, since you can reach it from your desk, plucking a sonnet for the top of the column and a sprig of limerick for low-brow readers who start with your last line and climb until fatigued.

A colleague, Dr. Babcock, reports that a single flower pot supplies his needs, with a little left over for canning.

Poets should be planted in the spring, as a rule, for midsummer flowering. They should be watered daily. [If you must use gin instead of water, use it sparingly, for while it speeds the blossom it seldom promotes perfection.]

The problem of selecting an appropriate fertilizer is important but not difficult. Most poets thrive on a diet of other poets. Cannibalism seems to be a characteristic o' the species.

• • •

These suggestions, Dr. Collins, are for the future. For the present you need not worry. There are poems enough in the bin to last until the autumn of 1946.

GHOST OF THE WATERFALL

I who am lured by a siren moon
Wait by the waterfall endlessly.
Wait, where pale birches dip and swoon,
Keeping the tryst he made with me;

Wait, where the river's destiny
Endlessly tumbles it on to the sea.
Heartsick, I wait. Will a ghost never learn
That he, like the river, will never return?

Ruth Crary

[Miss Crary inclosed with her poem a note saying: "Having completed Stephen Leacock's course in 'How Not to Write Poetry,' and later his 'How Not to Write More Poetry,' I was well prepared for the Line's constructive exposition of the technique for Poems About Love. You will note that while Ghost of the Waterfall certainly is a love poem it does not mention 'love,' 'of,' 'dove,' or 'above'."]

Elysian Literacy

[The following letter from Jinks, with inclosure, was not intended for publication, as it violates the Line's age limit for contributors (2-102). But we are breaking the rule for the purpose of showing the incompetence of the Elysian department of education. It is assumed your brother has neither wife nor living parents and for this reason named you principal beneficiary of his insurance. In the event of your death before guaranteed payments have been made the unpaid payments will be made to your sister and brother in equal amounts, regardless of their circumstances. Your children may not collect the remainder because they do not come within the permitted class of beneficiaries of government insurance. In the event your sister and brother precede you in death and you also die before all payments have been made, the government will cease payment on the policy.

If you have the use of an automobile, simply present your furlough papers and a record of the car mileage.

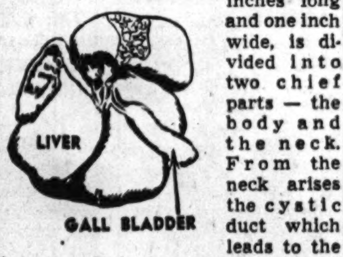
THE MISSION OF THE GALL BLADDER

THE gall bladder is an illustration of an organ which has a definite function and yet, removal is compatible with a healthful existence. This hollow, muscular sac, approximately three inches long and one inch wide, is divided into two chief parts — the body and the neck. From the neck arises the cystic duct which leads to the intestine. This channel may resemble the letter S or a corkscrew, depending upon the number of twists it takes.



The bladder itself is shaped like a pear. The large end, which points upward, is attached to the right side of the under surface of the liver. Variations in position and shape are not unusual. In fact, this organ is quite individualistic and the physician may remark, "By their gall bladders you shall know them." If you are in an exploratory mood you may place your fingers below the lowest rib, about three inches from the center line, to locate the usual site.

The main task of the structure is to store the bile secreted by the liver. During its stay in this reservoir, the greenish or yellow-brown substance with the spicy odor and bitter taste is concentrated thru the loss of water. This material assists in the digestion of fat. In addition it has a slightly laxative action and is thought to retard fermentation.

How does the gall bladder know when to expel its contents? The presence of fat in the duodenum causes the walls of this structure to produce a hormone called "cholecystokinin." The effect of this preparation is to induce contractions; the valve at the neck of the cystic duct relaxes; and the bile is sent to its destination. The rhythm may be upset by emotional turmoil. This is one reason why arguments at the dinner table should be taboo.

Indigestion may result when normal movements are disturbed or should they became sluggish. This may occur in the absence of inflammation or stones. The existence of rocks may occasion no symptoms and the patient is often wholly unaware of their presence. On the other hand, should they start to travel, the bile pathways may be obstructed and a typical colic ensues.

Infection is fairly common. How do germs reach the gall bladder? They may wander, via the blood stream, from any part of the body such as the tonsils, teeth, sinuses, even the appendix. Bacteria find good lodgings in this pouch and may reside there in comfort for life. Victims of typhoid fever, for example, are sometimes left with permanent colonies of bacilli.

Other elements leading to derangements include overweight, pregnancy, constipation, constricting clothes about the abdomen, lack of exercise, improper eating habits, and digestive upsets. The malady may appear in young or old, the thin or the obese but the typical victim is a female—"fair, fat, and forty."

The gall bladder patient learns by experience that he is more comfortable if he eats plain, simple foods and avoids eggs, and rich, greasy, and fried dishes. If there is an associated inflammation of the duodenum, a bland diet will prove useful. The physician often prescribes pure bile salts to aid in promoting a natural flow of bile. If stones are known to be present, fats must be restricted.

Why He Wrote in English

A man in Holland who before the war was a young boy wrote again last month after a silence of three years to his aunts in America. He wrote in English for the first time so that "you will read this to all you know." He said he could write a volume about the horrors of the German occupation but would sum it up with: "You have read about it and asked yourselves whether those tales are really true. They are."

He had been in prison for a while—on suspicion. After that there was always the terror of the weekly razzias, in which whole quarters of Amsterdam were blocked up, the houses searched, the Jews hunted down like wild beasts, and tens of thousands of "our best fellow countrymen" sent to death by torture.

This last winter, he said, had been terrible. No electricity, gas, street cars, motor cars, trains, or telephones, little fuel, and rations reduced every week. Those unable to pay black market prices starved to death. Pulp from pressed-out beet roots and fried tulip bulbs were considered delicacies. They caused dysentery, but he and thousands walked miles to get them.

"And now the brutes are gone and we are free again. Free! How sweet a thing is peace! But they have robbed us of everything. They have left us, as a nation and individually, as poor as church mice.

"Perhaps you will think I am exaggerating. I have tried to be as sober as possible, passing over in silence details which no decent person could even write down. The things we have seen remind one of the darkest middle ages."

After the liberation placards were posted thruout the city: "We knew who the Germans were. Now our children know it, too. Let us see to it that their children will not forget it."

Yet, he said, when the Nazis were led out of Amsterdam into captivity, they yelled: "We shall come back!"

Texas Peoples the World

To warriors from 47 states of this country, Texans are a nuisance in this war. No matter where you may be, one always pops up. Usually he will not hesitate to tell you he is winning the war. At Okinawa the reverse was met. A group of Texas marines was attempting to flush Japs from a cave. Finally one emerged, a quivering emaciated little job. "Look at him!" jeered a kibitzing Oklahoman. "He's a Texan!" The startled Jap bowed. "Yessssss," he said. "Sssssssix years. Galvessssston."

They Really Loved It

American intelligence about what would confront our forces on Okinawa was none too accurate. For one thing, snakes. The island foamed with them, the marines were told, but they met no snakes. Then the cameras. Okinawans feared them; when the shutter clicked, imprisoning their images in the films, their souls were destroyed. This latter tidbit was included in intelligence pamphlets, and some war correspondents wrote colorful tales of the natives racing fearfully away from those devils with cameras. But a marine we know, who survived the 80 days there, found two modern camera stores in Naha, the capital of the island.

Nice Digging

More on Okinawa: A painstaking officer was inspecting foxholes to see if they met the proper dimensions prescribed in the marine landing force manual. Several drew acid criticism from him. Then, as dusk fell, he came to one that inspired him to glowing praise. "Now, that," he cried, "is the kind of foxhole you should all dig!" Then, startled, he looked more carefully. In the foxhole lay a Jap, rifle in hand, quietly waiting for night. The officer drew his automatic and killed him.

Heat Hits Head

A secretary raced home to a western suburb one evening last week to escape Chicago's terrific heat. She shed her clothes as she entered the house, filled the bathtub with cold water, stepped in, and relaxed. A few minutes later her sister walked into the bathroom. "Aren't you staying?" the sister asked. With that she removed the secretary's hat from her head.

Chicago, July 26—I wonder what we are coming to, what kind of heritage we are leaving to our children?

Somewhere in your files of three years ago, you could find mention of our daughter, as one of the first girls from here to join the WAVES. Well, she is still in there, and is married to a man who is serving his sixth year in the navy.

One of our sons who made the initial landing at Bougainville, and served thru to the liberation of Guam is now home trying to get well. Our other son, 18 years of age, is now serving with the marines. Their mother and I are working in a war plant, in the machine shop, where B-29 motors are made.

Wednesday we went to work only to find that a strike had tied up everything. After going into the plant there was nothing we could do but go back home.

In December, 1941, two Japanese statesmen were in Washington talking nothing but peace, and while we were still believing them, they struck at Pearl Harbor and Manila. Today the heads of three great nations are talking peace, and yet our war efforts are being throttled, where the most important efforts should be made.

And why? Because we are allowing our country to become polluted with the poison whose virus is felt all over the world—I mean communism. I know the world has shrunk, and we cannot avoid the problems of the old world, but we cannot help others if we do not remain strong, and allow ourselves to become just another nation, no better than the rest.

Whatever happens cannot affect mother and me very much, as we have not a long time to stay, but our girl and our boys are fighting because they want to raise families as mother and dad did and in the country that mother and dad knew. I wonder if that is going to be possible? God grant they can.

ANTI-RED RUSSIANS

New York, July 19—We American citizens of Russian origin, coöperating to the utmost with our sons and money for world wide freedom to all peoples, are stunned by the unjust attitude assumed toward Russians. We request that it be definitely settled that the arrest of Russians in Finland be immediately terminated and they be given the opportunity to leave Finland; that a permanent injunction be issued preventing the deportation of war prisoners of Russian birth from Fort Dix; that no Russians be deported against their will to U. S. S. R. from Europe or any other country or territory in the world. This we beg in the name of all humanity and the universal principles of democratic freedom.

BROWDER'S BOAST

Chicago, July 19—In connection with the story in this morning's Tribune, quoting the house military affairs committee as reporting that Communists and Communist sympathizers have been commissioned as officers in the United States army, it would be well to read the following statement by Earl Browder in his report, "America's Decisive Battle," published last March:

"We are gradually breaking down and dissolving the barriers built up against us over a generation by the dominant forces in American society, as is witnessed by the action of the United States army in abolishing the old discriminations directed against Communists. We can confidently look forward to even more fundamental and dramatic confirmations of the correctness of the political path which we mapped and entered upon last May in our convention."

CIVIL RIGHTS IN GERMANY

Chicago, July 25—Your editorial in today's Tribune entitled "Excesses in Germany" so arouses me that I find myself writing to point out to you the basic fact that you seem to have ignored, namely: That all Nazi criminals have not as yet been rounded up, that Germany is our defeated enemy, and that the only way it is possible to prevent Germany's rearming for a third world war is to completely disarm the civilian populace and to enforce the strictest form of military occupation upon the civilian populace until such time as the Germans demonstrate a capacity to live in the world as peaceful citizens.

You make a studied attempt to prove that little "crime" was uncovered in the raids conducted last week-end by American troops in our zone of occupation. This is not at all surprising to any one who knows anything about the German people for the Germans prefer instead to choose leaders like Hitler who are criminals on the grand scale, and they follow willingly such leaders in committing crimes in the name of the state. Germans don't possess enough individualism to be petty criminals in the sense that crime exists in America.

You also state in your editorial that our raids were outrageous. Do you honestly think that Germans who permitted the horrors of Dachau and Buchenwald to go unchecked, who fostered the growth of Nazism and its resultant atrocities, and whose proud arrogance leads them to believe that their only crime is in losing the war—do you believe that those people should be permitted to have such precious civilian rights as we enjoy in America?

THAT WASN'T ON THE BURLINGTON, SISTER

Chicago, July 25—I saw GIs sweating it out at 105 degrees aboard a three bunk troop train, while suburbanites were fanned comfortably cool in their parlor car trains, and later chauffeured station wagons breezed them to lake shore beachheads.

NO PRECEDENTS FOR ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL PLAN

U. S. Aid Not Given in Any Other Cases

Plans to use federal funds to maintain as a memorial the family estate of President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., where he is buried in a rose garden, have aroused interest in the care and expense involved in the upkeep of the final resting places of his predecessor chief executives.

A survey of maintenance of tombs of the most prominent Presidents indicated that the late Mr. Roosevelt is the only one whose memorial would be tended at federal expense.

Thruout the list back to George Washington's time, from the simple Vermont village grave of Calvin Coolidge to the impressive New York City tomb of Ulysses S. Grant, all are cared for without expense to the federal government. In contrast to this long line of precedents plans are being made for the government to maintain two memorials to the latest deceased President.

Family Keeps Home's Use

In 1939 Mr. Roosevelt gave the government a tract of 16.31 acres and a $350,000 library built to house his public papers and correspondence. The library was financed by contributions solicited thru machinery of the Democratic national committee, but is to be maintained with government funds.

Mr. Roosevelt later deeded to the government his 33.23 acre Hyde Park estate, where he now rests in a grave over which the army has maintained a 24 hour guard since his death. When all members of the Roosevelt family have relinquished their rights of tenancy, an annual appropriation of $50,000—recently asked of congress but withdrawn because of a technicality—is to be sought for maintenance of the $42,830 property.

A proposal was made in congress only a few days ago by Rep. O'Toole [D., N. Y.] to permit members of the Roosevelt family to use the estate whenever they felt so inclined, for which they would pay expenses, including taxes for the period they used it, and for the government to pay the upkeep during their absence.

Contrasted with these proposed uses of public funds is the financial independence shown in the care of graves of the Presidents in the country's earlier history.

GEORGE WASHINGTON

The house and grounds at Mount Vernon, Va., where George Washington is interred, have been maintained in an excellent condition without a penny of expense to the government. There is no perpetual guard at the tomb, altho the property is protected by civilian caretakers.

The memorial is maintained by the Mount Vernon Ladies Association of the Union, oldest patriotic association of women in the United States. The association acquired 200 acres, including the mansion and tomb, in 1859 after both the United States government and the state of Virginia had refused to purchase the estate.

The association, which is incorporated under the laws of Virginia, charges a 25 cent fee for admission to the grounds and keeps the mansion and grounds open to the public every day of the year.

THOMAS JEFFERSON

After Thomas Jefferson's death his estate at Monticello, Va., where he is buried, was saved for his heirs by friends who paid off his creditors. The estate is operated by the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, a private organization which bought the property in 1923.

ANDREW JACKSON

The "Hermitage," estate of Andrew Jackson near Nashville, Tenn., his tomb, garden and the 500 acre farm he tilled before and after he became President, have been preserved and restored by the Ladies Hermitage association, an organization of women descended from the Jackson lineage and old families in Tennessee.

The state owns title to the farm and to the 26 acre homesite and contributes $5,850 a year to upkeep of the shrine, but the ladies' association operates and supervises it and owns all the Jackson furnishings, letters, and keepsakes. Most of the operating funds are provided by revenues from the 25 cent admission fee to the grounds, sale of souvenirs—mostly carved from fallen pine trees, and profits from farm operations.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

The state of Illinois provides the funds—about $15,000 a year—for care of the tomb of Abraham Lincoln at Springfield. A residence for the custodian, Herbert Wells Fay, is on the 20 acres surrounding the tomb in Oak Ridge cemetery. Fay is aided by an assistant guide, a groundskeeper employed the year 'round and a fourth worker during the summer. The state took over the care of the tomb and grounds in the late 1870s.

ULYSSES S. GRANT

Popular subscription of $600,000 built the impressive tomb of U. S. Grant, mecca for visitors, on Riverside drive in New York City. It is maintained and controled by the Grant Monument association, a private group of New Yorkers, established in 1891. Annual expenses of about $15,000 a year for repairs and salaries of caretakers are defrayed from an annual New York City appropriation of about $6,000 and from the Grant endowment fund which receives contributions from the public and sells picture post cards and small booklets about Grant and the tomb.

GROVER CLEVELAND

The only maintenance of the grave of the 22d and 24th President at the little town of Princeton, N. J., is the customary grass and shrubbery trimming provided by the local cemetery association. The simple but once beautiful monument, which the burial ground superintendent said hadn't been cleaned in 16 years, is chipped and scarred from the activities of souvenir hunters. Many students from Princeton university visit the grave, as do hundreds of tourists from all over the country.

WILLIAM McKINLEY

Income of $2,500 to $3,000 a year from an endowment fund is sufficient to pay expenses of maintaining the McKinley memorial at Canton, O., a $585,000 structure built with funds from popular subscription. The endowment fund amounted to only $60,000 when the memorial was dedicated in 1907 but had grown to $130,000 by 1943 when the memorial association turned it over to the Ohio Archeological and Historical association along with responsibility for the memorial.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

There are two memorials to "Rough Rider" Roosevelt. One is the home in New York City where he was born. It is operated by the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial association as a sort of museum which houses mementoes of the President and each year welcomes thousands of school children to a free educational exhibit. Funds for its upkeep are collected by subscriptions of various women's Roosevelt groups thruout the country.

The other and chief memorial is a shrine at Oyster Bay, N. Y., constructed at a cost of $700,000 collected by subscription thru campaigns of the Roosevelt Memorial association, a private group. In 1942 the association turned the memorial over to the township of Oyster Bay which supervises its care, the cost of which it budgets at $6,000 a year. Part of this money is received by charging visiting motorists a nominal parking fee.

WOODROW WILSON

No guard is maintained and no public expense is involved in the maintenance of Woodrow Wilson's tomb in the Protestant Episcopal cathedral in Washington, D. C.

WARREN G. HARDING

The memorial to Warren G. Harding in Marion, O., constructed with a fund of nearly $1,000,000 raised by popular subscription, and the Harding home and museum there are maintained by the Harding Memorial association. Inasmuch as the memorial was so designed that it requires no attendants, artificial lighting, or expensive upkeep, an endowment fund reserved from the original subscription is sufficient to provide for the major expenditures of salaries to caretakers.

CALVIN COOLIDGE

The simple family plot in which Calvin Coolidge lies at Plymouth, Vt., stands out in the village cemetery only because of the Presidential seal on the granite headstone and because the grass on his grave is cut more often than on the others near-by.

His widow pays all the expense of caring for the lot, employing a caretaker to keep it trimmed. Cemetery commissioners of the village take no special care either of Coolidge's grave or the entire cemetery.

MOTHER, 29, SLASHES THROATS OF HER 3 CHILDREN; ONE DIES

Warren, O., July 29 (AP)—The youngest of three children, whose mother, police said, slashed their throats and then turned the knife on herself, died here today at St. Joseph hospital.

The other two were reported in good condition. Their 29-year-old widowed mother, who suffered only a superficial wound, was held on an open charge in Trumbull county jail.

Sheriff Ralph R. Millikin said the tragedy occurred in the family's home in nearby Braceville. He said the children, aged 5, 4, and 2, apparently were sleeping when the mother slashed them, wounded herself and then ran nearly three miles down the road before collapsing.

Millikin said the woman's husband was killed two years ago in an accident at a steel plant here.

UFEMW TO VOTE ON PROPOSAL TO DISSOLVE UNION

The United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers union [CIO] said yesterday that it would conduct a nation-wide referendum during the week beginning Wednesday on the CIO executive board's proposal that the union be dissolved. Members in the army and navy also will be polled. The proposal was made as a result of a jurisdictional dispute in which the UFEMW contended the United Automobile Workers union was raiding its membership in Peoria and Chicago in "violation of CIO policy."

	YOU SAVE	$12.84
For a 12 mo $200 LOAN	At Usual Small Loan Rate, You Pay	$39.52
	At Merchandise Bank You Pay Only	16.00

At Merchandise Bank a similar loan will cost you only $5.50 (if you use the popular One Co-Maker Plan), saving you $15.34 on $100 for 1 year. (Can't you use that fifteen dollars?) Or—if you borrow on your signature only, the cost is only $8—and you still save $12.84. In either case the saving amounts to nearly as much as two payments. PROBE PUSHED IN SKYSCRAPER PLANE CRASH

Army Investigators See Empire State Debris

New York, July 29 [Special]—Bodies of eight of the 13 persons killed yesterday when an army bomber crashed into the Empire State building had been identified today as efforts to fix responsibility for the disaster led to a statement blaming the pilot by Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia.

"If the pilot had been up where he belonged there would have been no trouble," the mayor said. The pilot was Lt. Col. William F. Smith, 27, formerly deputy commander of a bombardment group in the European theater.

Investigators View Debris

An army board of inquiry visited the 79th floor of the Empire State building, the world's tallest structure, to view the charred and twisted debris of the 8-ton plane, a B-25 Billy Mitchell bomber, which plowed into the biulding at this level to explode and touch off the highest building fire in history.

No statement regarding the cause of the crash was forthcoming from army sources as the inquiry proceeded but Brig. Gen. G. P. Kane, commanding officer of the Newark army air base, where the plane was bound, and Brig. Gen. M. F. Schneider, air inspector of the army air forces, called on LaGuardia to express the army's regrets to the city.

They presented a letter from Lt. Gen. Eaker, deputy commander of the army air forces, saying that "it is our keenest desire that everything humanly possible be done for those who have suffered in this unfortunate and regrettable accident and we shall leave nothing undone which lies within our power to that end."

Army public relations officers said the army usually has accepted full financial responsibility in such cases. Property damage to the Empire State building has been estimated at $500,000 by building officials. In addition, a $75,000 penthouse belonging to Henry Hering, sculptor, on the roof of a 12 story building nearby, was wrecked and burned by one of the plane's engines which fell on it after breaking loose from the plane and tearing a hole in the south side of the skyscraper.

Death Hits Family Twice

Killed in the plane with Lt. Col. Smith were Sergt. Christopher S. Domitrovich, 31, of Granite City, Ill., and a "hitchhiking" sailor whose identification today revealed additional pathos in the disaster. He was Albert G. Perna, 19, aviation machinist's mate, 2d class, on his way to visit his parents and sister in Brooklyn to console them over the death in action in the Pacific two weeks ago of his brother, Anthony, 23.

Perna had been stationed at the Squantum naval base, near Bedford, Mass. Learning of his brother's death he obtained emergency leave and caught a ride on the bomber. His brother was killed in the sinking of the destroyer Luce off Okinawa.

In addition to the three men in the plane, the identified victims were Paul Dearing, 35, a publicity man for the National Catholic Welfare council; Mrs. Margaret Mullens, 33, of Hoboken, N. J.; Jennie Sozzi, 40, of Brooklyn; Patricia O'Connor, 21, New York city, and Mary Lou Taylor, 19, the Bronx, N. Y. All were employes of the council, whose offices on the 79th floor of the Empire State building were wrecked by the plane. Bodies of the other five victims are so badly burned that identification will be possible only thru dental charts, police said.

Ten of 24 persons injured in the disaster remained in hospitals today and the condition of two was said to be critical. They suffered multiple burns of the face, arms, and body.

ROBBERS BIND WATCHMAN, TAKE $300

Nick Kamakas, a night watchman, was bound and blindfolded early yesterday by two robbers who entered the grocery of James Lalagas at 648 Blue Island av. and took $300 from the cash register.

BOY, 7, KILLED AFTER HITCHING RIDE ON TRUCK

Roger Chavez, 7, of 918 S. Paulina st., was killed yesterday when he fell from the rear of a milk truck on which he apparently had hitched a ride. The child fell at Taylor st. and Hermitage av. when Jack Levy, 2445 N. Talman av., the driver, swerved to avoid striking a parked automobile. Levy said he was unaware that the child was on the truck.

Dr. Andrew Erickson, 58, of 843 N. Pine av., died in St. Anne's hospital of injuries suffered Friday when his automobile struck a lamp post at Grand and Kildare avs. He had been a physician and surgeon in Chicago since 1921, and was a school physician for the Chicago Health department. WOMEN TAKE UP ROLLING PINS TO SURPRISE SPOOK

The women of Warrenville, frightened almost nightly by an elusive "ghost" who makes dogs bark and likes to drag heavy logs about, yesterday prepared to band together to demand police protection. They also think a tap on the head with a rolling pin might discourage the intruder.

Du Page county police admitted the prowler, or whatever he is, is elusive. Thus far he has wiggled out of every trap set for him.

Anyway, women of the little town 30 miles west of Chicago, near Wheaton, are serving notice that they aren't going to be bothered any more. Rolling pins, pokers, and husbands are being kept handy.

EXPECT MURDER CHARGE IN DEATH OF SWEETHEART

The state's attorney's office yesterday said that evidence against Edward Mroz, 28, of 2136 21st st., who confessed slaying his sweetheart last Friday when she attempted to break their engagement, would be presented to the grand jury within a few days. An indictment charging murder is expected. Mroz at first denied slaying the girl, Miss Stella Nowak, 20, of 1818 21st st., but when confronted with results of a lie detector test confessed that he fired three shots at her after a fight in her apartment. Mroz said he had been drinking.

BAN ON TRAVEL CANCELS DRUM, BUGLE CONTEST

A belated ruling by the office of defense transportation yesterday forced cancelation of a national junior drum and bugle corps contest in Aurora. Sponsors called it off after the ODT prevented 11 Chicago corps from train travel to the tournament.

Rockford and Quincy, Ill., corps and one from Iowa City, Ia., already had started for Aurora before an order issued by Frank Perrin, chairman of the board of civilian travel, reached them. The Rockford and Aurora corps entertained 5,000 persons who collected to see the contest, and the Iowa City and Quincy corps played at Mooseheart.

J. S. Lohr, president of the Aurora junior corps and vice president of the contest, said it had been in preparation for weeks, but the ODT made no move to interfere until Saturday.

Keep the Baby Comfortable in Hot Weather

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It takes an almost paralyzingly hot spell, with two babies in the house, to make me write once more about caring for a baby in summer, because one often forgets how miserable heat can make them.

For those mothers who have not been thru that experience, often a trying one, it can, however, be made more bearable if, instead of learning by the process of trial and error, you have at your disposal some suggestions offered by those who have been thru it.

One of the first myths to dispel is that "babies don't feel the heat." I heard this said again only the other day. But it is not so. Just because the baby can't describe his discomfort doesn't mean that he doesn't feel it.

In the first place, if you've ever been ill in midsummer, you know that there is no hotter place than bed. One-half of the body, being in contact with the mattress, cannot get air; therefore the evaporation which normally cools the body can't take place. Also a baby's body temperature is unstable, so that it does not accommodate itself to either cold or heat as quickly as does an adult's.

But even a sittingup or crawling baby feels the heat—in some degree, altho as a baby gets older and develops stamina he stands it better and better, as he does other adverse conditions, as, for instance, he develops a growing resistance to germs. This is illustrated, to give only one example, by the fact that we do not go on thru a child's life observing the "contagion technique" of sterilizing everything connected with him, as we do thru a certain period of his babyhood.

Liberated War Prisoner and His Bride

Capt. Hinkle Marries Miss Mathewson

A romance which began in mid-Atlantic aboard the Ile de France 16 years ago culminated in the marriage yesterday of Capt. Walter J. Hinkle of the army, who spent three years as a prisoner of the Japanese, and Miss Eileen Kennedy Mathewson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kennedy Mathewson of Santa Barbara, Cal., and New York.

The ceremony was a quiet, family one at 5 p. m. in St. Ambrose church with the Rev. John D. Slowey officiating. A supper followed in the Shoreland hotel. Afterwards Capt. Hinkle and his bride left on a wedding trip to the north woods.

The captain, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fisher Hinkle of S. Green st., is a patient at Percy Jones hospital in Battle Creek, Mich. Capt. Hinkle was attended as best man by a fellow prisoner, Capt. James W. Daly of St. Paul, Minn., a patient in Gardiner General hospital.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a hoop skirted gown of eggshell satin and carried an unusual muff of green orchids which matched a little hat made of the same blossoms.

The former Miss Mathewson was graduated from Immaculate Heart college in Hollywood, Cal., and from the University of California at Los Angeles. Capt. Hinkle is a graduate of Morgan Park Military academy and of the University of Michigan. He was wounded on a night mission in the Philippines and was flown to Mindanao, where he was captured when the Japs arrived in May, 1942. They transferred him to the Davao penal colony before taking him to Bilibid prison in Manila.

Officers to Discuss Raising $250,000 for Second Rest Haven

The directors and administrative officers of 12 service auxiliaries will hold a special meeting at Rest Haven convalescent home, 1919 Prairie av., Wednesday night to discuss the raising of $250,000 for a second home. Negotiations for purchasing a site on the northwest side already are under way. Preliminary plans call for a home with a 100 bed capacity and quarters for medical staff, attendants, and other employes. It is expected that Samuel A. Hoffman, former assistant state's attorney, will be invited to direct the drive.

The present Rest Haven, in operation for 30 years, gives post-hospital and convalescent care to persons in need. So heavily have its facilities been taxed that the board considers extension of service imperative. Mrs. Harry Solomon is chairman. The auxiliary sponsors are headed by Mrs. Fanny I. Chern.

Freccia's Bach with Chicago Symphony Peak of His Brilliant Ravinia Farewell

Concert by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, Massimo Freccia, conductor. Presented at Ravinia Sunday afternoon, July 29, 1945. The program:

Overture to "La Scala di Seta" .... Rossini
Symphony in G major [B. & H. 13] .. Haydn
Toccata in C major .... Bach-Weiner
Two Nocturnes, "Clouds" and "Festivals" .... Debussy
"La Oracion del Torero" .... Turina
"Evocacion" and "Triana," from "Iberia" .... Albeniz-Arbos

Time is purely a relative matter at Ravinia. If the Chicago Symphony orchestra is stuck with a dull conductor, the week is interminable; if it has captured a good one, the four concerts take wings. Distinctly in the latter class is Massimo Freccia, one of the most interesting newcomers of the festival decade, who just completed his first but surely not his last visit to Chicago.

Mr. Freccia, like Erich Leinsdorf, is an experienced conductor in his thirties, a kind of halfway house in music between the prodigious Leonard Bernstein, storming the citadel of fame in his twenties, and the firmly established Artur Rodzinski, now at the crest of a formidable career, a man who has gained depth without losing brilliance. Pierre Monteux, of course, is in a class by himself. He is savoring the vintage years, and many of us would like to share every concert of that heady bouquet.

But back to Mr. Freccia. He is, I begin to suspect, a passionate perfectionist who might be a fanatic save for that faint quirk of humor. Three of his concerts were distinguished; the fourth, built around Beethoven and Brahms, reached for more than it captured. But there was nothing smug about it. He simply had set himself a task not quite achieved. More rehearsal would have helped, more performance will help. For Freccia is going places, and with his musical intelligence, his fastidious integrity and his sensitive ear, his talent will deepen and develop as he goes. It will make good listening on the journey, perhaps great listening when he arrives.

Yesterday's concert, meanwhile, was a true pleasure. The day was ideal, the performance beautifully scaled to the climax of the glorious Toccata in C major, the mighty organ work Busoni set so superbly into the piano idiom and Weiner captured so richly for orchestra. I never trust a conductor who mauls Bach, so my respect for Mr. Freccia soared when his way with the Toccata turned out to be strong, resilient and boldly brilliant. The orchestra played with tingling precision, the slow movement had a grave and lovely reticence, the fugue sparkled. This was the great Bach speaking.

There were other delightful things, too. The concert began with one of those ingratiatingly witty overtures of Rossini, this one a comic opera piece called "The Silken Ladder," gay as elopements or juggled colored balls. The Haydn was limpid and fresh, Debussy's nocturnes were etchings in delicacy, and the orchestral augmentation of Joaquin Turina's "Narrative of a Toreador" was as subtle a telling of death in the afternoon as the string quartet original I cherish in Gordon Quartet recording. From this hint of the Spaniard's Spain, Mr. Freccia swung into Arbós' seductive settings of Albeniz's "Evococion" and "Triana" and held them brilliantly within their frames, which is the only way to display Spanish music or Spanish dancing.

I was sorry when the concert ended, which I should think is the nicest thing you can say about a concert.

Lake Genevans Avoid Difficult Resort Travel

BY JUDITH CASS

WITH the transportation situation as it is this summer, those who have homes at Lake Geneva, Wis., are lucky in being able to reach their country estates without crowding vital travel routes.

New Lake Geneva home owners are Mr. and Mrs. David Shupe of Rockford, who have bought Edgewood, formerly the home of the Edward F. Swifts and one of the show places of that area. The property includes nearly 40 acres, of which 20 are on the lake shore, and adjoins Wychwood, the former Charles L. Hutchinson estate on the east, and the Stenning, the Daniel Peterkin home, on the west. The estate more recently was owned by the late J. J. Lynch of Chicago.

The Benjamin F. Lindheimers have sold their handsome lake shore home to Mr. and Mrs. De Forest Hunt of De Kalb, Ill. The estate, named Walpatmar after the Lindheimers' children, Walter, Patricia, and Marjorie, has been rechristened Spruce Lane by the Hunts. Mr. and Mrs. Hunt, who have two sons, John, 14, and Eugene, 13, have been summer residents at the lake for a number of years and last season leased The Anchorage, the Frederick H. Farnsworth lake shore home in the city of Lake Geneva. Spruce Lane adjoins Holly Bush House, the John Eliot Warner home, and Casa del Sueno, Mrs. Philip T. Starck's country home.

Mr. and Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, now in their Lake Geneva home, have just learned that their son, Lt. Warner Jr., has been awarded the silver star in Italy. He had previously received the bronze star for heroism in action and outstanding leadership. The Warners' son-in-law, Ensign Clarence Sills, is with the navy in the Pacific, and his wife is spending the summer with her parents in Lake Geneva. The John Cliffords [Mary Warner] also are with the Warners. The Cliffords' daughter, Catharine Warner Clifford, celebrated her 2d birthday recently with 45 little friends from around the lake as birthday guests.

One 2 year old who missed the party was little Suzy Pope, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. William Pope. Lt. Pope is with the navy in Bremerton, Wash., where Suzy and her mother have joined him. Lt. Pope's mother, Mrs. S. Austin Pope, is president of the Lake Geneva Garden club. The Popes' other son, Lt. Bruce Pope, is with the army in Tripoli.

On the Calendar

The garden of the Ross J. Beattys' Highland Park home will provide a bucolic background for an outdoor program of music, poetry, and dancing which the MacDowell Society of Allied Arts is arranging from 5 to 7 p. m. on Sunday. Miss Florence Donnersberger, who is known as Floria Campbell in her operatic and concert appearances, will sing. Gail Brook [Mrs. Walter C. Burket], Evanston writer, will read her poems, and Miss Barbara Brewer, modern dance interpreter, will present scenes from Offenbach's "Gaite Parisienne."

In the receiving line, Mrs. Leon J. Willien, president of the society, will be assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Beatty, Mrs. Edgar C. Welborn, membership chairman; Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Sherman and Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis.

The directors of the Service club will meet for luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today in the Woman's Athletic club to discuss plans for a fall benefit.

Engagements

In New York Lt. Comdr. Roswell Miller of the naval reserve and Mrs. Miller of that city and Millbrook, N. Y., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Margaret Morrison, to Lt. Chauncey Ryder McPherson Jr. of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. McPherson of Bernardsville, N. J. Miss Miller is a granddaughter of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie of New York and Dornock, Scotland, and of the late Mr. Carnegie, and of Mrs. Roswell Miller of New York and Millbrook and of the late Mr. Miller of Chicago. She attended the Spence school and the Brearley school and is a member of the New York chapter of the Red Cross Motor corps. Lt. McPherson attended the Hun school and Princeton university. He recently returned from Italy.

Comdr. and Mrs. Eugene Charles Lang of St. Charles announce the engagement of their daughter, Celeste, to James Chartrand Hollahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Hollahan of Glenwood av. Miss Lang was graduated from the Convent of the Sacred Heart and from Barat college in Lake Forest. Her fiance received his degree from the law school at Northwestern university. He has been discharged from the army following service in England and Egypt. The marriage will take place in the fall, when it is hoped that Comdr. Lang of the navy and the Langs' son, Ensign Nicholas Lang of the merchant marine, will both be here on leave from their duties in the Pacific.

At a cocktail party at home in La Jolla, Cal., yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Chouteau Breder announced the engagement of Mrs. Breder's daughter, Miss Georgiana Daniels, to Midshipman Albert Charles Blatz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave G. Blatz of Milwaukee. Miss Daniels, daughter of the late George H. Daniels, is a granddaughter of Mrs. William Lane Marston of Pasadena, formerly of Chicago, and of the late Mrs. Gertrude Potter Daniels of Pasadena and Chicago. Mr. Blatz, who attended Brown university, spent three years in Alaska and the South Pacific and now is taking officer's training in the navy supply school. The wedding will take place in September after he receives his commission.

Wedding News

In an 8:30 p. m. ceremony on Saturday in the Michigan Shores club, Miss Margaret Kenworthy Jones, daughter of Mrs. Jesse Raymond Jones of Highland Park, became the bride of David Tilden Sanders III. of the merchant marine, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sanders, also of Highland Park. A reception followed in the home of the bride's mother. The bride was attended by her twin sister, Mrs. Robert Earhart; their younger sister, Dorothy; Mrs. Sanders' sister, Betsey; Miss Merribeth Riblett, Miss Ruth McKay, and Mrs. Daniel M. Hollenshade Jr., as bridesmaids. Her sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas C. Jones, was matron of honor, and Mr. Sanders was his son's best man. Because Lt. Jones is with the marines and could not be here and give his sister in marriage, that service was performed by their uncle, Philip W. Jones of Port Washington, L. I.

Mr. Sanders, who spent a year in India with the American field service before entering the merchant marine, arrived from the west coast on Thursday. His bride will accompany him west to spend the remainder of his furlough there.

When the ship on which Lt. William S. Bradway Jr. of the naval reserve has been serving in the Pacific returned to this country for overhauling, his fiancée, Miss Mary Craighead, daughter of Mrs. Myral Weeghman Craighead of Evanston, left for the west coast to join him for their marriage. The ceremony took place at 5 p. m. on July 18 in St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Seattle, Wash. A small reception followed in the Washington Athletic club for the officers on Lt. Bradway's ship and their wives.

Lt. Bradway, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bradway of Gloucester, N. J., and his bride have gone to Vancouver and Victoria, B. C., on a wedding trip. Later they will go to San Francisco, Cal., where he will take a training course while waiting for his ship to return to sea.

Sally Requests a Teeter Chair for Ailing Child

[Sally Joy Brown department activities are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Mrs. W., who was referred to this department by a nurse, writes a request for her only child as follows: "We are desirous of finding a pre-war metal framed, canvas seated teeter chair, and possibly you can help us. Our baby, who is just a year and a half old, has been extremely ill for the last several months with a rare malady, which suddenly deprived her of speech, hearing, sight, and motion. Thru constant nursing and medical care, she is gradually regaining these faculties. Now something is needed which will encourage and again teach her the use of her feet and legs, but will at the same time support her limp back, and an aid, such as I have mentioned, was recommended. We will appreciate any efforts in our behalf."

There are five children in the S. family, ranging in age from 2 to 7. Their father is ill in a navy hospital, and their mother only recently has returned to them after seven weeks hospitalization for a nervous disorder. A stroller would aid her in caring for the youngest child, who has been a little slow in learning to walk, and clothing for boys 2, 4, and 7, and girls 5 and 6, will be appreciated. They live with a relative on the far south side of the city, and an offer from that general vicinity can be called for most conveniently.

Weddings

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Otto H. Amling of Maywood of the marriage on June 24 of their daughter, Ruth, to Lt. Leonard William Kolb of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Kolb of Peoria, Ill. The wedding took place in St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church and was followed by a reception in the Elmhurst Country club. Both Lt. Kolb and his bride attended the University of Illinois. They are at home in Oak Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arquilla of Calumet av. announce the marriage on July 7 of their daughter, Lucie, to Ensign Richard C. Hupp of the naval reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Hupp of La Fayette av. The wedding took place in Bond chapel at the University of Chicago. The bride attended DePauw university. Ensign Hupp was graduated from Purdue university and received his commission from the naval reserve midshipman's school at Columbia university on July 5. He has taken his bride to Fort Schuyler, N. Y., where he is stationed.

The marriage of Miss Janet Davies, daughter of Mrs. Walter C. Davies of Estes av. and Wakefield, Mich., to Corp. Archie E. Tregoning of the army, son of Mrs. Renatis Tregoning of Wakefield, took place at 11 a. m. on Friday in St. Paul's-by-the-Lake. A wedding breakfast followed in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Corp. Tregoning and his bride have gone on a wedding trip to the north woods. He was injured while with the army in Germany and now is a patient in Gardiner General hospital.

INSTALMENT VII

LINDA INSISTENT

Bruce Sherrill flashed a quick look at Linda. She had not told him young Randall was still alive.

"What are we going to do with him" Cliff Jr. asked. "Take him over to the Diamond Tail?"

"I reckon that would be best," his father said.

"Can't you see he is sick?" Linda broke out. "He can't ride."

"He's been riding for 'most two days," Brand said callously. "He can make out to do 20 miles more."

"What kind of men are you?" the girl cried desperately. "Apaches torture their prisoners. I thought you were decent white folks."

"Keep outa this," the cattleman ordered her. "Go into the house."

She steadied her voice before she answered. "I want to talk with you, father—alone," she said in a low voice.

"I've got more important business on hand," he told her roughly. "Later I'll tell you plenty."

Her eyes held fast to his. "We'll talk now—or never. I'm of age. I'd rather work in a railroad hash house than live here with men who have turned a wounded prisoner over to be murdered by his enemies. I'll leave—and never come back."

Cliff Applegate stared at his daughter in astonishment. She had been pert and impudent often enough, but she had never before set her will to stand against him on a matter of importance.

"I mean it," she said. "If you take this man over to the Diamond Tail or if you send for Uncle Jeff to get him I'll not stay here another day."

Cliff reined in his anger, checked by a warning voice inside that was close to fear. If he drove her too far she might do just that, and regret it later.

"What is it you want me to do?" he asked harshly.

"I want you to keep this man hidden here till he is able to travel, then turn him over to the law."

"The law!" snorted her father. "And have a rustler's jury turn him loose to start his devilitry all over again."

"When we started to comb the hills for this fellow it was to rub him out for shooting Ben — and that's what he deserves," the cattleman retorted. "This is man business. You've got no place meddling in it."

Linda ignored that. "If you'd met him in the hills and he had died fighting, that would be different," she persisted. "But he dragged himself to our house sick and wounded. Let him stay here till he is well, anyhow, and then make up your mind."

"And if our riders tell the Pitchfork and the Diamond Tail that he is here, what then?"

"They don't need to know he is on the ranch. Nobody need know except us four."

"Bud Wong would know, after he comes back and starts cooking," Cliff Jr. suggested.

"Leave Bud to me," his sister replied. "He'll be close as a clam if I ask him."

"You're blackmailing me," her father told Linda bitterly.

"I'm keeping you from doing something you would always hate yourself for having done. We've got to be fair even to an enemy. I don't like him any better than you do."

The ranchman turned his resentment on Sherrill. "Get back into the house," he ordered. "Before some of our riders drift back and see you. I haven't made up my mind what I'm going to do, but there's no sense standing out here yapping about it." To Brand he said irritably, "Better put this fellow in yore bed, boy, till I decide what's best."

Linda knew she had won a victory, for the present at least.

Before Bruce Sherrill had imposed himself upon them the Applegate family had been a friendly and closeknit one, but now their casual carefree life had been disrupted. None of them was happy. Tho secretly glad they had not turned their prisoner over to the Randalls, they felt that they had betrayed their friends.

Brand came back from a visit to the Diamond Tail in a sullen temper. The family were at dinner when he walked into the room.

"How is Ben?" Linda asked.

"Better. Doc thinks he has a good chance to make it. I'm not going back there again. I felt like a skunk, sitting there and keeping my trap shut when the boys got to guessing where Sherrill could be. Whose side are we on anyhow?"

"I've wondered about that myself," his father said bitterly.

"One thing is sure," Cliff Jr. contributed. "When this gets out we won't have any friends among those we have always trailed with. They'll change the name of this ranch to the Double Cross."

"We're doing the only thing we could do," Linda submitted, rather humbly. "You good as told me so yesterday, Brand."

"You oughtn't ever to meet any of yore enemies, except with guns in yore hands," Brand flared out. "Take this guy upstairs. You look after him when he is sick and wounded, and you find out the cuss is human same as yoreself."

Unexpectedly his father came out in support of the course they had taken. "We'll live down any feeling there may be. I've been thinking that if Ben gets well even the Randalls may be glad after a while they didn't get a chance to hang Sherrill. But I'll be mighty pleased when he's well enough for me to take him to town and turn him over to the sheriff."

"I never did meet a nester like him before," Brand said. "Most of them are sad looking trash, meek but obstinate as a government mule. When one of them drops in at a round-up you feel like throwing a rope on him to drag the poor cuss up and fill him with steak and flapjacks. But this guy is different. He turns that grin of his on you and wants to know when the hanging is going to be."

"Truth is, he isn't by rights a nester," Cliff Jr. cut in. "He bought some of his land, and he is grading up his stuff same as we are. That whiteface bull of his is a jim-dandy. Trouble with him is he horned in too late and tried to grab off our range. Then when we wouldn't stand it he threw in with the covered wagon riff-raff."

"Thanks for explaining him to us," his father said sourly.

Since the first day of Sherrill's arrival Linda had seen almost nothing of him. Bud Wong prepared his meals for him and served them in the bedroom. From her brothers she learned that the wound was healing and that in a few days he would be able to travel. One afternoon he hobbled downstairs.

"What are you doing here?" she asked. "Don't you know that one of the ranch boys might drop in any minute?"

"They are all down in the south pasture working stock," he told her.

Inquiring Camera Girl

By Maryon Zylstra

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Carl R. Canterbury, Moline, Ill.]

THE QUESTION

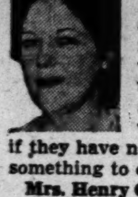
Should women be willing to quit work and return to their homes when the war ends?

WHERE ASKED

State-Lake building, 190 N. State st.

THE ANSWERS

Corp. Bob Black, 5050 Sheridan rd.—They should be willing to give up their jobs, go back home, and quit running around. When the service men come back they will need some one to look after a home for them. I'm one of the persons who believe that a woman's place is in the home. She does the most good there.

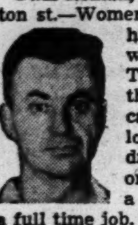


Mrs. Samuel Ickovits, housewife, 5050 Glenwood av.—There are going to be a lot of boys coming back who are going to want jobs and who are going to need them. Women will have to surrender their jobs. However, I see nothing wrong with women working if they have no children. They need something to occupy their time.

Mrs. Henry Orlove, housewife, 6807 Sheridan rd.—Naturally, the men who have been discharged and who will be discharged deserve to have a means of making a living. I believe most women would rather stay at home than work anyway, and will be more than willing to quit work when men can take their places.

Mrs. W. C. Lamuth, nurse, 5050 Glenwood av.—I'm sure most women's husbands who have been in the service will want their wives to stop working and to stay at home. We're all working to win the war, but the men are the ones who are risking their lives and they're the ones who deserve first choice in good jobs.

Dorothy Spear, secretary, 4737 Central Park av.—Married women especially should be willing to give up working in factories, etc. I know I'd like to get home and cook and make a nice home for my man. The only reason I'm working now is to pass the time away and keep myself occupied until he comes back.



Paul Roman, furrier, 3210 Arthington st.—Women, after the war, will have no business working in a factory. They will have all they can do to take care of a home and look after their children. I don't think one can efficiently keep a home and also have a full time job. Women will be glad to return to their homes.

BY MARY MEADE

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Several readers have sent me simpler recipes for homemade soap than the one which appeared recently in this column, and since the subject seems to be such a live one, I'm going to pass on one of these.

A Pontiac, Ill., reader has used this recipe for over 30 years, and claims that it's foolproof. She sent me a bar of soap made from the recipe.

Homemade Soap

1 can lye [13 oz.]
1 tablespoon borax
5 cups cold water
9 cups fat, lukewarm

Pour lye and borax into water and let stand one hour. A crockery utensil is preferable to any other kind. Pour lye and water slowly into lukewarm grease, stirring slowly until the consistency of honey. Pour into a shallow pan, mark, and cut.

A manufacturer of lye has sent me a booklet which contains many a soapmaking hint. Among the suggestions: Poultry fat should be combined with other fats as it makes soft and spongy soap, alone. Tallow, lard, and combinations of these fats, olive oil, and other vegetable oils, are most desirable for soapmaking. Make fat into soap before it becomes rancid. Aging always improves soap.

The booklet which comes with your can of lye gives detailed recipes for various kinds of homemade soap. With that, I shall leave the topic of soapmaking and get back to the subject of food, where I feel much more at home!

Nobody ever asked me how to cook a skunk, but now I'm prepared. Skunk is supposed to have more delicate flavor than chicken meat, altho I can't vouch for this, as I've never dined on the animal. An extremely interesting book which has just come to my desk should appeal to hunters and the women who cook the game they bring home. "Cooking Wild Game," by Frank G. Ashbrook and Edna N. Sater, published by Orange Judd Company, Inc., New York [$4], contains recipes for cooking all kinds of wild game [yes, even skunk!].

"The Pennsylvania Dutch and Their Cookery" is a book other readers may want to know about. I have frequent requests for Pennsylvania Dutch recipes, and they all seem to be here. The book, by J. George Frederick, is published by The Business Bourse, New York, and sells at book stores for $3. It isn't a new book, but it's an interesting one.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., July 29—It's definite that William Eythe and Jeanne Crain get together in "Centennial Summer." . . . James Cagney's so crazy about Nathaniel Curtis' script on "The Stray Lamb" that he would like to stay with the lamb, but brother William says he's not the type. . . . Lillian Gish can't make up her mind whether to return to Broadway [she has three good offers] or remain here. After "Miss Susie Slagle" is released she'll have more picture offers than she can handle. . . . When Paramount gets a look at Mona Freeman in "Junior Miss," believe me, they'll stop their lending of her. What a beauty—and is she good! She's had four outside pictures but never anything on the home lot. . . . When Victor Fleming asked Clark Gable, who wears one old suit and dungarees in "Strange Adventure," to go to wardrobe, Clark said, "What for—a change of tie?" . . . The walls will bulge in the Williams home Aug. 5 when the whole clan gathers 'round Esther to celebrate her birthday.

Germany's Color Movies

Darryl Zanuck tells me he saw some of the German pictures made during the war with a new color process. Says he, "It's beautiful. In depth it's far finer than anything we've got, but still deficient in a couple of colors. If any one complains about the size of our sets they should see the ones Germany uses. Here was a nation fighting fanatically, being beaten, yet still making pictures in color with the huge sets and elaborate trimmings required for a musical. It was almost impossible to believe."

The American Way in Hollywood

The guy who told me this has been looking for a house a year and a half, but Pat Kirkwood, who is English, after one week at a hotel found one complete with telephone, gardener, and 500 chickens. She gets fresh eggs, a fryer when she wants it and she wasn't even surprised. She thinks this is the American way. . . . Good looking band leader, Wilson Wood, whom Joseph Pasternak picked up at Las Vegas, was walking by a house when the owner came out with a "For Rent" sign. He never got to put that sign up. Wood went right in and took it. Now his wife and two kids are en route here while he's playing one of the romantic leads in "Two Sisters from Boston." . . . William Goodwin bought a small plane so that he can fly up to his dairy ranch in San Luis Obispo. . . . Quite a welcome home is being planned for Paula Stone, who has made a big hit in New York. Gosh, is her papa Fred proud of her! He should be. . . . Interesting [if true] that Al Capone's nephew, writing under the name R. C. Gabriel, has finished a book titled "The Sins Are Not Forgotten."

They Love the Lassie

In Sydney, Australia, Gracie Fields filled the amphitheater with 70,000 people. . . . Most glamorous picture I ever saw of Marlene Dietrich was the one made when she stepped off the plane on her return to Hollywood. She has done a fine job. I hope no one here forgets it. . . . A friend engaged Herbert Marshall's cook. When asked why she left the Marshalls, the cook said, "O, I didn't leave them—they were nice. But the servants didn't like my cooking." . . . The other night Lionel Barrymore dined with Jose Iturbi. They talked music, played some, discussed other things, and finally Lionel said, "I'd better get out of here and let you get some sleep." They looked at their watches—it was 5 a. m. . . . If you close your eyes while listening to Harry Truman speak, you'd swear it was Ernest Truex talking. . . . Rush, rush, rush to Russia. That's where Burl Ives' records of their folk songs are a-goin', and he doesn't speak one word of their language.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—You are South and hold:
♠9632 ♥75 ♦AQ7 ♣Q643

The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 diamond	1 heart	Pass	?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. It would be improper to bid one no trump to show the diamond stopper. Remember, partner did not open the bidding. Overcalls should not be kept open unless you have a good hand.

Q. 2—You are South and hold:
♠KQ53 ♥5 ♦AKJ4 ♣A1063

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	Pass
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. This descriptive bid can cost nothing and may lead the way to a slam if partner has the necessary holding. He will know that you have three four-card suits and therefore a single heart [or possibly none]. If he merely returns to three no trump you may give up and nothing is lost.

Q. 3—You are South, opponents vulnerable, and you hold:
♠AK642 ♥10964 ♦7532 ♣—

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 club	Pass	2 clubs

What do you bid now?

A.—Five hearts. Since partner was able to overcall at the level of two he must have a reasonably good heart suit, tho he lacks honor strength. A double is not to be considered because too much reliance is not to be placed in taking both spade tricks. In any event the mistake of doubling could be very costly whereas if the five heart bid should prove to be a mistake it could not be very expensive.

Q. 4—You are South, opponents vulnerable, and you hold:
♠AJ1072 ♥8 ♦AQ5 ♣AJ76

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 no trump	3 hearts

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass, and no one will think you are pusillanimous. This is just to allow partner the privilege of taking a good healthy swing. If he chooses to double, the fur will fly, if he elects to go on bidding, which he is otherwise forced to, you may then investigate slam possibilities.

Q. 5—As South you hold:
♠KQ ♥2 ♦643 ♣AQJ7653

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 club	1 diamond	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	5 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Six clubs. So far you have sounded as tho you regretted the entire incident, while your partner has gone on at a great rate. He cannot have less than the two major aces and the king of clubs. And if he has more than one diamond, I suggest a visit to his favorite psychiatrist.

Q. 6—As South you hold:
♠A74 ♥K10953 ♦A52 ♣74

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
Pass	Pass	1 heart	2 clubs
2 spades	2 no trump	3 spades	4 diamonds
4 spades	5 clubs	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Double. It would be poor reasoning for you to pass on the ground that you have already done enough with two and one-half tricks. A pass by you would mean that you are willing to have your partner bid five spades, which you are not.

Q. 7—As South you hold:
♠AJ1073 ♥Q62 ♦A ♣J753

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 clubs	Pass
2 spades	Pass	2 no trump	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Three clubs. Holding barely two and one-half tricks in high cards I would be inclined to step lightly and give partner one more chance to reconsider. If he bids three no trump over my warning I can relax. On the otherhand he may decide to support spades belatedly or even go on in clubs, in either case I would feel more comfortable.

Q. 8—As South you hold:
♠K5 ♥KQ ♦K63 ♣A107532

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	2 hearts	3 clubs	Pass
4 spades	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Six spades. Just picture any sound opening bid with a powerful spade suit and a subsequent jump and you will find that a 12 trick contract should be a cinch.

Nazi Chutists Seize a Town in '48 Hours'

"48 HOURS"

Produced by Ealing, directed by Cavalcanti, featuring Leslie Banks, Frank Lawton, Elizabeth Allen, Marie Lohr, Basil Sydney, Mervyn Johns, Valerie Taylor, Muriel George, C. V. France. Presented at the World Playhouse.

By Mae Tinée

"48 Hours" has an unusual plot, plenty of suspense, and it could have been true. It's the story of the sleepy English village of Bramley End and what happened when a band of Nazi paratroopers, equipped with incredibly British accents and wearing the uniform of the Royal Engineers, takes it without firing a shot. They have the assistance of a secret agent who has thoroly entrenched himself in the town and earned the confidence of the villagers. It seems quite natural that the residents should be asked to billet a group of soldiers on special and secret maneuvers, and the home guard marches off on some of its own business, leaving Bramley End with a Nazi in every house.

The people are deceived until a bit of Prussian brutality crops out, and they're all neatly cornered in the village hall with the only switchboard guarded in the best SS manner. A courageous lot, they plot adroitly to break loose, and their frequent failures, caused by pure chance, help to keep the action suspenseful.

It's melodramatic, but awfully well done. At the performance I attended the sound was incredibly bad—either so low as to be inaudible at times or so loud as to be unintelligible. I missed much of the dialogue and had to guess at the import of a lot of the action, but perhaps that has been corrected. If so, I think you'll like this thriller, which has been painstakingly developed and is uniformly well acted.

Thru the Looking Glass

It was a man who pointed out to us that now, in the middle of the season, ever so many women needed a "pep talk" on leg grooming. And, looking over the situation, we decided he was right. The first flush of enthusiasm over going bare legged apparently induced a lot of us to be as meticulous as we should about removing hair, smoothing the skin, and grooming the toenails, so that leg make-up could be an almost ideal substitute for the sheer silk and nylon hose of a few years back.

But in the hot weather, and at this stage of the season where the novelty of leg make-up has worn off, it's easy to slide a bit. The point is, tho, that we shouldn't.

A stubble, or even a little cluster, of superfluous hairs that your remover has missed, is really a dreadful offense to the eye. Your own eye might be accustomed to it, but you can be dead certain that every onlooker finds it peculiarly unattractive. One of the prices you have to pay for the comfort of doing without stockings is to remove every single wisp of hair. This is best done not alone by shaving or using a depilatory at regular intervals but by supplementing their use with one of those abrasive pads that can be used daily to keep the hair growth under perfect control.

Leg skin that's not made up is rarely attractive to look at; it needs either a good natural tan or a coating of make-up to give it the illusion of hosiery color and satiny texture. But neither the tan nor the make-up is tolerable if there is a growth of hair. ELEANOR NANGLE

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

How to Begin the Week

Come into the office Monday morning inquiring of every one, "Warm enough for you?"

Give the girl with a raw sunburn a mighty clap on the back. [This always brings a laugh.]

Tell everybody about the thick steak you found at a little place out of town where a friend with a C card drove you.

Ask the boss if that dizzy blonde was his wife—the one you saw hitting the high spots with your eastern representative Saturday night.

Call long distance to Bill in northern Minnesota to see if the fish still are biting and announce loudly, "Won't be long till I join you."

Make remarks such as "How's your golf?" or "Played much tennis?" to any co-worker dead on his feet from a Sunday cutting the grass and taking care of the children.

Give a blow-by-blow account of the party you and the gang threw at Gert's to cheer up the old girl—her husband won't be back for another six months.

Whistle while you work—because next week-end is only six days off!

POOR RICHARD

Diet—One-Half Off

"A salad with rye-krisp"—
And then her eyes glowed.
She ordered dessert—
"Chocolate cake a-la-mode."

DIAMOND LIL

Anti-Everything

The girl who wrote about her woman boss the other day must have worked for the one I know. She not only sees to it that her girls never get a promotion, but resents any compliment given to any steno by one of the men whose work she does. From then on, the girl is not permitted to work for that special man! The woman boss is just so thoroly "anti-everything" that there is constant disruption and confusion. If some WCG is out of work it won't make the woman boss any richer—so why does she make life so difficult?

ANOTHER WHITE COLLAR GIRL

En Route to Work

The thirtyish WCG with her glasses all bedecked with gayly colored beads from nose-bridge to eartip—reading a California newspaper.

The fortyish WCG on the bus, decorously lifting her white skirt to sit on her petticoat—profiting no doubt from her early training.

The fiftyish WCGs, sedate and dignified in appearance, on a loop bound street car, wearing stiff little sailor hats with long, black streamers hanging down the back, reminiscent of childhood modes.

Office Irk

The gentleman who says, "Get so and so on the wire" and then strolls off to another office or the barber shop. G. E.

Lesson in Brevity

Harriet Ostrom, a Chicago teacher, following a discussion of the business maxim, "Don't use four or five words when one word will do," forwards a statement of Churchill's which is a lesson in brevity.

The clipping reads, "Churchill told the Desert Rats that their march from El Alamein across Africa and Europe to Berlin was 'unsurpassed in all the story of war so far as my reading of history leads me to believe.'"

"The one word 'unsurpassed' would have been sufficient, or at most three words, "unsurpassed in history," writes Miss Ostrom, proving that even Winnie's prose sometimes overshot the mark.

Chicago Pioneers' Portraits Shown by Historical Society

The new exhibition of oil paintings in the Chicago portrait gallery of the Chicago Historical society will bring back memories to a number of spectators who drop in between 9:30 and 4:30 p. m. on weekdays and from 12:30 to 5:30 p. m. on Sundays. The society has assembled a portrait history of Chicago, including pictures of widely known civic leaders and their wives and children painted by such noted artists as G. P. A. Healy and Oskar Gross.

At the south end of the gallery hangs a huge painting of the Richard T. Crane family, done in 1875. Especially interesting in the picture are child studies of Emily, Kate, and Mary Crane, who later became Mrs. Thomas L. Chadbourne, Mrs. Adolph Frederick Gartz, and Mrs. Edmund A. Russell. To "sit" for a portrait by Mr. Healy 75 years ago was considered a hallmark of social standing in Chicago. Among the artist's paintings on display are a self-portrait; a portrait of the Rev. William D. Barry, founder of the historical society, and one of William Butler Ogden, first mayor of Chicago.

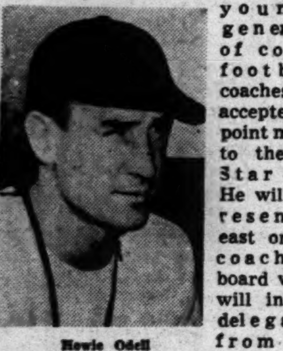
BY ARCH WARD



Howie Odell

Howard Odell of Yale, one of the most successful of the nation's younger generation of college football coaches, has accepted appointment to the All-Star staff. He will represent the east on the coaching board which will include delegates from the principal sections of the country. Jim Lookabaugh of Oklahoma A. & M. will represent the southwest.

Like Lookabaugh, Odell will be enjoying his first experience with an All-Star squad when he reports for work Aug. 12 at Northwestern university where the All Stars will train. He and his associates will have 18 days to prepare the squad for its game with the Green Bay Packers, world professional champions, in Soldiers' field the night of Aug. 30.

Odell, who will start his fourth season as head coach at Yale in September, has a record of 16 victories, eight defeats and one tie in his three years at New Haven. His 1942 team won five and lost three and in 1943 the Elis won four and lost five. Last year, the most successful Yale has known in many seasons, brought seven victories and one tie. Yale has scored at least one touchdown in every game it has played under Odell.

Learns Football Under Sutherland

Odell is the second Yale coach to serve on the All-Star staff. Ducky Pond was a member of the 1938 group, which had as its head Bo McMillin of Indiana.

Odell was born in Brooks, Ia., 35 years ago. He spent his boyhood on a farm. He attended East High school in Sioux City where he distinguished himself in football and track. From there he went to the University of Pittsburgh and despite his lack of weight—he scaled only 145 pounds—he earned a back field job on Jock Sutherland's 1932, 1933, and 1934 elevens. That was the era when Pitt was at the top of the collegiate ranks.

Golf Is Principal Recreation

Odell served his gridiron apprenticeship under prominent coaches. He was assistant to Sutherland at Pittsburgh for a year after his graduation and the following season joined Dick Harlow at Harvard where he remained two years. From 1938 thru 1941 he was back field coach at the University of Pennsylvania, aiding George Munger, and from there he came to the University of Wisconsin with Harry Stuhldreher.

Golf is Odell's principal recreation, which isn't surprising, because he shoots in the 70s, and he doesn't blame any boy for not liking spinach.

He married his college sweetheart, Audrey Roberts, nine years ago, and they have three children, two boys and a girl.

GERMAIN KEEPS ALL-AMERICAN WOMEN'S LEAD

Dorothy Germain of Philadelphia, Pa., clung to the lead in the All-American Women's Open golf tournament at Tam o' Shanter yesterday by shooting an 80 for a 54 hole total of 233.

Two strokes behind the leader came Lt. Patty Berg of the marines, the former national women's champion, who rallied with a fine 77, one over par, for 235. It was Patty's best effort of the tournament after earlier rounds of 80 and 78.

Third Round Is an Encore

Under the ordinary course of events Miss Germain would have won the championship yesterday had George S. May, the tournament's host, not decided to cancel Saturday's scores. When Saturday's rainstorm washed out play in the men's open and amateur tournaments, May wiped out the women's round also, even tho the girls had finished their chores before a drop of rain had fallen.

If Saturday's scores had stood, Miss Germain would have finished yesterday with a 72 hole score of 314 and Lt. Berg would have wound up in second place with 317.

The Final Is Today

As it is, the distaff side will go out today for another 18 hole round which will stand officially as the fourth round but actually constitutes the fifth round of competition.

Women's 54 hole scores:

Dorothy Germain, Philadelphia, Pa.	153	80	233
*Lt. P. Berg, Philadelphia, Pa.	158	77	235
Phyllis Otto, Atlantic, Ia.	162	78	240
*Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex.	165	78	243
*Betty Hicks, Claremont, Cal.	159	84	243
Marge Becker, Paterson, N. J.	164	80	244
S. Sessions, Muskegon, Mich.	163	83	246
Dot Kielty, Los Angeles, Cal.	158	88	246

3d Round 68 Gives Nelson 6 Stroke Edge

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

If you still are in any doubt about the matter, John Byron Nelson of Toledo, O., a gent who sometimes plays a spot of golf when he isn't selling umbrellas, still is leading the $60,000 plus All-American Open tournament as it moves into its final 18 holes today at the Tam o' Shanter Country club.

Yesterday Byron, whose rush to his fourth All-American title in the five years of the event was interrupted by a rainstorm on Saturday, added two more shots to his advantage over the field by shooting a 68, four under Tam o' Shanter's par, for a 54 hole total of 202. After Friday's second round he had outdistanced his pursuers by four strokes.

Leads by Six Strokes

Saturday's unwelcome visitation by the elements stymied him with a 33 on the front nine before the show was called. Yesterday he adjusted the situation on a full time basis with the 68 that moved him six shots in front of the company which will tee off against him. It may be presumptuous to say that the gifted young Texan, who now has won nine consecutive tournaments, including the National P. G. A. event, has won the big show already, but it would not be amiss for the party's host, George S. May, to ready himself for the task of getting out that first prize of $13,600 in bonds for Nelson.

His closest rival after the completion of 54 holes is his friend and the only other man to capture the title—Harold [Jug] McSpaden of Sanford, Me. Jug, winner in 1943, duplicated Nelson's third round 68 yesterday to take over second place on a 208. A stroke back of him is another long time Nelson pal, Lt. Ben Hogan of the army air forces, who finished with three straight threes for a 70 and a 209.

Sarazen, Snead in 210 Tie

Trailing the three leaders are four 210 scorers—Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va.; Gene Sarazen of New York, Sgt. Ernie [Dutch] Harrison of Dayton, O., and Flight Officer Frank Stranahan of Fort Meyers, Fla. Snead had his chance to move into second place alone, reaching the 15th tee four under par, but he finished with a 71. Sarazen took a six on the home hole.

Flight Officer Stranahan, low amateur in the All-American Open of 1942, fired a 70 shortly after 7 o'clock last night for the 210 which makes him low simon pure marksman in the field to date.

Best round of the day was a 67 submitted by Jack Grout, Butterfield's bespectacled professional.

Nelson has played the first three rounds of this show in 66, 68, and 68, leaving him a stroke under the 54 hole record which he set in 1942, when he was forced into a play-off with Sgt. Clayton Heafner before he could go home with the championship. His third round card:

Prize Winners Listed

Grout's 67 was rewarded with a special prize of $250 for being low civilian score of the round, while Nelson and McSpaden each received $125 for tying for second. Lt. Hogan won the service men's prize of $250 for low round score on his 70. For the third straight day, the special $100 award for longest ball off the first tee [259 yards] went to Sgt. Jim Ferrier of San Francisco, and McSpaden collected an additional $100 for being closest to the 18th pin with a second shot, his stopping two feet

13 HITS PROVIDE NO LUCK FOR SOX; TIGERS WIN, 4-2

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BOX SCORE ON NEXT PAGE

Detroit, Mich., July 29—The White Sox settled themselves a bit more securely in the second division today, assisted, of course, by the always willing-to-please, pace setting Tigers. The latter did what they could by trimming James Dykes' Chicagoans, 4 to 2, for a clean sweep of the three game series, the victory being a personal affair for Al Benton, the ex-sailor boy whom the Sox couldn't discourage despite their deluge of 13 hits.

Against the 13 yielded by Benton, Bill Dietrich, who was relieved after seven innings of toil, gave up only six but bespectacled Bill wasn't able to keep them scattered. Three of the hits put him in arrears by 2 to 1 in the first inning, a state of affairs the Sox finally adjusted into a 2 to 2 tie in the fifth. But Bill immediately proceeded to get himself into sixth inning difficulties that precipitated the two decisive runs.

Mayo Does His Bit

It was fortunate for Benton that Eddie Mayo was present or the Sox first inning might have seen the ex-sailor doing a quick retirement. Despite two robberies by Mayo, the Sox produced three hits, all of them singles, by Leroy Schalk, Johnny Dickshot, and Tony Cuccinello, the net being an early one run lead. A few minutes later the two run shower had been dropped on Dietrich, the ingredients being Skeeter Webb's looping single that Schalk lost in the sun, a double by Mayo and a single by Roy Cullenbine.

The Sox threatened in the third, which Kerby Farrell opened with a two bagger. He went only as far as third, the cause of his limited travels being infield taps by the next three batters. With four hits and a pass, the Sox finally managed that tying run in the fifth. Wally Moses walked and was doubled on Farrell's grounder. Successive singles by Schalk, Dickshot, and Cuccinello got the run home, after which Hockett scratched a hit to load the bases. This ended with Cass Michaels' feeble grounder to Bob Maier.

When Dietrich entered the sixth, Mayo singled, this being only the second hit the Tigers had produced since the first inning. After Cullenbine had been retired, Hank Greenberg, who seems to be having difficulties getting his baseball muscles in shape after three years in the army, drew a pass and this created a situation that apparently was just what Doc Cramer had prescribed. Anyway he paddled a two base line drive into left center, the two gentlemen on the bases going home.

BY WILFRID SMITH

Tom and Robert Gibe won two Chicagoland 100 yard free style swimming championships for Lane Technical High school yesterday afternoon in the finals of the 16th annual meet sponsored by The Chicago Tribune Charities at California park. But it was the one point for third place in Class B, scored by Fred Lehman, which gave the north side school the boys' team trophy.

Lane scored 11 points. In second place with 10 points was Lake Shore as Dick Houcek, Fred Kahms, and Harley Pritchett swept all scoring positions in Class E and Boots Johnson took third in Class D. Thus the Lake Shore boys received their first defeat of the season.

Lake Shore Girls Win Again

Lake Shore girls retained their team championship, however, as Marilynn Billquist won the Class E title and Barbara Linden and Gertie Wolgemuth finished second and third, respectively, in Class C for competitors 15 and 16 years of age.

Three girls from the Mount Hawley Country club, Peoria, Ill., scored 7 points for second place in the girls' division. Ann Hinnen was second and Sylvia Scharfenberg was third in Class A and Janet Miller was second in Class B. Beilfuss natatorium was third with 6 points as Jean Gerhard took the Class B championship and Rita Einweck was third in the same age division.

Fourth Victory for Garst

Second only to the Lake Shore teams was the performance of the boys and girls from the Kenosha [Wis.] Youth Foundation. While the Wisconsin swimmers did not win either team trophy, they took two individual championships and also had a second place. Kenosha's star was Rusty Garst, who swam the fastest 100 yards of the finals, a superior mark of 56 seconds which brought him the class D title and his fourth in THE TRIBUNE's competition begun in 1930.

No competitor ever has won all five age class titles, altho this honor might have been achieved by Claudia Eckhart, one time national champion, who took four titles from 1930 to 1933, inclusive. In the first year of the meet, there were only two age classes. Garst now has four titles and is eligible for class E competition. Rusty won class A in 1941, class B in 1943, and class C last year.

Kenosha Girl Stars

Dorothy Schwartz of Kenosha, who won the class D championship yesterday, matched Garst's exhibition in that her time of 1:05.4 was the fastest for the 100 yard course in the girls' divisions. Kenosha's other points were scored by Larry Keckler, who finished second in class C.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD

ACQUISITION of Hank Borowy, one of the American league's outstanding pitchers, is evidence that the Cubs will be satisfied with nothing less than a world championship in 1945. . . . Management seeking only a pennant contender would not shell out $100,000 for one athlete. . . . The Cubs have been making money since Charley Grimm resumed command and Owner P. K. Wrigley and General Manager Jim Gallagher are willing to spend part of it to give Chicago a world series winner. . . . That policy is one reason the Cubs are among the big gate attractions in baseball. . . . Detroit expects to return to Central war time this fall, despite federal objections. . . . One of the leaders in the fight to turn back the clock is Alderman Billy Rogell, former star shortstop for the Tigers. . . . Lefty O'Doul, manager of the San Francisco Seals, was fined $25 the other day by Clarence Rowland, Pacific Coast league president, following an altercation with an umpire. . . . It was the first penalty levied against the Seal skipper in 11 seasons on the job. . . . Oakland fans are pretty peeved at Dolph Camilli. . . . They say he wouldn't even pick up a bat to pinch hit for the Oaks when he was manager but now is playing double headers for the Boston Red Sox. . . . Gerald Walker of the Cincinnati Reds will enter the 2,000 hit club before another month is out. The Milwaukee Brewers are proving that a minor league club is better off without big league tie-ups, in war time, at least. . . . In the three years the team has operated independently, it has won two American association pennants and may well be headed for another this season. . . . As owner Bill Veeck of the marine corps puts it, "We're better off without working agreements with a big league team because it gives us a chance to work with 15 clubs instead of one. . . . As independents, we can buy from and sell to all major teams. . . . We couldn't do that when we were hooked up with the Cubs because they got first call on all our talent."

If the Washington Senators should happen to charge thru to the American league title, the one man most responsible probably would be Harlond Clift, who was obtained from the St. Louis Browns by Clark Griffith to fill the gap left by the departure of Third Baseman Buddy Lewis for the army. . . . Now Lewis, back in a Senator uniform, after long and brilliant duty in the air corps, may be unable to win his old spot back from Clift. . . . The ex-Brown is just about the hottest fielding third sacker in the circuit and, as for his hitting—the Senators have made 12 homers and Clift has produced eight of them. . . . Six members of the Hartford [Eastern league] pitching staff have gone the route 48 times in 54 starts. . . . Bob Shurilla, who holds Marquette university's all-time records in the broad jump and low hurdles, has returned home from overseas after spending 15 months in a German prison camp. . . . Betty Evans, a petite blonde, has pitched 23 no hit, no run games for a girls' softball team in Portland, Ore. . . . In a special test against Pacific Coast league regulars, she fanned three out of five batters.

A Stitch in Time

As soon as you think there is something amiss,
Why not find out about it,
Taken in hand at the very start,
They perhaps some can do something about it;
Don't make yourself a prey to drab fears
And a constantly nagging doubt,
An acting-up tooth or appendix—
You'll be much better with it out.

As soon as you feel something fest'ring
In your soul, do the very same thing,
Examine it well, then destroy it
Before it can lash out and sting;
Petty dislikes grow to hatreds in time,
Little biases burgeon until
They are apt to amount to intolerance
And no longer controled by your will.

Remember then this, when there's something amiss
In body, in soul, in mind,
Start giving "the bliz" to whatever it is,
And you'll be happier far, you'll find! —Jazbo of Old Dubuque

West's Negro All-Stars Win 3d in Row, 9-6

BY EDWARD PRELL

There was some Joe Louis slugging in Comiskey park yesterday afternoon when all-star players from the two rival Negro baseball leagues played their annual game. The West, represented by stand-outs from the Negro American league, put on two early offensives and had a 9 to 1 lead going into the ninth when the East team, selected from the Negro National league, put on a five run flourish. The final score was 9 to 6 for the West's third straight victory. It likewise gave the winners a seventh triumph in the 13 year old series.

The crowd of 31,714 fell short of an announced anticipated 50,000. Nowhere in sight was Satchel Paige, the storied pitcher of the Kansas City Monarchs, who for the second straight year stayed away from the show. Satchel still insists on receiving $1,000 for participating, this to go to him personally or to a charity fund. Players on the all-star squads each received $100. Managers and coaches were given $300 each. Individual clubs and the treasuries of the two leagues also shared in an estimated $40,000 purse.

Build Up 8 to 0 Lead

Verdel Mathis, a little left hander who pitches for the Memphis Red Sox, started for the West and held the East hitless in his three inning turn. When he retired, the West had an 8 to 0 lead on four-run rallies in the second and third innings. Mathis, who fanned four, also hit safely twice and was the winning pitcher.

The defeat was pinned on Tom Glover, southpaw from the Baltimore Elite Giants. He was driven out in the second inning. His successor, Bill Ricks from the Philadelphia Stars, pitched a two run triple to the first batter he faced, Jesse Williams. In the third, Ricks was knocked out after being belted for five hits and four runs.

Jessup Blanks East

The West's second pitcher, Gentry Jessup of the Chicago American Giants, wasn't as slick as Mathis, but he blanked the East in his three inning term. Booker T. McDaniels, third West hurler, was doing fairly well until the Eastern uprising in the ninth. He was removed with two out, three runs home, and two runners on base. Willie Wells, veteran second baseman of the New York Black Yanks, who has a son playing with Memphis, then drove a two run double against the left field wall off Eugene Bremmer of the Cleveland Buckeyes. The game ended with a slick fielding play by Jackie Robinson, former U. C. L. A. football star. Jackie, recently honor-

VICTORY MARKS BOROWY DEBUT ON NORTH SIDE

Wyse Turns In His 15th Triumph

BY EDWARD BURNS

The story of a Hank Wyse Cub victory is an oft told tale this season, so for the time being we'll simply set down that he beat the Cincinnati Reds, 4 to 1, in the first game of a double header yesterday before 43,786 in Wrigley field. Leave us get on, then, to the day's real thrill, the 3 to 2 victory of $100,000 Hank Borowy in the second game.

Borowy, the New York Yankees' winningest pitcher until his purchase by the Cubs last Friday under spectacular circumstances, had no sinecure in his National league debut, his victory reaching the climax when one Red runner was thrown out at third and another at home in the ninth, and the last putout being accomplished with the tying run on third and a potential winning run on second.

Nicholson Hits 2 Run Homer

The debut performance started comfortably with Stan Hack opening the Chicago offensive with a single and scoring ahead of Bill Nicholson on the latter's ninth homer of the year.

The strain began when Nicholson, for the first time this season lost a ball in the sun and let Frank McCormick's lead off fly in the second plunk at his side for a highly spurious double. Al Libke, however, delivered a bonafide double, which scored McCormick. Then Eddie Miller grounded to Lennie Merullo, Steve Mesner fouled to Phil Cavarretta and Al Unser fanned.

After Vern Kenedy, who lost on a six hit performance, had fanned and Woody Williams had bounced to Cavarretta, Dain Clay got a base on balls and scored the tying run on Dick Sipek's double to the left field corner. Then McCormick flied to Nicholson.

Pafko Scores Winning Run

The 2 to 2 tie prevailed until the Cub sixth, with Kennedy confining the Cubs to a single by Pafko in the third inning. Pafko, who made half of the Cub hit total, opened the sixth with a single to right and advanced on Harry Lowrey's sacrifice. Andy went to third while Kennedy was throwing out Mickey Livingston. Merullo then bounced a single over Kennedy's head, Pafko

LAKE SHORE AND LANE TEAMS WIN TRIBUNE SWIM

10 championship events and the widest margin any champion had was two yards. In many instances, the decision was by the fraction of a stroke. The title events were preceded by 16 qualifying 100 yard races which set the tempo of the competition for the crowd that taxed the facilities of California park.

One of the best, of course, was the class C boys' championship which Bob Gibe won with a mark of 56 9-10 seconds, second fastest for all boys. He was pushed all the way by Keckler and Bill Pohlman of St. Louis, Mo., who holds the Ozark A. A. U. 100 yard title.

Young Entrants Praised

As in other years, the swimmers in class A [11 and 12 years of age], surprised by their ability. Neither has club affiliation. The class A girls' title went to Anne Morrissy of Highland Park, Ill., who won narrowly from Miss Scharfenberg in 1:16. The boys' champion in this age class was Kenneth Matson, 5325 Berenice av., who defeated Larry Beam of La Porte, Ind. Matson's time in the finals was 1:15.1.

The 116 finalists yesterday qualified from a field of nearly a thousand youngsters who competed last week at four sectional meets. $20,000 Race Today Draws Field of Stars

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The 34 day Arlington Park meeting at Washington Park goes into its last week today with the Constitution purse, recently boosted from $5,000 to $20,000, holding the spotlight.

This affair has drawn a smart band of 3 year olds in a tuneup test for the $30,000 Dick Welles handicap on Aug. 11 and the American Derby on Aug. 25. Maine Chance farm's War Jeep will return to action for the first time since his victory in the Skokie handicap and will be opposed by some of the best thorobreds in the Homewood barns.

War Jeep's impressive Skokie triumph no doubt will send him to the post the favorite this afternoon, but he'll have to beat Leon Tikulski's Icangetit and Murlogg Farm's Fighting Step, a pair that stepped a mile in 1:36 2/5 last week, Icangetit winning by a nose.

The Chicago debut of Charles S. Howard's Sea Swallow adds considerable color to the day's feature. This son of Seabiscuit was an easy winner of the $25,000 Yankee handicap early this month at Suffolk Downs.

Lt. Comdr. T. D. Buhl's Air Sailor, which was second to Pot o' Luck in the Classic, also has been listed as a starter along with J. B. Theall's King Dorsett, and Norman W. Church's entry of Quick Reward and Realization.

We're glad he is back again
And hope good health will stay
With him, who has in bygone years
Helped others on the way.
His kindly verse was tonic rare
For those who like myself
Know fleshly ills, and, who, like me
Still linger on the shelf.

We're glad that he is back again,
This man of gracious heart,
Whose pen is needed so today
The old faiths to impart.
God grant him many, many years
Of health that we may see
From time to time his lilting verse—
On that we'll all agree.

Unconditional Surrender

V-E day has come and went
And victories flourish fine
Except within the garden that War shortages made mine—

Here radishes and lettuce grow
And "cukes" pop into view
(There's not enough to make a plate Of salad just for two!)

But we must water, pluck and preen
And break our backs some more—
The corn's as high as a queen ant's eye,
Nuts! Let's go to the store!

scoring the winning run. Merullo got to third on a theft of second and Woody Williams' fumble of Unser's throw but Kennedy threw out Borowy. Thereafter the Cubs got only one man on base, Pafko, who doubled with one out in the eighth.

After the Reds' tying process in the third until the exciting ninth, Borowy had held the Reds to a single by Miller in the fourth and a single by McCormick in the sixth which promptly was blotted out in a double play.

Ninth Inning Provides Thrills

Then came the ninth. The inning opened with Sipek drawing Borowy's second pass, after a count of three balls and two strikes. McCormick smacked a single to left, Sipek stopping at second. Kermit Wahl went to second to run for Sipek. Libke attempted to sacrifice and forced Wahl at third, Borowy to Hack. Miller slashed a single to left. Lowrey threw to Livingston and McCormick was tagged out at the plate. Umpire Lou Jorda's decision on the play provoked a terrific squawk from rapidly clustered Reds. Livingston charged that McCormick ran wide on the infield side of the plate, but Umpire Jorda said that McCormick was tagged by the Cub catcher before the Red base runner started his detour. Manager Bill McKechnie and Infielder Steve Mesner were ordered off the field for their vociferous protests of the decision. Libke moved to third and Miller to second on the play at the plate. Gee Walker batted for Mesner and sent Lowrey to the left field ivy for his game ending fly.

Hank Wyse Wins No. 15

In the first game the Cubs pounced on Joe Bowman in the first two innings for their entire run total and six of their seven hits. The total was easily sufficient to give Wyse his No. 15 tho the Reds outhit the Chicagoans, 11 to 7.

Singles by Hack, Johnson, Cavarretta, and Lowrey gave the Cubs three runs in the first inning. A walk by Hack, Johnson's sacrifice, and a single by Nicholson produced the Cubs' last run in the second. Later in the second inning Pafko was credited with a double when Shortstop Eddie Miller lost his fly in the sun. Thereafter the Cubs did not get a runner on base, excepting Merullo who singled and stole second with one out in the sixth inning.

The Reds got their lone run with two out in the eighth when Libke singled to drive home Clay who had opened with his fourth hit, a double.

Win 26 Out of Last 30

The double Cub victory gave them 13 out of 13 against the Reds this year, and 26 out of their last 30 National league matches, including a new winning streak of six straight and earlier streaks of 10 and five straight. It also enabled them to gain a game on the second place Cardinals. The Cubs now lead the Cardinals by 5½ games and the third place Dodgers by six games.

This evening the Cubs will play a twilight exhibition game at Brock stadium in East Chicago, an American Legion benefit. Tuesday will be an off day and the home stand will be concluded with single games with the Pirates Wednesday and Thursday.

SENATE GROUP BLASTS LAG IN RECONVERSION

Direct Agency Rule by Snyder Asked

Sen. Mead

Washington, D. C., July 29 [Special]—The senate war investigating committee today said the reconversion program has lagged, with not enough government aid to industries and businesses wishing to resume peace time activities, and called for a shakeup to place other war agencies under the direct supervision and control of War Mobilization Director Snyder.

War production in Chicago in the current quarter will be about 23 per cent larger than in the first three months of the year, the committee said.

"Must Get a Move On"

In its fourth annual report, the committee criticized the office of war mobilization for acting as a policy body and umpire or conciliator rather than as an operating executive. A war economy requires closely knit central control, it said, but conflicts or agencies have continued until reaching OWM.

Chairman Mead [D., N. Y.] warned in a statement accompanying the 20,000 word report that the reconversion job "has not moved nearly fast enough and we must get a move on or we will get into real trouble, especially if the war against Japan should end suddenly."

Recommendations included:

1. Productive capacity not needed for military output must be utilized now and diverted into peace time channels. The report said:

"There should be the most careful consideration possible given to, and the coördinated efforts of all war agencies concentrated on, the release now from the armed forces of a limited number of men whose services are essential to early reconversion of industry."

Criticizes Surplus Policy

2. Surpluses must be declared and moved more expeditiously and with a more definitely coördinated policy concerning objectives to be attained in their disposition.

The relatively small amounts of surpluses developed to date "suggest the probability that an avalanche of surplus goods will later descend upon the market." Dumping of surplus goods will create competition for reconverted industry, the report said, adding that if surpluses were available now, they would aid reconversion and help combat inflation.

3. To direct workers to localities where jobs are available and to provide the types of workers needed where industry is short of labor, accurate information must be gathered and made available to workers and employers thruout the country.

4. The various civilian agencies dealing with foreign governments and peoples should be integrated under the secretary of state.

"Must Conserve Resources"

5. Attention must be given to the conservation of the country's resources, to the accumulation of stockpiles of strategic materials, and to technological research.

Mead said the United States must concentrate on strengthening its civilian economy and diverting production into peace time channels to the fullest extent possible consistent with defeating Japan.

"The strength of America lies in efficient production and in quantity production," he asserted. "Our future way of life also depends upon an economy of plenty. Jobs should be available for all those willing and able to work."

That the nation so far has escaped serious unemployment "should not mislead us into the belief that all is well," said the report. Should the Pacific war end soon, the United States will be unprepared to deal with domestic problems; reconversion will not have progressed sufficiently to absorb suddenly released man power; government work programs will not have been established, and large scale unemployment will result.

Third Quarter Military Lumber Allotment Hiked

Washington, D. C., July 29 (AP)—The WPB today revised its third quarter lumber allotments to give the army and navy an additional 208 million board feet. A special military reserve was shifted to the army service forces and the navy received an additional 70 million feet from other reserves. The allotment of the national housing agency was increased 84 million feet from a general reserve.

Thirteen of the 42 hemp mills built with federal funds in the middle west have been declared surplus, the Reconstruction Finance corporation said yesterday, and will be sold or leased. Three additional mills are in the process of being declared surplus.

Food Retailer Group Offers Vet Training

[This is the 18th article in a series outlining opportunities for returning war veterans.]

BY ANTHONY WIRRY

A referral program whereby the training and advisory facilities of the Food Retailers of Greater Chicago will be offered to all Illinois veterans who are considering opening food stores was announced yesterday by Col. H. H. Weimer, head of the veterans federal employment service in Illinois.

Weimer said that veterans who express an interest in or show an aptitude for this type of activity will be referred to the retail organization thru the local veterans' representatives thruout the state. They are located in 58 offices set up in connection with the United States employment service offices.

Vet Interviews Scheduled

Veterans so referred will be interviewed by experienced representatives on the first and third Wednesdays of each month beginning next Wednesday. The interviews will be held at 3 p. m. in the general offices of Sprague Warner division, Sprague Warner-Kenny corporation, food wholesaler, 2653 W. Arthington st.

Among those who will consult with veterans at these meetings are L. N. Clausen, district manager of Armour & Co.; James Black, vice president and general manager of Sprague Warner; Oliver Kleinman, president of the Suburban Meat Market association; Adolph J. Kaiser, executive secretary of the South West Retail Meat Dealers association; Joseph T. Meek, executive secretary of the Illinois Federation of Retail associations; E. E. Seek, president of the Food Retailers of Greater Chicago, and John J. Tunzer, field secretary of the Food Retailers.

Training Period Provided

The program provides for an average training period of about 16 months in meat markets and grocery stores. If the veteran then appears ready to open his own store the retailers will pick a site, prepare the physical layout of a store, and introduce him to and make arrangements with wholesale suppliers.

Weimer believes that veterans who take this store training will qualify for educational subsistence allowances under the G. I. bill, but warned that this must be ruled on by the veterans' administration.

I. C. MATURITIES

I understand the Illinois Central railroad has a large proportion of its funded debt maturing between 1950 and 1955. What is the amount? —G. R.

Of the Illinois Central's total funded debt of $282,110,025 as of last Dec. 31, $152,675,500, or about 54 per cent, falls due from 1950 to 1955. Stockholders at their annual meeting last May were informed by W. A. Johnston, president, that the management was working on a plan to alleviate this maturity problem.

Details are not available, but it is believed in market circles that the solution may take the form of an exchange offer consisting of part cash and part bonds. In recent years of large earnings, the company has made major reductions in outstanding debt thru purchases and retirements. Funded debt was whittled down $23,429,000 last year, and since 1927 it has been reduced $101,169,000. Fixed charges last year totaled $12,833,579 compared with $18,489,189 in 1927. Net working capital at the end of 1944 was $31,308,532 compared with $6,279,169 10 years earlier.

No dividends have been paid on the company's preferred or common stocks since 1931. The preferred is noncumulative. Johnson told stockholders that dividend resumption depended on the bond refunding plans, business conditions, and reduction in excess profits taxes. Common share earnings in 1944 were $11.98; 1943, $17.68; 1942, $17.52; 1941, $6.95. In the four years ended with 1940, share earnings ranged from 8 cents to 90 cents a year, and no earnings were shown for the common from 1931 thru 1936.

GENERAL FOODS EXPLAINS DEALS IN RYE MARKET

New York, July 29 [Special]—Clarence Francis, chairman, and Austin S. Igleheart, president of General Foods corporation, today made public a long letter to stockholders and employes to counter "misstatements" concerning the war food administration charge that the company and others last year cornered the rye market and manipulated prices in violation of the commodity exchange act.

The company bought rye "cheap" from Dec. 1, 1942, to April 23, 1945, the letter said, to guard against possible reduction of profit because price ceilings on wheat and corn products and advancing prices in these grains threatened a squeeze.

"Our maximum holdings of 9,250,000 bushels of rye were not excessive in the event disastrous corn and wheat shortages had occurred, in view of our annual manufacturing requirements. The shortages fortunately did not develop. We realized no profit. Realizing that hindsight is better than foresight, we must answer that our transactions seemed wise at the time."

PLANT WORKERS' EARNINGS, HOURS DECLINE IN MAY

New York, July 29 (AP)—The National Industrial Conference board today said earnings, man hours, and pay rolls declined in May in 25 manufacturing industries regularly surveyed.

Hourly earnings of $1.10 were 0.1 per cent less than in April, but 3.6 per cent higher than in May, 1944, and 44.9 per cent above January, 1941, base date of the Little Steel formula. Weekly earnings of $49.59 were 1.1 per cent below April, but 2.3 per cent above last year, and 62 per cent above January, 1941.

Employment fell 2.2 per cent in May and was 17 per cent above January, 1941. Pay rolls declined 3.3 per cent from April and were 7.5 per cent below a year earlier, but 89.6 per cent above January, 1941.

FOURTH OF U. S. T LOAN TOTAL FROM MIDWEST

Guarantees Mount to 103 Millions

The 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district, including Iowa and most of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, and Wisconsin, has had more than one-fourth of all T loan guarantee agreements made so far by federal reserve banks and branches thruout the country, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said yesterday. The T loan, or termination loan, is designed to free working capital frozen by war contract cancellations.

From last Sept. 13, when the first 7th district T loan was made, until May 8, V-E day, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago approved 124 loans totaling $76,166,581. Between V-E day and July 1, a total of 40 more agreements was authorized, raising the aggregate to $103,411,581.

Increase Is Slight

The slight increase in the application rate since V-E day has resulted from substantial war contract cancellations, the bank said. Up to July 1 little use had been made of T loan funds authorized.

"The number of T loan credits approved is quite small when compared with the district's estimated 7,500 or more prime and subcontractors active in specialized war work," the bank said. "No T loan applications have been rejected.

"It is likely that many war contractors have delayed seeking T loan assistance because of continuing heavy war production requirements, widespread public assurances of speedy contract settlements, and relatively few serious cutbacks. Government contracting agencies have gained experience in contract settlements and have improved and streamlined administrative procedures, but it cannot yet be said that the contract settlement program has faced its most severe task of mass contract cancellations.

Expects Rush with V-J Day

"The real test of settlement procedures and the need for T loans probably will come during the period immediately preceding and following victory over Japan, when all war contract terminations will result in sharp reductions in production rather than reductions in the backlog of orders, as is now often the case."

The bank urged war contractors to reappraise their probable interim financing problems to determine their needs for T loan aid. Funds frozen by cancellations can be a serious deterrent to speedy reconversion which is needed urgently to keep employment high and minimize production losses, said the bank.

TIGHT WPB REIN HELD TO DIRECT FLOW OF STEEL

Cleveland, O., July 29 (AP)—The WPB is retaining control of steel "within its clenched fist," the magazine Steel said today, and the action is reflected in an increasing number of cancellations not ascribed to recent cutbacks.

"These cancellations still are far from sweeping, but represent loosening in tonnage that can be brought under Washington direction for application to needed purposes," Steel asserted. "Contributing to these cancellations is the recent revision which permitted steel originally allocated on war contracts to be used for civilian purposes. This action is said to have been taken to make it possible to channel steel for both military and civilian consumption."

Steel reported another ruling provides that consumers may not change allotment numbers on sheets and strip to substitute a rated order for one that has been cut back.

Pay Demands, Lack of Labor Plague Britain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, July 28.—Britain faces a double problem in its part conversion from war production to at least a semblance of peace time civilian goods making. Not only are more than half a million more workers needed in seven important industries but labor is adding to industry's woes by widespread efforts to guarantee survival of war inflated pay checks.

Industries which are reliably reported at least 530,000 short of their pre-war labor strength are cotton spinning, cotton and rayon weaving, rayon yarn production, wool, textile finishing, clothing and hosiery, and footwear.

May Lose Oldsters, Women

In addition, some authorities believe British firms may lose possibly 1 million men over 65 and women over 60 and 2 million younger women who have domestic responsibilities when war controls which handcuff them to their jobs are lifted. Army demobilization plans also are attacked as too skimpy to provide needed labor.

Workers in several sections of the engineering industry are stalling for piece work rates 100 per cent above pre-war figures. Most of the settlements reached have been on the basis of a 50 per cent increase. The pay maneuvers have resulted in post-war prices being quoted 65 to 70 per cent above pre-war on many heavy industrial items.

High Living Cost a Cause

Britain's cost of living index, which continues at an inflated figure, is mainly responsible for labor's demands. The steady decline in government orders already has skimmed the overtime and bonus cream off millions of pay checks.

The London Sunday Times recently warned that union leaders as well as employers know there are wage limits and that full employment is possible only if British goods are offered at prices permitting large sales both at home and abroad. It suggested tax cuts to prevent crippling enterprise.

GLENN MARTIN PROFIT CLIMBS TO 4¾ MILLION

Six Month Figures Near 1944 Total

Unfilled orders increased during the first half of this year to $605,908,442 from $516,282,380.

Celotex Earnings Rise

Celotex corporation, Chicago, had consolidated net earnings in the quarter ended April 30 of $168,585, or 17 cents a common share, against $127,208, or 12 cents a share, a year earlier. Net sales were $10,431,163, compared with $10,025,147.

In the first half of its fiscal year to April 30, earnings were $305,895, or 30 cents a share, against $209,093, or 17 cents a share, a year earlier.

Outboard, Marine Sales Dip

Outboard, Marine, and Manufacturing company, Waukegan, reported net profit was $283,218 in the quarter ended June 30, compared with $269,847 after a $300,000 special reserve for contingencies and reconversion in the corresponding 1944 period. No such reserve was deducted this year. Sales fell to $7,147,348 from $10,337,117.

Profit in the nine months to June 30 was $836,867 after $175,000 in contingency reserves, compared with $954,687 after $600,000 in reserves a year earlier. Sales were $22,490,991 against $26,219,256.

The Boston and Maine railroad had net income of $576,716 in June, compared with $730,598 a year ago.

URGE MOTHERS' COUNCIL TO CURB CHILD DESERTION

Seek Co-operation from Neighbors of Wives

A community education program is the best possible remedy for the wave of child abandonment that is sweeping the city, juvenile authorities agreed yesterday.

They said, except for a few isolated cases, most so-called abandonments occur because mothers, usually service men's wives, seek to escape the necessary confinement of their homes for innocent relaxation.

Altho many of the authorities said the situation appears magnified because it is receiving greater publicity now than in former years, Sgt. L. S. White, in charge of the crime prevention bureau, reported that 20 per cent more investigations of abandonments were made in the first six months of 1945 than were made from January thru June in 1941.

Neighbors Could Help

Juvenile workers suggested that the number of abandonments probably would decline if a coöperative movement were started among the neighbors of war wives who have no relatives or friends with whom to leave their children when they go shopping or seeking an hour of recreation.

If neighbors could be brought to volunteer to care for the children of these women, the authorities suggested, the mental unrest brought about by confinement to their homes and separation from their husbands might be eased. A few hours or one day a week away from their responsibilities well might act as a stabilizing influence, they said.

Judge Victor Kula of Domestic Relations court said 90 per cent of the abandonment cases which come into his court are in service men's families.

Owe Duty to Service Men

"We have a duty to those boys in service and have to look after their interests while they are away," the judge asserted. "Their children are the responsibility of all for they are the future of America."

Judge Kula said some women who appear before him deserve to be punished, not only to correct their lives, but to set an example for others. However, he added, there are many cases in which the women need help because they are financially, physically, or mentally unable to help themselves.

"Some women picked up on abandonment charges are the victims of circumstances," declared Mrs. Ethel McDowell, director of the social service department in the Municipal court. "But we always have had abandonments and we always will. There always will be inadequate parents."

Urges Counsel for Mothers

The sister superior of St. Vincent's orphanage, who reported that the institution now has the custody of from 218 to 225 babies while in normal times it handled 165 infants, urged that the community education system include the advising of mothers who cannot or will not care for their children and therefore are about to abandon them.

"If the mother would contact an agency for help, she might be aided to keep the child, or if she desired to give up the baby's custody, it would at least have a record of its heritage to help in its placement," the sister said.

Miss Irene McMahon, head of the complaint department in the Juvenile home, lauded the suggestion for a community education system to cut down the increase in abandonments.

Abandonments are Increasing

"There definitely is an increase in abandonment cases," she reported. "Before the war we got only about one case a month, but now we are getting approximately a case every day or two. I firmly believe this could be remedied if neighbors would help mothers whose husbands are at war."

"I say hats off to American mothers," exclaimed Mrs. Aneita L. Tidball, executive secretary of Travelers Aid. "Mothers today are subjected to the greatest discipline of all time, greater even than in the pioneer days of the country because of the complexities of civilization. Except in isolated cases, which usually would be understandable if properly explored, they deprive themselves of much to keep their families together."

RADIO NETWORKS BREAK OUT WITH WHODUNIT RASH

BY LARRY WOLTERS

If there is any trend in network shows this summer it is an increased swing toward more detective and mystery shows. There are dozens of them on the networks and major stations. New ones have been added, some old ones revived.

Look at this lineup on W-G-N: Sunday, 1:45 p. m.—Mysteries of the Crooked Square; 2:30—The Sealed Book; 3:30—Crime Is My Pastime; 4—Adventures of Father Brown; 4:30—Nick Carter, Master Detective; 5—The Abbott Mysteries; 9:30—Mystery House.

Monday, 9:30 p. m. — Bulldog Drummond; Tuesday, 7:30 p. m.—Adventures of the Falcon; 9:30—Crime Files of Flamond; Thursday, 7:30 p. m.—Agatha Christie's Poirot; Saturday, 8:30 p. m.—Calling All Detectives.

Long List on WMAQ

WMAQ has a long list, too: Sunday, 6:30 p. m.—Bandwagon Mysteries, with Dick Powell; Tuesday, 9 p. m.—The Man Called X, with Herbert Marshall; Wednesday, 7 p. m.—Mr. and Mrs. North; 8:30—Mr. District Attorney; Thursday, 7 p. m.—The Adventures of Topper; 9—Mystery in the Air; Saturday, 5 p. m.— Country Sheriff; 6:30—Philo Vance; 7:30—Lights Out, and at 10:45 p. m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, Stay Tuned for Terror is aired.

WBBM's parade: Sunday, 7:30—Crime Doctor; Tuesday, 7 p. m.—Big Town; Wednesday, 6:30 p. m.—Ellery Queen; 7—The Saint; 8—Crime Photographer; Thursday, 7 p. m.—Suspense; Saturday, 6 p. m.—Master of Mystery. Two on a Clue is aired at 1 p. m. weekdays and Grand Jury at 10 p. m. weekdays.

Lone Ranger Still Riding

On WENR: Sunday, 8:15 p. m.—Hollywood Mystery Time; Wednesday, 9 p. m.—Counterspy; Friday, 8 p. m. — Famous Jury Trials; 8:30 — The Sheriff; 9—The Man from G-2. The Lone Ranger still rides at 6:30 p. m. Monday, Wednesday, and Friday. And Charlie Chan is heard at 5:45 weekdays over WCFL.

Almost every conceivable idea in whodunit writing is employed in this array. The only general rule is that the sleuth must always get his man. The thrillers show in a variety of ways that crime does not pay!

Wesley Jones, will hold a rehearsal at 8 p. m. today in the Metropolitan Community church, 41st st. and South Park way. Alien Vet to Be Turned Over to Federal Agents

Leonard Hekonium, 23, a dishonorably discharged soldier and an alien, will be turned over to federal authorities today when he is released from the Bridewell after working out a $200 disorderly conduct fine. Hekonium, who escaped from the Bridewell for two minutes July 19, is awaiting deportation to his native Finland. He overstayed a 29 day visitor's permit issued in August, 1943.

SON COMPLETES FAMILY'S 100 YEARS ON C.&N.W.

Edwin F. Works, 70, collector on a suburban train of the North Western railroad, will retire today after 51 years with the road. The day also will mark the completion of 100 years of service for the railroad by Works and his father, the late Fred J. Works. His father served the North Western 49 years. Edwin started as a brakeman on a run between Chicago and Crystal Lake in 1894. For the last eight years, he has been on the Chicago and West Chicago run. He could have retired five years ago but stayed on the job to help the war effort. He lives at 214 E. Geneva st., West Chicago.

Nation's Traffic Deaths Up 11 Per Cent from '43

The nation's traffic death toll of 1,920 for June raised to 11,160 the total for the first six months of 1945, the National Safety council reported yesterday. The half year figure, the council said, is 1 per cent below the same period last year, but 10 per cent higher than in 1943. June deaths, according to the report, were 11 per cent higher than the same month in 1943.
